PUBLISHERS' NOTICE.

THE Subscribers, in offering to the public this work, would recommend it to their patronage from its intrinsic value as a complete guide for strangers and others to all places of interest and attraction in the city, as well as an advertising medium of rare advantage—the benefits of which are incalculable, except to those who have paid attention to the “Philosophy of Advertising,” and found the rich harvest gathered from the many seeds sown in this way ; while others, from being “penny wise and pound foolish,” have found, alas, when too late, the fatal error they have fallen into by saying that “nobody reads advertisements.” This remark may apply to some works, but certainly not to this, in which the attractive qualities of their offices and merchandise are served up in so peculiar and inviting a form.

This work will be published annually, with additions and improvements, embracing descriptions of private mansions, country-seats, &c., &c., in the vicinity of Philadelphia, with an account of the principal events of the previous year, making it in fact "PHILADELPHIA AS IT IS," in each and every year.

PHILADELPHIA AS IT IS,

IN 1852.

A WORD TO THE READER.

SOME may think it unnecessary to make any prefatory remarks, by way of introduction, to a work of this character; but when the number of "Hand-books," "Guides," &c., already published, is considered, we may surely be justified in giving the "wherefore" which has induced us to add another to the catalogue, and thus make good our claim for a share of the public patronage and support, which we venture to believe ourselves entitled to.

To the descriptions of Philadelphia and its vicinity, which have already been published, it has been justly objected that they contain mere descriptions of buildings, &c., which, however correctly written, necessarily fail to arrest the attention, or impart that information and instruction, which books of this character are expected to afford. To remedy these and similar objections, the present work has been compiled, which, while it claims to be equal to any of its predecessors in general information, will, we hope, be considered superior, on account of its illustrations and descriptive detail. The map and engravings have been executed with great care. The illustrations comprehend some of the most interesting views and objects in this city and its vicinity. If the work meet the requirements of the public, our object will be attained.

A TALK ABOUT THE PAST AND THE PRESENT HISTORY OF THE CITY.

ONE hundred and seventy-one years ago, the site of Philadelphia was a wilderness. Our beautiful streets, now alive with the ceaseless hum of industry and the turmoil of commerce, was the hunting-ground of the Indian. Behold the change!

In the year 1681, the first settlers arrived from London, in the ship "Sarah and John," Captain Smith. The following year, William Penn, its great proprietor and founder, landed at the "Blue Anchor," near the mouth of Dock Creek.

The object this celebrated man had in establishing "the new Colony" was, using his own words, "to afford an asylum to the good and oppressed of all nations, to frame a government which might be an example, to show men as free and as happy as they could be." "I am," he writes, "spending my life and my money without being a sixpence enriched by my greatness. Had I sought greatness only, I had stayed at home, where the difference between what I am, and was offered and could have been there, in power and wealth, is as wide as the places are apart."

Everything connected with the settlement and early history of Philadelphia, indicates the enlarged and religious mind of this Pater Patriæ. The very name he chose is impressive, as importing in its original Greek sense—"brotherly love." The plan and limits were on the most magnificent scale. Had those original plans been carried out, Philadelphia would now have been the most splendid city in the world. They were feared, however, to be too extensive, and the contemplated city was reduced to one-fourth of the original plan.

The first house erected was the "Blue Anchor" tavern, situated near the mouth of Dock Creek, on the spot which is now the northwest corner of Dock and Front Streets. In 1684, the population was 2500 inhabitants. In the year 1701, Philadelphia was incorporated into a city. It increased rapidly at that early day. In 1739, a resident writes, that it was the admiration of all people who saw or heard of its flourishing condition in lands, in building houses, and shipping, in manufactures, and increase of population.

At present, Philadelphia extends from Southwark to Richmond, a distance of nearly five miles; and from the Delaware to the Schuylkill. Innumerable steamboats, sailboats, &c., travel along her shores—merchantmen and packets bring her the wealth of the most distant climes. Still her progress is onward.

The enterprise of her citizens was never more displayed than at present. Railroads and canals pour into her lap the treasures alike of our own mountains and the great valley of the glorious West. The city is extending with wondrous strides; year by year streets are being laid out, and houses, extending away for squares, arise, as by the hand of magic, on ground that lately "waved in golden harvest." Spring Garden and Penn, twelve years ago, were rural districts. Now look at them! We remember rambling, five years since, through fields immediately north of Poplar Street, where are now beautiful streets, adorned with tasty, and, in many instances, magnificent houses. In the "west end," the change is no less extraordinary. Who does not remember the "duck ponds" and "commons out Broad Street?" They are gone, and houses unrivalled, in any city, for architectural taste and elegance, now line Vine, Race, Arch, Chestnut, Walnut, Locust, Spruce, and the intermediate streets.

The Schuylkill no longer bounds us. Improvement is now in rapid march through the beautiful District of West Philadelphia. And no less marvellous are the changes taking place in Southwark, Moyamensing, &c. &c. Those of our citizens whose business or inclinations keep them from "rambling around," will be astonished and bewildered on visiting what they are apt to term the "outskirts of the city." A worthy gentleman, residing in Chestnut by Delaware Eighth Street, remarked to us the other day, that he lately took a walk out west of Broad Street, "and," said he, "I could not believe my eyes; I thought this could not possibly be Philadelphia. The change, sir, is most wonderful!"

LOCATION AND GENERAL DESCRIPTION.

This beautiful city is situated on a plain, bounded on the east by the River Delaware, on the west by the River Schuylkill, about five miles above their junction. "The city," or that part of it incorporated by the city Charter, and under its jurisdiction, is bounded on the north by Vine Street, and on the south by Cedar or South Street. The adjoining districts of Spring Garden, Penn, Northern Liberties, Kensington, and Richmond, on the north, West Philadelphia, &c., on the west, and Southwark, Moyamensing, &c., on the south, though governed by their own municipal authorities, ought always to be considered as forming a portion of the city, in a general and descriptive view.

The length of Philadelphia, from the lower part of Southwark to Richmond, is about five miles; its breadth, at Market Street (its narrowest part), is two miles.

The soil is the very best for building purposes, consisting principally, of clay of various colours and degrees of tenacity, beneath which, at different depths, of from five to twenty feet, is found coarse gravel.

Philadelphia is, perhaps, the most healthy city in the United States. The air is sweet and clear, the sky serene and seldom overcast. The streets are wide and airy, crossing at right angles; they surpass all others in the world, in their convenience for trade and accommodation for passengers, and are well paved and kept remarkably clean. At night they are well lighted with gas.

This metropolis is not celebrated for her palaces, yet she possesses some edifices remarkable for both grandeur and beauty. Her buildings are more distinguished for their neatness and comfort. This applies to both public buildings and private dwellings. It is the ambition of many an American belle, to be mistress of a "Philadelphia three-story brick." To live within his own family free from interruption, contest, or intrusion, to have his house clean and comfortable, his apartments adapted to their several purposes, and in every respect convenient, is our citizen's delight; to effect all these, the builder exerts his utmost skill. There is—and we say it without fear of contradiction—no other city, the inhabitants of which enjoy so many of the accommodations art can afford, as those of Philadelphia. Let foreigners talk of their splendid palaces, mansions, and rich dwellings; theirs is but the parade of pomp and vanity, ours is social comfort.

Most of the houses in this city are built on a uniform plan, being generally three stories high. Within the last few years, however, there has been a decided advance in the style of building, and our streets are now being adorned with edifices that are unrivalled for taste, elegance, and convenience.

The original plan of this city was made by Thomas Holmes, and surveyed in 1683, in which nine principal streets were laid out running east and west, and twenty running north and south. Market, or High Street, intended for the principal dwellings, is 100 feet wide, Broad is 113, Arch, or Mulberry, 66, Front 60, and the rest 50 feet wide. The intermediate streets were subsequently laid out. For a correct plan of all of which, see the accompanying map. Dock Street is the only one not crossed at right angles in the city. This marks the course of the once "Dock Creek." In olden times, trade and commerce, to a considerable extent, centred along its banks; vessels came up as far as Third Street. Early writers speak frequently of the "beautiful prospect along the green banks of the pretty Dock Creek." In the winter, it was a fine "skating-place for the boys." Subsequently tan-yards, &c., took up their location here, soon rendering it a place "dangerous to the health of the city." It was finally filled up in 1784.

In the original plan, PENN desired to preserve a clear view of the River Delaware from Front Street, restricting the buildings east of it to the height of the banks. What a noble promenade and exchange walk this would have formed! It was also his intention "that each house should stand in the middle of its lot, so as to leave room for a garden, &c., that Philadelphia might be a green country town, which might never be burned down, and always be wholesome!" What a splendid appearance our streets would now present, if this idea had been carried out! However, we must take the city as it is, and be thankful that it is so; for few can rival it in the health, comfort, pleasure, and happiness of its inhabitants.

Our city is not so thickly populated, for its extent, as some others. The streets are wide, and the inhabitants of every class enjoy more room than usual in large cities. Not only the merchant, wealthy manufacturer, and persons well to do in the world, occupy each an entire dwelling, but tradesmen of the most humble class can have a house to themselves.

In 1840, the population of the city and county was 258,037; at present it is about 440,000. The total number of dwelling houses in Philadelphia is about 60,000.

The wonderful increase of the city can be estimated by the fact, that there has been, on an average, over 3500 buildings erected annually for the past three years.

During the last year our commerce has increased rapidly. At present there are one line of first class steamers and four lines of sailing packets plying between this port and Liverpool. One line of two fine steamers, running to Charleston, South Carolina. One, viz., the Union Steamship Company, between Philadelphia, Norfolk, Petersburg, and Richmond, Virginia. One to Boston, viz., the Philadelphia and Boston Steam Packet line, of two splendid vessels. One to Hartford, Connecticut, two to New York, viz., the New York and Philadelphia Independent Steamship line, via Cape May, and the Philadelphia and New York Steam Transportation Company's Merchants' and Swiftsure line, and one to Baltimore.

Most of these vessels have been built in Philadelphia, and are unsurpassed as substantial sea-boats. The total number of ships, barques, brigs, schooners, steamers, barges, &c., entered in this port during the last year, was about 30,000. The value of imports, during the same period, $14,500,000.

THE COAL TRADE.—During the year 1850, the total value of anthracite coal sent to market at tidewater, amounted to over sixteen million dollars. Who can estimate the immense increase of this valuable trade twenty years hence, when steam, to a great extent, shall have taken the place of sails, in vessels navigating the ocean and our extended coast?

The following statement shows the present extent of this branch of domestic commerce.

The quantity of coal sent to market from the Lehigh in 1850 was 7,029,002 tons. From the Schuylkill, 15,176,623 tons. Lackawanna, 4,390,698 tons. Pine Grove, 525,733 tons. Lukens Valley, 96,935. Shamokin, 164,430 tons. Wyoming, 1,614,571,—being a total of 28,998,286 tons. Showing an increase over the preceding year, of 97,506 tons. The increase for the years 1851-52, will, it is evident from present appearances, be much larger.

The MANUFACTURES of the metropolis are very important, both as regards their magnitude and value; indeed, the manufacturing facilities of Philadelphia are unrivalled. Her vicinity abounds in immense water-power, and coal is to be obtained from our own mines at a low price. These, with the advantages of a home market, must continue to offer inducements to the manufacturer that cannot be equalled elsewhere. The goods and wares manufactured here consist of every variety. Articles of elegant use are brought to more than the ordinary degree of perfection.

The following statement, showing the capital invested in manufacturing, value of the raw material consumed, number of hands employed, wages paid, and the value of the annual product of this branch of industry in this City and Districts, during the year ending June 1st, 1850, is taken from the Census returns, furnished us by A. E. Roberts, Marshal of the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, viz.: Capital invested in manufacturing, $32,737,911; value of the raw material used, including fuel, &c., $33,515,366; average number of male hands employed, 43,304; average number of females employed, 14,804; average monthly cost of male labour, $1,062,799; average monthly cost of female labour, $208,584; value of the annual products, $62,815,011.

These estimates embrace only those establishments producing articles to the annual value of over $500.

We close these remarks with the following extract from the last Report of the Philadelphia Board of Trade. After alluding to the canals, railroads, and other improvements, connected with the city, together with those in contemplation, it goes on to say:

“It is to be hoped that Philadelphia will not be content with what she has done. Her commercial destiny exacts something more than self-complacent reflections on what she has accomplished ; for surely, if there is a spot on the face of the habitable globe, on which Nature, in the collocation and accumulation of her stores of mineral and agricultural wealth, has smiled benignantly and munificently, it is on this city. If intelligent foreigners, having the control of European capital, could be induced to scale the walls by which the pretensions of neighbouring communities endeavour to hide us from view, and come here and examine for themselves the resources and capabilities of Philadelphia and Pennsylvania—study, as suspiciously as they please, the social and moral character of her citizens, whether commercial men or not—find them, as they will, with rare exceptions, homogeneous as a population, of purely American conservative sentiment, untainted by the fanaticism and disloyalty which exists in one direction, and oppressed by none of the social institutions which exist in another ;—if capital from abroad, following the most purely selfish instinct, were to come here, seeking investments, nowhere could they be found more secure than in the internal commerce, the manufactures, the mining enterprises of Pennsylvania—in her public stocks, or in her real estate.”

THE STATE HOUSE, OR INDEPENDENCE HALL.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

THE STATE HOUSE, OR INDEPENDENCE HALL.—This interesting relic of the past deserves especial notice, and few strangers leave our city without visiting its venerated halls. It was commenced in 1729, and completed in 1734. The size, style, and rich interior decorations of such a building, at so early a day, are an evidence of the public spirit of our former citizens. The architecture and plan of this edifice are from designs by J. KEARSELY, the same who drew the plan of CHRIST CHURCH. The builder was E. WOOLEY. The original cost was £5600. The two wings were erected in 1740. Although frequently renovated, it presents the same appearance now, that it did in 1776.

In the east room of the first story, the immortal Declaration of Independence was passed by Congress, July 4th, 1776.

There are places which possess, in a peculiar degree, the power of awaking sensations in the mind. In their effect, we acknowledge the influence which has been so beautifully designated, the “magic of a scene.” Such an influence did we experience, standing in this “relic of olden days.” Everything in the room leads the mind back to the memorable time—to that decisive act, which has consecrated this room to undying fame. We see those patriotic men pondering on the magnitude of the step about to be taken. Some of them seem to waver. Silence—deep and solemn silence, reigns throughout. See “that aged man” arise. He “casts a look of inexpressible interest and unconquerable determination” on his fellow-patriots. He addresses them. Hear him! “There is a tide in the affairs of men, a nick of time; we perceive it now before us. That noble instrument upon your table, which insures immortality to its author, should be subscribed this very morning, by every member in the room. He who will not respond to its call is unworthy the name of freeman! Although these hairs must descend into the tomb, I would rather, infinitely rather they should descend thither by the hand of the public executioner, than desert, at this crisis, the sacred cause of my country." He ceases, but the fire of patriotism is kindled afresh in every bosom, and "forthwith the glorious deed is done." We behold these noble men peril their lives, their fortunes, and sacred honour, in the just and holy cause.* JOHN HANCOCK takes up the pen and signs his name in a large, bold hand, and then rises, saying: "There! John Bull can read my name without spectacles, and may now double his reward for my head. That is my defiance!"

Who does not love to read the history of his native land, and dwell with pleasure upon the exploits of her heroic sons? Is it to be wondered, then, that this room, so intimately connected with our national existence, recalls a hundred scenes from the past? This is the shrine of American liberty! Long may it remain an object of veneration to future millions of freemen!

The west room, on the same floor, is at present occupied by the Court of Common Pleas.

Proceeding up stairs, we come to the "Lobby," famed in colonial days as being the scene of many a sumptuous feast. The large room to the westward was the Senate chamber of the first Congress. In the rooms fronting Chestnut Street, to the east, the Committees of Congress in 1776 met to prepare their various reports. The "Lobby" at that time extended the entire length of the building eastward from the landing; a

These ships are all of the first class, recently built in Philadelphia; and for strength, swiftness, and beauty of model, as well as for the extent and comfort of accommodations for passengers, are unsurpassed by any in the trade.

The cabins are handsome and commodious; the forward cabins and steerages large, airy, and well lighted.

The captains are experienced navigators, and kind and attentive to the comfort of passengers; and skilful surgeons accompany the ships.

This line of Packets has been maintained regularly since its establishment in 1822, during the whole time losing but one passenger from accidents of the sea.

Persons intending to embark for Liverpool, or desirous of bringing their friends thence to this country, can secure passage in the cabin, forward cabin, or steerage, by applying, either personally or by letter, to the owners.

room is now partitioned off it. In this Lobby, the American officers captured at the battle of Germantown, were confined. In it, too, many a noble fellow, wounded at the battle of Brandywine, breathed his last. (This portion of the building was fitted up as a temporary hospital immediately after that battle.)

The whole of this story is leased by the General Government, and is now used for the sittings of the Circuit and District Courts of the United States for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania.

The original steeple was taken down in 1774, the woodwork being found in a state of decay. The present one was erected in 1828, and is as near like the old structure as circumstances would permit. It contains an excellent clock, the four dial-plates of which are of ground glass. They are illuminated at night, in the summer to eleven, and in the winter to ten o'clock. The hours are struck on a fine-toned bell, which is also used to give the alarm and indicate the direction of fires.

The "Old Bell," cast purposely for this edifice when first erected, is carefully preserved in the steeple. It was imported from England in 1752, "but got cracked by the stroke of a hammer in trying the sound." It was recast, under the direction of Isaac Norris, then a prominent member of the colonial Assembly: to him we are indebted for the prophetic inscription which it bears.

"The motto of our Father land,
Circled the world in its embrace;
'Twas Liberty throughout the land,
And good to all their brother race!
Long here—within the pilgrim's bell,
Had lingered—though it often pealed—
Those treasured tones that eke should tell
When Freedom's proudest scroll was sealed!"

ence of which is to last through all time. Subsequently it was fractured; and it is now preserved as a hallowed relic of the past.

The panoramic view of the city from the steeple is strikingly beautiful.

The first story of the east wing, contains the offices of the Prothonotary of the Supreme Court of the State, the Register of Wills, the Recorder of Deeds, and the Clerk of the Orphans' Court. In the second story is the room used for the sittings of the Supreme Court of the State for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, together with the offices of the Recorder of the city, and the District Attorney.

In the first story of the west wing, are the offices of the Clerk of the Court of Common Pleas, the Clerk of the District Courts, the Clerk of the Court of Quarter Sessions, and the Sheriff's office. The second story of this wing contains the County Auditor's, the County Treasurer's, and the County Commissioners' offices, and a chamber used for the sittings of the County Board.

The building on the southwest corner of Chestnut and Fifth Streets is the City Hall. When are we to have a better one? It contains the Mayor's Court and offices, the City Clerk's, the City Treasurer's, and the Watering Committee's offices; the Commissioner of City Property, and the City Commissioners' offices, together with the offices of the Clerk of the Select Council, and the Clerk of the Common Council, and a neatly fitted up Council chamber. That on the southeast corner of Chestnut and Sixth Streets is at present used for the sittings of the Nisi Prius Court, the District Courts, and the Court of Quarter Sessions.

The Law Library is located in the second story. This building was the "Old Congress Hall." Here Washington bade farewell to public life, and delivered that memorable UMBRELLA MANUFACTURE.

114 Market Street.

Since the days when men, who ventured to use this, now considered necessary article, were hooted after in the streets, umbrellas have crept into use, from one bold innovator to another, until the time when its value as a highly useful and health-preserving article was generally acknowledged. From that time its use has increased so rapidly, that at present no house, and scarcely an individual, from Maine to California, is without "My Umbrella." But, seriously, this branch of manufacture is acquiring great importance; it is now looked upon as a staple article, and heavy capitalists readily invest both attention and vast pecuniary means, in a production long treated with ridicule.

Of the vast quantity of material consumed in this manufacture, we can give some idea from the statistics of a Philadelphia house, WRIGHT, BROTHERS & Co., one of the oldest and heaviest in the United States, and who manufacture about one-tenth of all the Umbrellas used in America.

This house produces an average of 1000 umbrellas and parasols a day, or 300,000 per annum, and consumes 550,000 yards—equal to 320 miles—of silks, cottons, and gingham; upwards of 100,000 pounds of rattan; about 38 tons, or 200,000 pieces of horn, bone, and other ornamental mountings. Of whalebone, the house alluded to above consumes 100,000 pounds, equal to about one-thirtieth of the average product of the whale fisheries of the world.

Such is the extent and variety of the mechanism used, and the perfection and nicety with which it is adapted to the purpose, that, with the help of ample steam power, all this vast quantity of material changes its form, and 300,000 Umbrellas are manufactured in the establishment of the Messrs. Wright, with the help of only 300 hands, constantly employed under one roof. All parts of the umbrella are now arranged with mathematical accuracy by the machinery used, some of which was invented by one of the proprietors of the establishment, from which the above information was obtained, and can be used by no other manufactory. The system to which all parts of this branch of manufacture are reduced, is now so perfect as to place the cost of production very low; and the few immense establishments with this powerful aid of extensive and appropriate mechanical contrivances are fast swallowing up the smaller shops, and placing their goods far below competition from hand labour and ordinary machinery—in addition to forming the article with a beauty and accuracy only to be obtained from the best mechanical means.

address, which will ever be cherished as a sacred legacy by his admiring countrymen.

UNITED STATES CUSTOM HOUSE.

THE CUSTOM HOUSE, formerly the United States Bank, situated on the south side of Chestnut above Fourth Street, is a splendid marble edifice. It has two fronts, one on Chestnut, and one on Library Street, each ornamented by eight fluted columns of the Doric order, 27 feet high, and 4 feet 6 inches in diameter, supporting a heavy entablature of the same order. It is in imitation of the celebrated Parthenon at Athens. The structure is built upon a platform, 87 feet in front and 161 feet deep. The view from Chestnut Street is much enhanced by its elevation and recession. It bears altogether the features of unassuming grandeur, and chaste simplicity.

The principal apartment is 81 feet long by 48 wide, richly ornamented by fluted Ionic columns, and sculptured embellishments.

MARKETS.

Few cities can boast of markets better supplied with the bounties of nature than Philadelphia. Let the reader, particularly if a stranger, take a tour of observation through them, especially on Wednesday and Saturday mornings, and he will behold an exceedingly interesting and gratifying spectacle. He will find those buildings well supplied with all kinds of meat, poultry, game, fish, vegetables, fruit, &c., while the streets in the immediate vicinity are crowded in all directions with well-filled baskets.

These markets, distributed throughout the city, embrace altogether over forty entire squares, in addition to the range of wagon stands on Market Street and Second Street, which of themselves form a line equal in extent to three miles. There are inspectors appointed by the city and district authorities, whose duty it is to enforce the regulations respecting the weight, &c., to see that no unwholesome food is offered for sale, and that the stalls and buildings are kept clean and in order. The locations of the markets are as follows.

HIGH STREET MARKET.—Those long ranges of buildings that line this noble avenue, were not contemplated in the original plan of the city. Penn designed Centre Square for this purpose. The first of these houses was erected in 1710; it extended half way up from Second Street. In 1729, it was carried up to Third Street, where, for a long period, it was marked with the appendages of Pillory, Stocks, and Whipping Post. (The last remembered criminal punished here, was a genteel store-keeper, convicted of forgery. The gentleman made amends to an injured public, by having his face well pelted with rotten eggs, and his ears clipped by the sheriff.) In the same year, councils erected twenty stalls “for the accommodation of such as bring provisions from New Jersey.” These were moveable stalls, and were placed east of Second Street. The present New Jersey market was erected in 1765. A portion of this building was used for several years as an Exchange. In 1773, the markets were extended to Fourth Street. These encroachments on the beautiful High Street met with much and determined opposition as being "shameful obstructions." Finally, the "market interests" prevailed, and the extensions gradually went on. They now reach from the Delaware to Eighth Street, and from Schuylkill Sixth to Schuylkill Eighth Street. In 1836, the old market-houses were torn down, and the present light and airy structures erected. This change was rendered necessary to allow passage-room for the city railroad.

WATER-WORKS.

THE FAIRMOUNT WATER-WORKS, from which the City of Philadelphia is supplied with water, is situated on the east bank of the Schuylkill River, a short distance above the boundary line of the city proper, at which place a water-power was obtained by the erection of a dam across the river. This dam was built by sinking wooden cribs filled with stone; it is 1248 feet long, part being founded upon rock, which is dry at low tide, and the remainder being sunk through mud to rock, in some places to the depth of 30 feet below high tide. This dam was erected in 1819, and has successfully withstood seven freshets, in two instances having as much as ten and a half feet of water flowing over it. The water backed up by the dam is conducted into a forebay on the back and east side of the mill-buildings, the whole of which forebay, as well as the site upon which the mill-buildings stand, was excavated from the solid rock; the length of this race or forebay is 419 feet, and the depth of the excavation necessary to form it was 60 feet. The forebay is 90 feet wide, and 6 feet deep below the top of the dam, which allows a passage of the water to the mill-buildings, on its west side to the wheels, which discharge the water into the river below. The mill-building is of stone, 238 feet long and 56 feet wide, divided into 12 apartments, four of which contain 8 double-acting forcing pumps, 16 inches in diameter, and 6 feet stroke; the other apartments, are forebays leading to eight water-wheels. On the east front of the mill-buildings, over the pump and forebay chambers, is a terrace 256 feet long, and 26 feet wide, paved with brick, forming a handsome walk along the race. Three of the water-wheels are formed of wood, but the remainder are of cast iron, varying in size from 16 to 18 feet in diameter, all, however, being 15 feet wide. These wheel-pumps are each calculated to raise into the reservoir about one and a half million gallons of water per twenty-four hours; they elevate the water a perpendicular height of 92 feet. Each pump has its own distinct main, of sixteen inches in diameter, running up into the reservoir. The water in the reservoirs, when they are full, is 102 feet above low tide in the Schuylkill, and 56 feet above the highest ground in the city. The reservoirs are built with stone walls, paved upon the bottom with bricks laid in cement upon puddled clay. The depth of water in them, when full, is 12 feet 3 inches; there are four main reservoirs, divided by stone walls, containing together 22,031,976 ale gallons. The larger portion of these reservoirs are upon artificial ground, raised in some parts forty feet above the original of the hill. The cost of all the reservoirs was \$133,822. The water passes from the reservoirs to the city through three iron mains, one of 20 inches diameter, one of 22 inches diameter, and one of 30 inches diameter; and is then distributed through the city in pipes from 3 to 30 inches diameter. Upwards of 81 miles in the city proper only. The water is also supplied to the districts of Southwark and Moyamensing through $26\frac{1}{2}$ miles of pipes more. During the year 1850, the supply of water to the city and lower districts averaged throughout the whole year 4,785,338 ale gallons per day. The average supply for the months of June and July, was however 6,247,209 gallons per day. This supply was furnished to 27,550 water tenants. In the city, there are 648 fire hydrants, for use in case of fire, and in the lower districts 272 more. The amount of water rents for 1851, per duplicate books, is \$138,874 42. The water-works at Fairmount were started July 1, 1822, and from the commencement to December 31, 1850, including the cost of erection, and with the yearly additions to the works themselves, together with the extensions of the iron pipes in the city each year, they have cost \$1,615,169 82. The whole of these works (with the exception of the dam across the river), including the plan of distribution of the water in the city, were designed and executed by the late Frederick Graff, Esq.; and for efficiency and simplicity are not exceeded by any similar works now in operation.—The City of Philadelphia was the first in the United States that possessed a water-works, it being supplied by steam power previous to the erection of the present works at Fairmount; it has therefore served as a model for almost all public improvements of this kind erected in the country.

are 36 inches diameter, and 6 feet stroke; the pump cylinders are 18 inches diameter, and 6 feet stroke. The fly-wheel attached to one engine is 18 feet in diameter, the rim weighing 8840 lbs.; the working velocity is about 13 revolutions per minute.

The boilers are each 13 feet 8 inches in length, by 7 feet 9 inches; they are so arranged that either engine may receive steam from one or both boilers: the steam-pipes, &c., are clothed in woollen and cased in wood; the boilers are enclosed with brick: average working pressure of steam is 16 lbs. to the square inch, and the cut-off valves are worked at half stroke.

There are two ascending mains, of 18 inches diameter each. Total distance from the pump to the reservoir, is 3250 feet; the elevation of the reservoir from low-water mark is 115 feet.

The reservoir is beautifully situated a short distance to the west of Girard College; it is capable of containing 9,800,000 gallons; its depth is 15 feet, the banks of which are composed of earth, the whole being lined with a course of clay and gravel puddle-stuff, and faced with a brick pavement, laid in the bottom flat, and edgewise on the sides. It is divided into two apartments.

There are two distributing mains, 16 inches diameter each.

This valuable work was completed, at a cost of $159,074 65, in the year 1845.

taking ; and although its accomplishment was secured without any liability on the part of the city, they shrunk from what was considered a novel and unsafe means of furnishing artificial light. Now, happily, all these apprehensions have yielded to an enlarged experience, and we question whether there is any respectable member of the community willing to abandon a system, that, so far, has worked so well. Indeed, in the possession of the Fairmount Water-works and the Philadelphia Gas-works, our citizens occupy a position of proud superiority over those of her sister cities.

The entire area occupied by this establishment is about seven acres and a half, with a river front of 800 feet. The buildings constituting the works are arranged into two general divisions, A and B, but conveniently described as the old and new works. Each division is composed of subordinate sections, numbered 1, 2, 3, 4, in the old, and 1 and 2 in the new group.

Every section is a complete and independent gas factory, capable of being worked unconnected with all the others, as a separate and distinct establishment, but the whole are arranged symmetrically, and are susceptible of connexion, so that gas produced in any section may be passed through the purifying apparatus and meter of any other, at will.

The separate buildings comprise two retort-houses, two purifying-houses, two meter-rooms, containing six station meters and four conical governors, two ranges of workshops, and coke-sheds and offices, three coal-stores, two perpetual lime-kilns, and eleven gas-holders.

The retort-houses are 195 feet long and 48 feet wide, comprising eight sections, containing 240 retorts ; they are built of brick, and rest upon arches supported by cast iron girders, giving space for the storage of over 50,000 bushels of coal beneath the floors ; the roof frames are of wrought iron, covered with slate ; the height of the chimneys is 100 feet.

For Bedsteads, Drawing-room, Bed-room, and Dining-room Windows.

The range of offices, meter-room, and workshop, belonging to the old works, is 133 feet by 20, the coke-shed 170 by 24 feet, and the coal-shed 80 by 50 feet, arranged around a hollow square. The extent of the range of offices, smithshop, and meter-house of the new works, is 122 by 120 feet; the coke-shed, store-rooms, &c., 270 by 22 feet.

Between the retort-houses is an underground coal-store, 40 by 190 feet, capable of containing 40,000 bushels.

The lime-kilns are built of stone, in the usual form of perpetual kilns.

The southern coal-store is constructed in four sections, 100 feet long, 30 feet wide, joined side by side, so that they constitute one building, 100 by 120 feet, with a roof supported on stone piers 18 feet high; its capacity is about 200,000 bushels.

The old works contain 8 gas-holders, of 50 feet diameter and 35,000 cubic feet capacity each. Of those connected with the new division, two are of 80 feet diameter, containing 200,000 cubic feet each, and one of 140 feet diameter, with a capacity of one million cubic feet! all of the telescope form. The guide frames of these gas-holders are entirely of cast iron; those of the 80-feet holders, are composed of 6 stands of fluted columns, arranged in pairs, with an entablature to each pair, and raised to three tiers in height, there being 36 columns to each gas-holder, the whole bound together at the top by iron open-work girders. The large holder is guided by twelve sets of columns, standing in groups of three, raised four tiers high; the lower tier is of the Tuscan, the second Doric, the third Ionic, and the upper the Corinthian order of architecture. The number of columns is 144, and the whole height of the structure above the coping of the tank, is seventy-four feet, and the depth of the tank thirty-six feet.

A high standard of illuminating quality of gas has been adopted and constantly maintained at these works, by the use of the proper varieties of coals, or by the addition of a proportion of resin when the coals should chance to fall below the proper standard.

The quality aimed at, is that designated "twenty-candle gas;" that is to say, the light of an argand burner, consuming four feet an hour, is equal to that of twenty sperm candles, six to the pound: this quality has generally been obtained, without the aid of resin, by the use of certain varieties of coals from the western part of our own State.

The quantity of gas manufactured during the year, is one hundred and eighty-two millions and sixteen thousand cubic feet. The maximum production in 24 hours is eight hundred and eighty-seven thousand cubic feet. The highest consumption during the same period was one million and twelve thousand feet. A more definite notion of the magnitude of this volume of gas will be obtained, by converting it into gallons, of which it will make seven and a half millions, or about the same as the daily consumption of hydrant water in the summer months.

The extent of main pipes laid in the streets, is five hundred thousand two hundred and sixty-seven feet, or about $94\frac{1}{4}$ miles! The number of meters in use is 9,238, and the whole number of customers on the books, is 9,216, using 115,004 lights, besides 1,464 in the streets, 50 in the market-houses, and 62 in the public squares. The total extent of street, main, and service pipe, is nearly 115 miles.

Extensive as are these works, it appears that they will not be adequate to supply the increasing demand; it is therefore proposed to erect new works. A desirable location has been obtained for this purpose, containing about 70 acres, at Point Breeze, immediately on the banks of the River Schuylkill, in which additional works are to be erected at once. It is contemplated, in time, to remove the old works to this place entirely.

SPRING GARDEN DISTRICT GAS-WORKS are located on the east bank of the Schuylkill, below Fairmount.

NORTHERN LIBERTIES GAS-WORKS are situated on Laurel near Beach Street.

THE NAVY YARD.—This national establishment is situated on the banks of the River Delaware in the District of Southwark. The grounds embrace about twelve acres, which were purchased by the General Government, in 1801, for the sum of $37,500. The present assessment is $250,000. By an act of Assembly, passed in 1818, no street is to be run through the property, while occupied for its present purpose. The area is enclosed on three sides by a substantial brick wall; the fourth side fronts on the river. The various buildings are the officers' residence, quarters for the marines, &c., the moulding lofts (the most spacious in the country for modelling ships of war), workshops and store-houses,—and two ship-houses, one of them being the largest in the United States. It is 270 feet long, 103 feet high, and 84 feet wide. The other house is 210 feet in length, 80 in height, and 74 in width.

To the south of these houses is

THE UNITED STATES DRY DOCKS.—They consist of a Sectional Floating Dry Dock of nine sections, capable of raising the largest steam vessels and ships of the line. Nine years' experience in the harbour of New York, has proved that this dock for the repairing of vessels possesses the greatest facility for docking, and that it has many advantages over the ordinary stone dock. When the vessel is raised from the water, she rests upon keel and bilge blocks, her entire length being supported by them or by shoring, if desirable, upon a floor as long as may be required, and 105 feet wide. Her keel being above the surface of the water, her whole bottom and bilge are ex-

CHILSON'S PATENT AIR WARMING AND VENTILATING FURNACES.

Final Improvements Patented November 19th, 1851.

FOR THOROUGHLY WARMING AND VENTILATING DWELLINGS, CHURCHES, SCHOOLHOUSES, COURTHOUSES, HOSPITALS, STORES, ETC.

A complete and perfect system of ventilating, as well as warming buildings, with an abundant supply of fresh, healthful warm air, (uninjured in the process of warming by overheated iron) creating a salubrious atmosphere in the apartments warmed, not unlike that of a mild summer's day. This invention is unlike anything of the common hot air furnaces or heater kind, and is the result of many years' thorough practical experience in the invention and manufacture of various kinds of heaters, and in fully developing and perfecting this principle. Every part of this Furnace and plan of setting it have been thoroughly subjected to the most severe practical tests, to insure its perfect operation, in every respect, in accordance with the laws of nature that govern the elements of air and heat. Particular care has been paid to attain the following points, viz.: to secure all the heat generated from the fuel, and avoid all overheated pots or plates; to prevent the escape and loss of heat in cellars; to connect the joints so as to allow expansion, and yet proof against the escape of smoke or gas; to insure great durability. Unlike the common furnaces, it requires no repairs, with ordinary care, during a lifetime. It is perfectly safe against firing buildings. It is not complicated in its arrangement, nor liable to get out of order, and easily managed.

We are permitted to refer to over eight hundred gentlemen having these furnaces in use, some in public, and others in private buildings, many of whom are professional gentlemen, whose scientific attainments in such matters are well known.

These Furnaces have been exhibited four times at the recent fairs, and have received as first premiums one Gold and three Silver Medals; also the HIGHEST PREMIUM at the World's Fair.

We have also five sizes of a superior Portable Furnace, combining the principles of the Brick Furnace; also a complete assortment of Registers, Hot Air Grates, Ventilators, and every variety of Warming and Ventilating Apparatus, adapted to all classes of buildings.

Also a full assortment of those beautiful and substantial Metallic or Mirror Marble Chimney Mantels, Parlour and Chamber Frame Grates, Cooking Ranges, &c. For sale, Wholesale and Retail, at the posed to light, and dry air, enabling mechanics to work at a much less cost, and with less danger to health, than when confined to the narrow and wet bottom of a stone dock, rendered dark by the projection of the bilge and guards of a vessel.

In connexion with this Floating Dry Dock, a basin and two sets of level ways have been constructed, multiplying the capacity of the works to that of three of the largest stone docks in the world, each set of ways being fitted to receive the largest steam vessel or ship of the line. The bottom of the basin is horizontal, and 350 feet long, by 226 feet wide, enclosed by a wall of granite, except upon the river front, three feet higher than ordinary high tides. The floor and the walls of the basin rest upon a pile foundation, capped with heavy timbers, covered with 6 inch plank, over which a granite floor, 10 inches thick, has been laid. The masonry of the works is all laid in hydraulic cement. The ways also rest upon piles, capped with timber, covered with large blocks of granite.

When a vessel requires extensive repairs, the floating dock, with the vessel on it, is made to rest on the solid floor of the basin, by letting water into it; a sliding frame, or cradle, is placed under her keel and bilges, and a powerful hydraulic cylinder, connected with the centre way, is attached to the cradle. She is then slid from the floating dock by the hydraulic power upon one of the sets of ways.

The contract price for the Sectional Floating Dry Dock, was $402,683; and for the basin, two railways, hydraulic cylinder, &c., $411,059, making for the three capacities or docks the total sum of $813,742.

These works were commenced in the month of January, 1849, and completed in the month of June, 1851. Colonel Burnett, U. S. Engineer, superintended their construction.

UNITED STATES MINT.

THE UNITED STATES MINT.—This national establishment is located in Chestnut near Broad Street. The act of Congress for the establishment and regulation of a Mint was passed in 1792. In 1829 an additional act was passed for the enlargement of its operations, and in the same year the corner-stone of the present building was laid. It presents a front of 122 feet, divided into a portico 62 feet long, and two wings 30 feet each. The structure is of the Ionic order, taken from a Grecian temple at Athens. The portico is supported by six beautiful pillars, 25 feet high, and 3 feet in diameter. It is a brick edifice faced with marble ashlar.—This is a suitable and extensive establishment for the purpose of coinage. The steam engine and mechanical contrivances used in the milling, stamping, &c., are the most beautiful that can be imagined. Visitors are admitted every day from 9 to 12 o'clock, except Saturdays and Sundays.

PHILADELPHIA POST-OFFICE.—There is no possible event that would cause so great a revolution in the world, as the cessation of “The Post.” It would be a sort of imprisonment to the universal mind—a severing of affections—a congelation of thought. It would be building up a wall of separation between the hearts of mother and child, husband and wife, and brother and sister; it would raise Alps between the breasts of friend and friend, and extinguish, as with an ocean, the love that is now breathed out in all its glowing fervour, despite time and space.

If ever man deserved a monument, it was the inventor of writing. Who was he? It is the next best gift to life itself; but without the medium of the post, it would be divested of half its advantages. Government and the wealthy, it is true, could send their messengers; but these would not avail to any extent the merchant, and not at all the tradesman or artisan, who now can receive the most needful intelligence, or kindest effusions of regard, from any distance for almost nothing.

To depict all the interests connected with the post, would be to read the history of human life; there is no interest that concerns the happiness of man carried on and perfected without it. It is the most perfect system of intercourse that has ever been devised,—it scatters wealth and joy in a thousand directions; no place is too remote, no village too insignificant for it to visit. Like the sun dispensing light, it goes its daily round.

The first post established in this city, was in 1683; when William Penn granted authority to Henry Waldy to hold one from Philadelphia to New Castle, whence it connected with one to Maryland. This post went once per week.

In 1700, an act was passed by the Assembly for the establishment of a post-office. In 1753, the daily delivery of letters in the city by carriers, was introduced. In the following year, a mail was established, three times a week, between New York and Philadelphia, and new and general regulations introduced for the carrying of the mail throughout the country ; for these improvements we are indebted to Benjamin Franklin, the then postmaster. In 1775, the second Congress established a general post-office, under a postmaster-general, located in this city ; Franklin was appointed to the office, with a salary of $1000 per annum. The communication between distant places at that period (yet it is but a day in the history of our country), was very uncertain. The following amusing instance will illustrate the slow and incorrect manner in which news was then transmitted, and shows us, by an extract from an old newspaper of 1777, published at Nottingham, England, how much in actual advance we are of the "good old times." "On November the 8th, news was received in this town of the total defeat of Washington's army in America, by the British forces under Sir William Howe, on Long Island, near New York.* Great was the rejoicing thereat ; the church bells were rung, the people met in crowds in the streets, and congratulated each other, speeches were made, guns were fired, and some enthusiastic spirits, not content with these demonstrations, procured a donkey and sat an effigy of Washington upon it, which after being paraded about, was finally burnt with great triumph, at night. The glorious news was further confirmed this morning by a letter received at the Duke of Newcastle's house at Clumber Park." We wonder if an extraordinary gazette ever arrived with a full confirmation of the glorious defeat ?

Since the Revolution, great changes and improvements have been introduced into this national establishment. The mind can hardly realize the vast extent of its operations ; keeping up communications, as it does, not only with every portion of our own country, but with the whole world. From its centre at Washington, its rays diverge in all directions.

The Branch establishment in Philadelphia, is in the basement story of the Exchange Building, Third and Dock Streets. It is open daily, from 7 A. M. to 7 P. M., and two hours in the morning on Sundays. The Eastern mail closes at $3\frac{3}{4}$ P. M.; the Western at 7 P. M.; Southern at 7 P. M.; and the Northern at 5 o'clock A. M.

The officers are W. J. P. White, postmaster; J. E. Latta, chief clerk; J. C. Montgomery, superintendent, assisted by forty-five clerks, thirty-eight carriers, and four collectors.

In addition to the usual post-office facilities, Philadelphia possesses the advantage of the most complete City Post in this country. Blood's Despatch Post, conducted by Messrs. Blood and Kochersperger, was established in 1845, and was for a long time considered a doubtful experiment. By its attention to the public interest, and by continued improvement, it has now become a necessary convenience to business men and families.

Several hundred box stations are scattered over the city, from which letters are collected every two hours; and thousands of letters are thus collected and distributed daily. Careful, intelligent men only are employed as carriers, and as each letter is stamped with the date and hour of delivery, great promptness and reliability are obtained.

PLACES OF AMUSEMENT.

CHESTNUT STREET THEATRE.

THE CHESTNUT STREET THEATRE (in Chestnut above Sixth Street), in point of architectural beauty, is the most elegant in the city. It was erected from designs by Wm. Strickland, in 1822. The entrance front is an arcade, supporting a screen of Composite columns, flanked by two wings, in which are niches containing statues of Comedy and Tragedy by Rush. Immediately below these are semicircular recesses, with basso-relievos representing the tragic and comic Muses.

The principal approach to the boxes is from Chestnut Street, through an arcade of five entrances, opening into a vestibule, communicating at each end with the Box-office and the Manager's Room. Screen doors, immediately opposite, and corresponding to the entrance of the arcade, lead from the vestibule into spacious lobbies, from whence two flights of ample stairways conduct to the second and third floors, and to a splendid saloon and coffee-rooms on the second floor.

The audience part of the house is a semicircle of 45 feet in diameter, containing three rows of boxes, resting on cast iron columns, and secured with iron sockets, from the foundation to the dome; the whole being combined laterally with a strong wall, bounding the lobbies and supporting the roof. The dress circle of the boxes is on a line with the columns, covered with a canopy. The dome is 46 feet in diameter, rising 6 feet to the crown, which is perforated and formed into a ventilator. The interior is richly decorated.

The dimensions of the building are 90 by 150 feet. Exclusive of the lobbies it will accommodate over 2000 persons; and the doorways, which open outwards, are so wide and numerous, as to discharge the most crowded audience in less than five minutes.

WALNUT STREET THEATRE, corner of Walnut and Ninth Streets. This was formerly called the "Olympic." It was built in 1809, as a Circus. In 1828, the building was enlarged and improved, under the superintendence of Mr. HAVILAND, and is now the most fashionable theatre in Philadelphia. It is 90 feet fronting on Walnut Street, and 146 feet in depth on Ninth Street.

ARCH STREET THEATRE is an elegant edifice, situated in Arch Street above Sixth. There is no place of amusement in this city where the public are better catered for, or where the amusements are more varied than at the "Arch," novelties being produced in quick succession. The present proprietor is a gentleman of spirit and taste.

SWAIM'S BUILDING, situated on the south-east corner of Chestnut and Seventh Streets, is an imposing edifice, of recent construction. It is in the Italian or Palladian style of architecture, with a red sandstone front. This material was obtained from Thorn's Quarries on the Hudson River.

The Chestnut Street façade has a light and elegant appearance. The lower story, or basement, finishes with a corridor, supported on an order of antæ; from this the structure is four stories to the heavy cornice of consoles, dentals, scrolls, and a balustrade of good proportions.

There are two entrances to the establishment. One on Chestnut Street, which is the principal, and one on Seventh Street. The second story is devoted to "Barnum's wonders" in art and nature.

The Lecture Room occupies the entire upper part of the building. G. P. CUMMINGS, Esq., was the architect.

SANSOM STREET HALL, Sansom Street west of Sixth Street, was erected in 1848, under the direction and from the design of Mr. CUMMINGS, for a Public Bath-house and Lyceum. The front is a mixture of Greek and Italian architecture. The first story, or bath entrance, commences with an order from the baths of Diocletian, a celebrated structure in Rome; over this order, large windows, highly enriched, complete the façade to the cornice, which is finished in corner consoles, blocking courses, &c.

The bath-rooms are of convenient size and elegant finish, furnished with hot and cold water, shower douches, &c. Two entrance doors lead to a large saloon, 100 by 45 feet, with an enriched ceiling, which, with the walls, is beautifully painted. The upper rooms are occupied by societies, schools, &c. Messrs. WELCH'S NATIONAL THEATRE AND CIRCUS.—This establishment is situated in Chestnut Street below Ninth. Its amusements consist of equestrian exercises and grand spectacles. Few managers are more liberal in their endeavours to please the public than Mr. LENT, the present Manager.

Besides the Theatres, there are several large and splendid halls for exhibitions, concerts, balls, &c., &c., among which we notice—

THE PHILADELPHIA MUSEUM BUILDING, Ninth and George Streets. This is an immense structure, 238 feet long by 70 feet wide, erected for the exhibition of PEALE'S Museum. The lower story is designated "The Chinese Saloon," from being occupied by Mr. DUNN'S splendid collection of Chinese curiosities, previous to its removal to Europe. The second story is "The Museum," having been occupied by PEALE'S collection until sold. The Lecture Room, on George Street, has been rendered famous by the exhibition of Signor BLITZ'S popular and striking deceptions in legerdemain. The Signor's sleight of hand astonishes the illiterate and puzzles the intelligent.

THE ASSEMBLY BUILDING, Tenth and Chestnut Streets, is a substantial and ornamental edifice.

THE FRANKLIN HALL, Sixth Street below Arch, contains a large and elegant room, admirably adapted for concerts, lectures, &c.

THE MASONIC HALL, Chestnut below Eighth Street. This large and commodious edifice was erected for the accommodation of the different Masonic Lodges of the city, in 1809, and is more remarkable for size than beauty. It is now used for balls, exhibitions, &c., &c.

27,500 dollars ; since that time various improvements have been made, the most important of which was in 1847, when sixteen feet were added to the front, making a saloon of 123 feet in length and 60 feet in width, giving the longest ceiling in the country without being supported by columns.

It has a temporary orchestra on the south end, sufficient for the accommodation of 150 performers. The saloon will seat 2000 persons. This hall, in regard to its musical effects, stands unrivalled.

The lower story contains a supper-room, library of music, a suite of dressing-rooms, and the superintendent's office. There are at present connected with it about 60 life members, 60 professional musicians, and nearly 300 annual subscribers.

The Musical Fund Hall is a favourite with our citizens, being occupied nearly the whole business season, for concerts, balls, lectures, and singing-schools. Its central location and quiet neighbourhood add greatly to its advantages. The superintendent of the Hall, Mr. THOMAS J. BECKET, is at all times on or near the premises, and takes much pleasure in giving information, or exhibiting this really elegant building.

PUBLIC SQUARES.

INDEPENDENCE SQUARE, formerly called the State House Yard. This is a beautiful and favourite promenade. The Declaration of Independence was first publicly read in this Square, by CAPTAIN HOPKINS, of the Navy, July 8th, 1776 : hence the name.

Those handsome buildings on Walnut Street, facing this Square, and on Sixth Street, facing the Washington Square, occupy the site of the "Old Prison." During the Revolution, it was the "British Provost," and at one time they had within its gloomy walls over 900 American prisoners, under the charge of the ever-infamous Captain Cunningham. These

WASHINGTON SQUARE.—This is a most delightful spot, rejoicing in almost perpetual verdure; it is also planted with a great variety of beautiful trees, shrubs, and plants. Here bloom alike the towering oak, the lordly pine, the weeping willow, the fragrant almond and magnolia. It is a lovely picture, in the summer, to see this Square animated and enlivened by the fair and gentle,—by the clear, sweet voice of childhood, mingling with the song of the numerous birds, as happy and as innocent as themselves. In olden time, this was the “Potters’ Field,” overgrown with weeds and brambles; the place where the stranger and the friendless found a last resting-place. During the war of Independence, upwards of two thousand soldiers of the American Army, who had died from the effects of their wounds, or the camp fever, were buried in it; the ashes of these brave fellows lie on the line of Walnut by Seventh Street. JOHN ADAMS says in a letter, “I have spent an hour this morning in the congregation of the dead. I took a walk into the Potters’ Field; and I never in my life was so affected with melancholy; the graves of our soldiers, who have been buried during the last summer and winter, are enough to make the heart of stone melt away. The sexton told me that upwards of two thousand soldiers have been buried here; and, by the appearance of the graves and trenches, it is probable to me that he speaks within bounds.”

It was last used for this purpose during the prevalence of yellow fever in 1793, and was finally closed as a place of interment in 1795. It was laid out as a public square in 1815. It is proposed to erect a monument to Washington in the centre plot. When is it to be done? Philadelphians, look at Bunker Hill monument! New England is true to the memory of the brave; let it no longer be said that the remains of over two thousand of the soldiers of the Revolution lie in your most beautiful Square, their graves unnoticed—nay, in a great measure, forgotten.

FRANKLIN SQUARE,—situated between Race and Vine Streets, and Sixth and Franklin Streets. This is a noble Square, beautifully shaded with trees and shrubbery; it is laid out with great taste, and kept in good order. In the centre is a splendid fountain, with forty jets of water, enclosed by an ornamented iron railing.—The Franklin Square is a favourite place of resort of thousands of our citizens during the warm days of summer.

THE PENN SQUARES, Broad and Market Streets, will soon become highly ornamental, having been neatly laid out and planted with choice trees. This was formerly the site of the “Old Water-works.” The vicinity in this neighbourhood has much improved of late years; where once the unsightly Arch Street Prison stood, are now spacious and elegant residences.

RITTENHOUSE SQUARE, is located in the southwestern section of the city, and LOGAN SQUARE, in the northwestern part. All these Squares are well lighted at night with numerous gas lamps, and are provided with seats for the accommodation of the public; the grass, trees, &c., are frequently cut and trimmed, and the walks well rolled and kept clean.

In the immediate vicinity of the two last named, some of the most elegant private residences in the city are situated.

Besides the above squares in the city, there are Fairhill Square and Norris’s Square in Kensington, not yet laid out, though it is designed they shall be at an early date.

COMMERCIAL INSTITUTIONS.

THE MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE is a magnificent building, fronting on Walnut, Dock, and Third Streets. It is constructed of the purest Pennsylvania marble, from a design of W. STRICKLAND, Esq. It forms a parallelogram, the eastern front being circular, embellished with a portico recessed, supported by Corinthian columns, standing on a basement, which being richly ornamented with sculpture, gives a stately air to the building as viewed from Dock Street. It is three stories high, the lower one being occupied by the Post-Office, on the north, the Delaware Mutual Safety Insurance Company, on the northwest, and the Union Mutual Insurance Company, on the southwest corner. The first named Company have a beautifully executed engraving of this building as viewed from Dock below Third Street. The Merchants' Reading Room, in the splendid rotunda on the second story, is ornamented with designs in fresco; the floor is inlaid in Mosaic work. A superb view of the lower part of the city, the River Delaware, &c., is obtained from the cupola. The remainder of the building is rented for commercial offices, &c. The entrance from Dock Street is by semicircular flights of marble steps, on the north and south sides, both of which are ornamented by two gigantic lions, exquisitely cut in marble. The vicinity of the Exchange is one of the most enlivening in the city.

BANKS.

The BANKS of Philadelphia may with propriety be numbered among the public buildings; and, taken as a whole, are certainly more beautiful as specimens of architecture, than those of any other city in this country.

The first of these institutions which we notice, is the Bank of North America, the first established in the United States; being founded in view of the depressed state of the public finances, by Congress, in December, 1781. It is believed that this establishment, together with the exertions of ROBERT MORRIS, one of its principal originators, saved the treasury from bankruptcy, and was eventually the restorer of sound credit, and a good circulating medium. An additional act of incorporation was passed by the Legislature of Pennsylvania, in 1782. This was, however, repealed in 1785. In 1787, a new charter was granted, which has subsequently been renewed. Capital stock, $1,000,000.

The present banking-house, situated on the north side of Chestnut Street, between Third and Fourth Streets, is an elegant building, constructed of brown stone, presenting to our city a fine example of the Florentine style of architecture.

Mr. WATSON, in his annals of Philadelphia, tells us that this bank commenced its career with "coin sent out from France, at the instance of Robert Morris, by M. De Chaumont:

it was landed at Boston ;” he also adds, that this generous stranger “extended to Mr. Morris’s widow,” in after years, “an annual pension.” From the Government, which her husband had so nobly served, this lady never received any substantial benefit.

THE FARMERS’ AND MECHANICS’ BANK, Chestnut Street between Fourth and Fifth Streets, was incorporated in 1809; capital stock, $1,250,000. The banking-house is a plain brick building, roughcast. It was the residence of Admiral Howe during the occupancy of the city by the British, in 1777–78.

THE MECHANICS’ BANK was chartered in the year 1814, with a capital of $1,400,000. Its banking-house is a neat and graceful edifice, located in Third below Market Street.

BANK OF PENNSYLVANIA.

THE BANK OF PENNSYLVANIA, Second below Chestnut Street, was chartered in the year 1793, with a capital of $2,500,000. The banking-house of this institution is one of the most beautiful specimens of Grecian architecture in this country. The building is constructed of Pennsylvania marble. It is designed from the Temple of the Muses, near Athens; with two porticos, of six Ionic columns each. The principal room is lighted from an elegant dome, which, together with the entire roof, is covered with marble. The stockholders' chamber opens upon a beautiful area, facing the west, ornamented with trees, shrubs, flowers, and fountains, enclosed from the street by a tasteful iron railing. The corner stone of this classic edifice was laid in April, 1799, and the structure completed in 1801.

Capital, $300,000, paid in,

Incorporated in 1836, by a Perpetual Charter,

Make INSURANCES ON LIVES on the most favourable terms; grant ANNUITIES and ENDOWMENTS; act as EXECUTORS, TRUSTEES, and GUARDIANS under last wills and testaments; receive and execute TRUSTS generally, whether from individuals, corporate bodies, or courts of justice; and receive DEPOSITS ON INTEREST.

The Capital being paid in, together with a large and constantly-increasing reserved fund, offers a perfect security to the insured.

The Premiums may be paid yearly, half yearly, or quarterly. The Company add a BONUS periodically to the insurances for life. The first bonus was declared in December 1844, and the second in December 1849, making an addition to the sum insured equal to an average of more than 60 per cent. upon the premiums paid, without increasing the annual premiums. The following are a few examples from the register.

PHILADELPHIA BANK.

THE PHILADELPHIA BANK, a substantial and imposing marble building, on the southwest corner of Chestnut and Fourth Streets, was chartered in 1804, with a capital stock of $2,000,000. The front of this structure consists of an elegant portico, of the Corinthian order, resting on a basement flanked by wings. The counting-room of the institution is in the east wing, which is approached by a flight of marble steps, ascending from Chestnut Street, adjoining the portico. The basement is fitted up into spacious stores, the westernmost one of which is occupied by the Girard Life Insurance Company.

THE WESTERN BANK occupies the west wing of the Philadelphia Bank building, Chestnut and Fourth Streets. This banking establishment was chartered in the year 1832, with a capital of $400,000.

UNION STEAMSHIP COMPANY'S LINE, BETWEEN PHILADELPHIA AND NORFOLK, PETERSBURG, AND RICHMOND, VA.

This Company would respectfully call the attention of the public to their new Packet Line of First Class Steamships, now in successful operation between the above-named ports, one of the Ships leaving each port every five days. The VIRGINIA, David Teal, Master, and PENNSYLVANIA, J. E. Walton, Master, composing the line, have been built and fitted up expressly for this trade, and no pains or expense has been spared in their construction. They are fast ships, handsomely fitted up for passengers, each carrying two of Francis's Metallic Life Boats. The Captains are men of high standing in their calling, and the Company are careful in selecting experienced engineers. This line of Steamships has long been needed, and now offers by far the most desirable, safe, and economical mode of transit, both for passengers and goods, between the ports. By this line, all transshipments are avoided, and all the delays and damages consequent thereupon, the goods and passengers being carried direct to the ports of destination. It offers, also, a new and interesting trip to passengers, giving them twelve to fourteen hours at sea, with the beautiful scenery of James River, as well as the Delaware. The Company confidently hope their efforts in establishing this important line will be appreciated by the travelling and business community.

N. B. A third Ship will be placed on the line during the coming year, when it is expected they will sail twice a week from each port.

GIRARD BANK.

THE GIRARD BANK, Third opposite Dock Street. This stately edifice was built originally for the first United States Bank; subsequently it was occupied by the wealthy individual whose name it bears, as his banking-house. Here, from early morning until 3 o'clock, P. M., he transacted in person his extensive concerns as a banker, and instructed and received reports from his numerous agents and captains of his vessels. After banking hours he retired to his farm, where he enjoyed the pleasure of rural employments until the evening, when he again returned to his bank, where the midnight hour found him examining and scrutinizing the accounts of his clerks with a keenness of inspection peculiar to himself. In the study of Girard's history we cease to wonder at his magical success. His secret lay in the patient application of a sagacious mind to the single object of accumulation. It is in vain to say, that with some, all things seem to prosper, while beneath the touch of others everything withers and dies. The secret of success, so well understood by this remarkable man, is not so very difficult to solve after all; it lies in a word, and that is, Perseverance.

BANK OF COMMERCE, formerly the Moyamensing Bank. Incorporated in the year 1832, with a capital of $250,000. The present banking-house of this institution, located in Chestnut west of Second Street, is constructed of brown stone. In the design of this building, the architect, the late Mr. JOHNSON, has evidently studied utility more than display; yet the genius of the true artist manifests itself throughout, and few of our public buildings of this order, surpass it as an imposing piece of architecture.

WESTERN SAVING FUND ASSOCIATION, 313 Chestnut, west of Tenth Street. Incorporated in 1847. Open for deposits daily, except Sunday. "We have seen," says a writer in a London paper, "a very handsome Temperance Hall, built out of penny subscriptions, with the motto cut in stone :

"Wise pennies bought it.
Who would have thought it!"

True enough, who would have thought it? yet this started in the mind of "a canny Scot,"—the idea of Penny Savings Banks, which have since been eminently successful. In one city, with a population of 40,000 inhabitants, no less than 5,000 have made deposits, which during six months amounted to over $5,000, or an average of over one dollar each. As will be readily supposed, these deposits belong to a class which heretofore never aspired to the thought of an ordinary Savings Bank, with its comparatively speaking high scale of deposits. They are open every evening for the receipt of the smallest sums. Consider this subject, citizens of Philadelphia. Think of the advantage of having converted the eighth part of an entire town population into habits of self-denial and frugality; of giving to so many persons, a stake in the country, a stake not small to them;—

PENN BUILDING.

PENN MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY'S OFFICE.—This building, constructed during the last year, presents a point of much interest in the thoroughfare where it is placed, from its decided beauty and originality. It is entirely of cast iron, and was the first building of this material erected in Philadelphia. The first story is a series of semi-octagons, supporting an order highly enriched. Over the front entrance, resting on an ornamented dais, is a cast iron statue of William Penn, weighing six hundred pounds. Arcades of beautiful windows, rise above this point to the fourth story, which terminates with a highly-decorated cornice, supported by consoles, &c. Above this, is the fifth story, which forms an appropriate finish to the whole edifice.

The mode of construction is dissimilar to any iron building in this country or Europe, many of the plates being not over one-fourth of an inch thick, and none over half an inch; the whole space occupied by the wall being less than seven inches. These plates are jointed and bolted together in a novel method, highly creditable to the skill of the contractor, Mr. J. SINGERLY, who has carefully carried out a design, improved by the patient effort of the architect, Mr. J. B. CUMMINGS, to construct an iron building without waste of material.

The style of architecture is the modern or florid Italian. Besides the principal entrance on Third Street, there is an additional one on Dock Street, leading to the upper stories.

The Company's office is elaborately finished, and the furniture is of the most tasteful and substantial character.

The neighbourhood of this interesting edifice abounds in public buildings, offices, &c. On the opposite side of Third Street stands the Girard Bank, and facing the south front is the Merchants' Exchange, in which the stranger will find the Post-Office, Commercial Reading-rooms, the apartments of the Board of Trade, the Board of Brokers, together with several Insurance Offices, &c. In Walnut Street, below Third, is situated the Farquhar Building, at once chaste and ornamental, while to the east of the Exchange is seen the Pennsylvania Bank. This latter structure, as viewed from Dock Street, forms an object of much attraction. This vicinity is also the starting-point for omnibuses running to the various parts of the city and adjoining districts.

Capital and premiums liable for loss, is over $250,000, and constantly increasing.

Premium payments can be made with reference to the convenience of parties opening policies with the Company.

Policies will be issued for the benefit of married women and children, free from the claims of the representatives of her husband, or of any of his creditors.

 Policies may be assigned without the knowledge of the Company.

 No policy shall be vitiated through error merely, unless there existed at the time a fraudulent intention.

 The original amount of policies will be reduced at any time, to suit the pleasure of insured parties.

 Policies of two or more years' standing will be purchased upon surrender.

 Policies with the profits, forfeited by non-payment of premiums, may be renewed at any time by the payment of arrears, with interest; provided the health of the party at the time is unimpaired.

The liberality of the travelling license is peculiar to this Company, permission being granted to cross the Atlantic, at any season of the year, in first-class steamers or sailing packets, free of extra charge.

The object aimed at by this institution is STABILITY and PERPETUITY. The rates of premium have been carefully prepared with reference to fluctuations. The FIRST object of the plan presented is to make certain provision to meet the FIRST motive to insure, and which consideration should be paramount to all others, viz., the prompt payment of losses as they occur; AFTER WHICH, to make such additions of profits to the policy as the progressive gains of the Company will justify, or pay such gains to its members in cash on demand.

The plan of operations adopted and practised by this Company is quite as valuable to the insured as it is popular with the public.

has judiciously adapted his plan to the limited space allotted him, and has designed the exterior in a tasteful and scientific manner. The building is of brown stone, in the Italian style, and is five stories high. The first floor is occupied by the United States Life Insurance, Annuity, and Trust Company, an institution of the most substantial and honourable character, chartered by the State of Pennsylvania. The upper stories are occupied by agencies, commercial offices, &c.

In the vicinity of this great central business stand are many elegant and beautiful stores, Banks, &c., lately erected. The most prominent are, the Bank of North America, the Granite Building, Ledger Office, and Jayne's Buildings.

EDUCATION.

UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA.

THE UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA, Ninth Street below Market, was established in 1750 as a charity school and an academy, through the exertions of a few public-spirited individuals, among whom Dr. Franklin was prominent,—chartered and endowed in 1750, erected into a college in 1755, and into a University in 1779.

The building first occupied by this school, was that known as "The Old Academy," in Fourth below Arch Street, originally built as a meeting-house by the friends of the Rev. G. Whitfield. This society, in disposing of the premises, reserved the right of a meeting hall in it for ever, for the use of itinerant preachers. Within the past two years this old and celebrated edifice has been removed, and a new and elegant structure of brick erected on its site. It is still a school attached to the University.

In 1798, the trustees purchased from the State, the President's House, built for the accommodation of the President of the United States. This spacious building, three stories high and 100 feet square, enlarged in 1807 for the convenience of the Medical Department, was taken down in 1828, when the present ones were erected. They are each 85 feet front, by 112 deep, surrounded by an open area, separated from the street by a neat and substantial iron railing.

This Institution comprises four departments, viz., the academical, the collegiate, the medical, and the law. The professors are of the highest standing in the various departments, and the school ranks second to none.

The Faculty consists of a Provost and a Vice-Provost, a Professor of Moral Philosophy, a Professor of Mathematics, an Emeritus Professor of the Greek and Latin Languages, a Professor of Rhetoric and English Literature, a Professor of Natural Philosophy and Chemistry, and a Professor of the Greek and Latin Languages.

Besides these, there is a Professor of French, for voluntary classes in that language; and Professors of American History; of Chemistry applied to the Arts; and of Natural History,—by whom Lectures are occasionally given.

The college year extends from the eighth day of September, to the third day of July (in which month the Commencement is held), with two vacations of one week each at Christmas, and at the beginning of April. Tuition, $75 a year.

The catalogue of the last college year contains the names of ninety-five students.

GIRARD COLLEGE (See Frontispiece).—This really magnificent College is situated on the Ridge Road, about a mile from the incorporated limits of the City. It was founded by Stephen Girard, and is designed for the gratuitous instruction and support of destitute orphans. Mr. Girard was a native of France, having emigrated to this country at an early age and settled in Philadelphia, where, by unwearied industry and judicious management, he accumulated a noble fortune, the larger portion of which he bequeathed to the city of Philadelphia for the erection and support of this institution, and improving the city.

This College is one of the most beautiful structures of modern times, as a work of art alone, and a monument of private munificence to the cause of education such as few countries in the world possess.

The corner-stone was laid on the 4th of July, 1833, the buildings were completed in 1847, and the Institution went into operation on the 1st of January, 1848.

The general design of the main building is that of a Greek temple; having eight columns on each end, and eleven on each side, including the corner columns both ways.

The superstructure rests on a stylobate or basement, consisting of eleven steps, which extend around the entire edifice, thus imparting a pyramidal appearance to the superstructure, which conveys an idea of great solidity, and at the same time affords an approach to the peristyle from all sides.

The order of architecture in which the exterior is composed, is the Corinthian: the columns are 6 feet in diameter, and 55 feet in height; the bases are 9 feet 3 inches in diameter, and 3 feet 2 inches high; the capitals are 8 feet 6 inches high,

The cella or body of the building is 111 feet wide, by 169 feet long, and 56 feet 8 inches high, including the architrave, which corresponds with that of the peristyle. The corners of cella are finished with projecting antæ of 5 feet 6 inches in the width, having bases to correspond with those of the columns.

The doors of entrance are in the north and south fronts; each door measures 16 feet wide and 32 feet high, in the clear, trimmed on the outside with moulded antepagmenta of 2 feet 7 inches in width, and crowned with a projecting cornice supported by richly-carved consoles.

Each flank is pierced with twenty windows, four of which open into each room, and one on each flight of stairs; those which open into the rooms, are grouped and divided by Greek antæ, surmounted by architraves and cornices.

The roof is composed of marble tiles, four and a half feet long, four feet wide, and three-fourths inches thick in the middle, the sides being elevated an inch and a half above the general surface, to prevent the water running into the joints; each of these joints is covered with a marble saddle, hollowed out on the inner side, so as to embrace the ridges on the two adjacent tiles. The weight of each of these tiles is 776 lbs., and of each saddle 214 lbs., the whole number of tiles is 2064, and of saddles 2061; the aggregate weight of the tiles and saddles is 906 tons; in addition to which, the marble chimney-tops, and cast iron skylights, weigh 20 tons, and the lead, &c., of the gutters, $43\frac{1}{2}$ tons; making the entire weight of the roof, exclusive of the brick-work which supports it, $969\frac{1}{2}$ tons! The skylights are of cast iron tiles and saddles, so formed as to present an appearance, corresponding to the rest of the roof; in the centre of each tile two lights of glass are inserted, measuring 19 inches in width, 42 in length, and half an inch in thickness.

The building is three stories high, the first and second being 25 feet from floor to floor, and the third story 30 feet in the clear to the eye of the dome; each story is divided into four rooms, each 50 feet square, and vestibules.

The vestibules in the first story, and the lobbies over them in the second and third stories, occupy the northern and southern ends of the building; they are each 25 by 50 feet, exclusive of the space occupied by the stairways. The vaulting of each vestibule and lobby, springs from marble entablatures, supported by eight columns and as many antæ. The shafts of these columns are each composed of a single piece; the order of those in the first story is Ionic, in the second, a modified Corinthian, from the Tower of the Winds at Athens, and the third, a similar style, only somewhat lighter and more ornate.

All the rooms and vestibules are vaulted with bricks; those of the basement, first and second stories, with groin arches, and those of the third story, with pendentive domes springing from the floor, the horizontal or springing line being four feet square, with bands. These bands form semicircular arches on the four walls of each room, and from their angles at the floor, spring the pendentives. The horizontal section of each room is thus resolved into a circle at the top of the bands, and crowned with a dome; the dome, as well as the pendentive and bands, is enriched with deep cofferings, and the eye of the dome is finished with an ornamental fret, and covered with an inner skylight of 16 feet in diameter. The stairways are situated in the four corners of the building; they are all composed of white marble, and are five feet three inches in width, with two landings or quarter paces in each story; they are constructed on the "geometrical plan." All these stairways and landings are finished with rich balustrades of cast iron, and mahogany rails, springing from massy marble newels. The dome over the stairways is similar in construction to those in the rooms.

The outbuildings are each 52 feet by 125 feet long, and three stories high, with a basement 7 feet above the surface of the ground; they are all faced with marble and roofed with copper.

The easternmost building embraces four separate and complete dwelling-houses, for the officers of the Institution. The others are fitted up for the accommodation of the pupils, their tutors, governesses, and domestics.

An additional building has recently been erected, to the west, for water purposes. The water is raised by a steam engine in the cellar, from a large well, and forced into tanks in the upper story. All the washing and drying, together with the baking, &c., is done by steam in this building.

The whole establishment is enclosed by a wall ten feet high; it has received from the citizens the name of the "ugly wall," and we think justly so, when the splendid edifices it encloses are taken into consideration.

There are two gates of entrance, one on the north and one on the south front of the main edifice.

The college grounds contain about 41 acres, the eastern portion of which is laid out in grass-plats, and gravel and paved walks, between and around all the buildings. The western portion of the estate, which contains 20 acres, is laid out in gardens, &c.; a convenient farmhouse, barn, and outbuildings, have been erected on it.

The whole cost of this magnificent college, including the improvements of the grounds, &c., was $1,933,821 78, which is $66,198 22 within the amount specified by Mr. Girard, for the erection and endowment of the Institution.

The whole of this building has been erected in strict accordance with the will of its founder, with the exception of the portico, and that is justified by the proviso, that "utility and good taste should be left to determine in particulars not specified in the will." Let those who object, look at the building, and say whether it would have been a tasteful object without the portico.

Last year, the remains of Mr. Girard were removed from the churchyard, Spruce and Sixth Streets, and now rest temporarily in the lower vestibule, on the south end of the building, beneath a statue of himself, beautifully cut in marble. It is said to be a good likeness.

There is no country that possesses, either among the ruins of ancient or the work of modern days, a more beautiful structure than this, or one in which chasteness of design, richness of decoration, and exquisite skill of workmanship, are more happily combined; and it is a subject of congratulation that every part of it was executed by American workmen.

The number of orphans at present in the College is 305. The "will" is the governing principle of the Institution; it provides that the orphans shall be instructed in the various branches of a sound education, comprising, reading, writing, grammar, arithmetic, geography, navigation, surveying, practical mathematics, astronomy, natural, chemical, and experimental philosophy, the French and Spanish languages, and such other sciences and learning as the capacities of the pupils may merit or warrant.

It further directs that the orphans should be admitted between the age of six and ten years, and that those who merit it shall remain in the college until between the age of fourteen and eighteen years, when they are to be bound out to some useful occupation, such as agriculture, mechanical trades, arts, &c.

The officers and teachers of the Institution at present comprise a president, a secretary, two professors, two physicians, a matron, an assistant matron, five male teachers, twelve female teachers, and a steward.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The early settlers of Pennsylvania well knew the importance of education, and encouraged its diffusion. The illustrious Penn says, in his Frame of Government, “Let men be good, and the government cannot be bad; but if men be bad, let the government be ever so good, they will warp and spoil it, to their turn. Those, therefore, who make a good government must keep it; viz., men of wisdom and virtue, which qualities, because they are not inherited, must be propagated by a national education of youth.” No system of general education was, however, attempted during our colonial existence. The patriots who framed the first state constitution, provided, “that a school or schools shall be established in each county by the legislature for the convenient instruction of youth, and that all useful learning shall be duly encouraged, in one or more universities."

The Constitution of 1790 directed that "the legislature should, as soon as conveniently may be, provide by law, for the establishment of schools throughout the State, in such manner that the poor may be taught gratis."

Notwithstanding these provisions, little was done by public authority towards promoting this great national cause, until the year 1818, when the act "to provide for the education of children at the public expense, within the city and county of Philadelphia," was passed.

This act was the foundation of our system of common schools. The intelligent regarded the success of this experiment with deep solicitude, and they soon had reason to be gratified with the results.

In the Lancasterian system, then popular, there were, however, serious and inherent defects, and the controllers and directors became convinced that a radical change was necessary. It was made; and the monitors were succeeded by assistant teachers.

In the year 1828, the controllers were authorized to establish schools for the instruction of children under five years of age; and in 1832, a model infant school was opened. Secondary schools were subsequently established, and the infant schools changed to primary.

THE CENTRAL HIGH SCHOOL, Juniper below Market Street, is a beautifully-situated building, with a marble front, embellished with a portico in the Ionic order. This school was established in October, 1838, and has ever since been in successful operation. Its high character is widely known and appreciated; and our city may well be proud of an institution which, we think, is not surpassed by any similar one in this country.

Since its establishment, upwards of 2130 students have enjoyed its benefits. The average number attending the school at present is about 500. The course of studies taught, is well calculated to prepare them for a career, honourable alike to themselves, and useful to their country. These studies comprise Latin and Greek, French and Spanish, extra English, English and Anglo-Saxon, belles-lettres, history, moral, mental, and political sciences, mathematics, graphics, anatomy, physiology, natural history, natural philosophy, and chemistry.

examination that he can read, write, and spell correctly, and that he has a competent knowledge of grammar, geography, history, arithmetic, algebra, and mensuration.

In the year 1819, there were in the first school district 10 schools, 2845 pupils, and 10 teachers. At present there are 256 schools, 727 teachers, and about 50,000 scholars.

The number and designation of these schools are, 1 High, 1 Normal, 53 Grammar, 29 Secondary, 130 Primary, and 40 unclassified, all under the direction of 23 controllers and 210 directors, distributed throughout the eleven sections, comprising the city and county of Philadelphia.

These schools, since their organization, have been continued with increasing interest, by the controllers and directors. Our citizens regard their support as a social requirement and public obligation, their efficiency and usefulness being abundantly manifest, from the great number annually emanating from them, instructed in all the useful branches of education.

To render the instruction in the public schools still more perfect, the controllers and directors were authorized to establish the Normal School, for the instruction of female teachers, which was done in 1848. The instruction of the pupils in this school, consists of a thorough training in all the branches taught in the public schools, with reference to teaching, together with such a course of mental and moral discipline, as shall improve the understanding and elevate the character. The course of instruction extends through a term of two years, and is the very best that could possibly be adopted to accomplish the design of its establishment.

The examination of candidates for admission is semi-annual, in February and July. To be admitted as a pupil, the candidate must be fifteen years of age, and must be proficient in orthography, definition of words, reading, English Grammar, History of the United States, arithmetic and penmanship, and

THE PHILADELPHIA SOCIETY FOR THE ESTABLISHMENT AND SUPPORT OF CHARITY SCHOOLS, was incorporated the 6th of April, 1791. This association was organized for the purpose of establishing and supporting schools, to educate gratis in reading, writing, arithmetic, and other useful learning, children of the poor, of all denominations, in the city of Philadelphia, the districts of Southwark, and the Northern Liberties. The school, Walnut Street west of Sixth, under charge of this Society, has always maintained a high character. The average number of pupils attending, is about one hundred and fifty. The studies pursued in the Boys' Grammar School, comprise reading, penmanship, arithmetic, algebra, mensuration, grammar, geography, and History and Constitution of the United States. The girls, in addition to their studies, are taught various branches of needlework. This is very important, and will probably, in after life, be of great value to them.

This association is principally supported in its labours by the patronage of the benevolent.

HOUSE OF REFUGE.—This noble school of reformation, was incorporated on the 23d of March, 1826. Its object is "the employment of the idle, instruction of the ignorant, reformation of the depraved—a general diffusion of good morals, enlargement of virtuous society, and the protection of life and property. Various Acts of Assembly have been subsequently passed, in aid of the Institution, and in extending its benefits. Persons under the age of twenty-one years, may be sent to the "Refuge" by the different criminal courts throughout the State; also by the magistrates of the City and County of Philadelphia, in either of the following modes, viz., "on the complaint of the parent, guardian, or next friend, and with due proof that such infant is vicious and beyond the control of such parent, guardian,

There are two departments in the institution; one for white, and the other for coloured children.

The white department, is situated on Coates Street, between Schuylkill Seventh and Eighth Streets. The area occupied is about two and a quarter acres. The buildings were erected in 1827 and 1828. They accommodate 170 boys and 70 girls. The first inmate was received on the 8th of December, 1828.

The coloured department, situated on the corner of William and Parrish Streets, was opened on the 1st of January, 1850. The lot on which these buildings stand, is 400 by 210 feet. The plan contemplates the accommodation of 154 boys and 98 girls; but provision is at present only made for 72 of the former and 36 of the latter. Want of funds has prevented the completion of this praiseworthy object.

Great improvements have been introduced into these buildings; they are well warmed, lighted, and ventilated, and are very commodious. They were erected at a cost of $70,000. It is in contemplation by the managers to erect new buildings, for the accommodation of the white children, when the necessary funds are obtained. An admirable site, adjoining that of the coloured department, has been obtained. The lot is ample, being 400 feet square. A plan of the buildings, &c., has been selected by the board of managers, which will, if fully carried out, accommodate 500 children. No effort, we trust, will be wanting to make these new buildings a model for all similar institutions. The boys in the white department, are employed in caning chair seats, bookbinding, and making razor straps; while those in the coloured department, are occupied in making umbrellas.

ACADEMY OF THE PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—

This Institution was established in 1785, under the auspices of the late Bishop White, and revived in 1846, under those of Bishop Potter. The Academy, lately erected in Locust Street, near Broad, is a noble building, in the Elizabethan style, constructed of red stone.—The pupils are conducted through a course of classical and elementary instruction; to such as have the ministry in view, those branches of learning are taught, which the canons of this church require as preliminary to an entrance upon a course of theological study. A playground is attached to the building, and the upper stories are furnished with gymnastic implements for the exercise of the pupils.

THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY OF ST. CHARLES BORROME0.—

Schuylkill Fifth and Race Streets. This Institution was incorporated in 1848, and is under the direction of Lazaritists, or priests of the Congregation of Missions. It is supported, principally, by the voluntary donations of the faithful of the diocese. The number of students is about thirty, twenty-one of whom are preparing for orders: within the past year four priests have been ordained. The Seminary buildings have lately been enlarged and much improved.

PHILADELPHIA ACADEMY OF THE VISITATION, situated on the southwest corner of Broad and Poplar Streets. The location of this Institution, and the adaptation of the buildings and grounds to the health, comfort, and recreation of the inmates, are such, as to excite the admiration of all who are interested therein. Its position is peculiarly favourable, fronting on the noblest avenue in Philadelphia, and situated on one of the highest points of ground in the vicinity. This beautiful building is of marble, in the Grecian style. It was erected originally by one of our wealthy citizens as a private mansion; it possesses every convenience for the purpose to which it is now appropriated. It is surrounded by a garden, enclosed in front to such persons as from indigence or other cause were deprived of the advantages of moral and intellectual culture in daily schools. The first school opened by the Society was at the corner of Arch and Third Streets. This was the first free school in the State. A second was shortly afterwards opened in Front near Arch Street. The success attending this movement, induced its friends to petition the Legislature, praying "them to establish free schools throughout the State!" In 1797, an act of incorporation was granted to this Society, whose mission was to prepare the way for other and more improved organizations. In consequence of the formation of Sunday Schools by the various religious denominations, the necessity of those under notice were in a great degree obviated, and they were closed about the year 1819.

It may be well to say that this is also the Convent of the Visitation of the Blessed Virgin Mary. There are nineteen members in the community, thirteen of whom are professed. The Institution was incorporated in 1850.

At a meeting of the Society in that year, the Board of Visitors were authorized to apply the funds of the Institution in future, as they might from time to time deem advisable, towards the support of Sunday Schools already established in this city. The funds of the Society are invested in mortgages, ground rents, &c., the annual interest of which is about $300.

outskirts of the city, those children, whose education, morals, and religious training, have been neglected; to rescue, to teach, and to elevate them to respectability and usefulness. Every friend and lover of his kind, ought to be a supporter of the Howard School.

THE AIMWELL SCHOOL SOCIETY, was established in the year 1796, principally by the Society of Friends, for the gratuitous instruction of female children. We visited one of these schools, situated in Cherry Street, below Tenth, on the north side, and were much pleased with the arrangement of the building, and the order and strict attention to their studies manifested by the children. The course of studies embraces only the useful branches. They are taught well.

In addition to the above institutions, there are numerous others, supported by the benevolent, or by the different religious denominations. Among which, are the free schools for the education of coloured children, the parish schools attached to the Episcopal and Roman Catholic Churches, the Presbyterian Institute, the Adelpia School, the Free School for the education of Negro Children, founded by Dr. Bray, in 1696, and established by "his associates," in this city at an early date; together with those established and supported by the Society of Friends. This last Society was the first to establish institutions for the promotion of literature in Pennsylvania. The first charter granted for this purpose was that by William Penn, in 1697, "to the overseers of the schools." Nor should we forget the numerous private schools and academies which abound in all parts of the city and districts, the very names of which would exceed the limits of the present chapter.

CHAPTER V.

MEDICAL COLLEGES.

FEW cities are more renowned than Philadelphia. True, she is not celebrated in historic page, the beguiling legend, or poetic song, for battles or for bloody sieges. Her fame is more lasting. She has been honoured by the sojourn and paternal care of the peaceful, yet heroic William Penn, and of Washington, of Patrick Henry, John Adams, and their compatriots. Here has been the home of Franklin, Morris, Logan, and Rittenhouse. Here convene the scientific, philanthropic, and political conventions, and the deliberative assemblies of the various religious societies; and here stands the Hall of Independence, where the memorable Declaration of Freedom was promulgated, which has sounded so loudly, and which yet reverberates in the ears of an awakening world.

Of the many public institutions of which this city can boast, none surpass those for medical education. In this department of science she has been favoured with the labours of a Shippen, Rush, Wistar, Physick, Barton, Dewees, Godman, Eberle, and a host of others.

No less celebrated or entitled to regard are those who are now advancing medical science. They are men of whom we may justly feel proud, and their labours add no small amount to the laurels won by those just mentioned. Here obstetrics has become a science, and surgery advanced equal to its European state. Philadelphia surgery is nowhere secondary. She has the oldest surgical clinic, and can show the greatest number of surgical operations, and the largest medical library in the country. Here was established the first medical school in the Union, and here are now the largest number of medical colleges, the most valuable publications, the most learned authors, and by far the greatest number of medical students.

What more is requisite to justify the assertion, that Philadelphia is the Medical Metropolis of the United States?

UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA.

The first of these institutions to which we call the attention of the reader is the MEDICAL DEPARTMENT of

THE UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA, Ninth Street below Market. The University of Pennsylvania had been in existence, first as a simple Academy and then a College, some sixteen years before a system of medical instruction was admitted into its plan. This event took place on the 3d of May, 1765, the date at which the first medical professor was appointed. This was undoubtedly the first Medical College in the United States.

Offices—376 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

Burt's Block, Springfield, Mass.

30 Regent Street, London, England.

The idea of establishing this school in Philadelphia was conceived by Dr. Wm. Shippen and Dr. John Morgan. Some conversation upon the subject passed between these gentlemen, while prosecuting their studies in Europe; but to which of the two the merit of priority in the conception belongs, has not been determined. Dr. Shippen, on his return from Europe in 1765, delivered a course of lectures in this city on anatomy, in the introduction to which he expressed his belief "in the expediency and practicability of teaching medicine in all its branches in Philadelphia." In the mean time, Dr. Morgan formed the project of engrafting a Medical Department on the College of Philadelphia, and secured in its favour several of the most influential friends of the Institution both in Great Britain and America. The project was laid before the trustees, on the 3d of May, 1765, and approved. Dr. Morgan was immediately appointed Professor of the Theory and Practice of Medicine, and on the 23d of September, the same year, Dr. Shippen was appointed Professor of Anatomy and Surgery. Since then the number of Professors has been increased, until, at the present time, they comprise a Professor of the Theory and Practice of Medicine, a Professor of Chemistry, a Professor of Surgery, a Professor of Anatomy, a Professor of the Institutes of Medicine, a Professor of Obstetrics and Diseases of Women and Children, a Professor of Materia Medica and Pharmacy, and a Professor of Clinical Surgery. Courses of Lectures are delivered by each of the Professors upon the branches of medicine respectively attached to their chairs. The sessions begin early in October and continue through March.

The Anatomical Museum in the Medical Hall is fifty feet square, with a gallery on three sides. It is abundantly furnished with preparations of every kind calculated to give the fullest illustrations of a course of anatomical lectures. The Surgical Cabinet is richly supplied with the means of demon-

JEFFERSON MEDICAL COLLEGE.

The FACULTY is composed as follows:

- ROBLEY DUNGLISON, M.D.,
Professor of Institutes of Medicine, &c.
- ROBERT M. HUSTON, M.D.,
Prof. of Materia Medica and General Therapeutics.
- JOSEPH PANCOAST, M.D.,

Prof. of Institutes and Practice of Surgery.
- CHARLES D. MEIGS, M.D.,
Prof. of Obstetrics and Diseases of Women and Children.
- FRANKLIN BACHE, M.D.,
Prof. of Chemistry.

The College is in Tenth Street below Chestnut. It is a beautiful and commodious structure, which has been modified and enlarged, from time to time, to adapt it for the necessary number of students.

The Chemical Laboratory, and the different Cabinets and Museum are well supplied with materials for teaching; and connected with the buildings is an hospital department for the reception of surgical cases especially.

Every Wednesday and Saturday in the month of October, and during the course, Medical and Surgical cases are investigated, prescribed for, and lectured on before the class. During the last year nineteen hundred and seventy-nine cases were treated, and two hundred and seventy-three operations performed. Amongst these were many major operations—as lithotomy, amputation of the leg, arm, &c., extirpation of the eye and mamma; trephining, extensive plastic operations; resection of the femur for ankylosis, &c., &c.

The Lectures are so arranged as to permit the student to attend the Lectures and Clinical Demonstrations at the Pennsylvania Hospital.

On and after the 1st of October, the dissecting rooms are open, under the direction of the Professor of Anatomy and the Demonstrator, Dr. ELLERSLIE WALLACE.

The FEES are as follows:

stration, and the chemical apparatus is equal in extent and variety to any other in the country.

The Medical Hall is admirably adapted for the purposes of the school. It is central in location, and has ample space around for free circulation of air. Its dimensions and architectural character are such as not to appear incongruous with the extent of the school and the high objects for which it was established.

JEFFERSON MEDICAL COLLEGE.

THE JEFFERSON MEDICAL COLLEGE was established in 1825, and chartered the same year.

The College building, Tenth Street, between Chestnut and Walnut, has been repeatedly enlarged, in order to accommodate the constantly increasing number of students.

The principal of these enlargements took place in the year 1845, when the flourishing condition of the school was such as to render the old building (itself already very large) entirely inadequate to the purpose for which it was intended. The building as it appears at present, was designed by Mr. N. Le Brun, architect, and exhibits, on a lot of limited dimensions, the most ample and convenient arrangements. The front is embellished by a hexastyle composite portico of beautiful and much-admired proportions.

The entrance, on the north side of the building, leads by ample stairways to the several lecture-rooms, &c. On the first floor is a room 50 by 70 feet, adjoining which is the Laboratory, and other apartments necessary for the purpose of the lectures. In the second story is the Anatomical Lecture-room, constructed in the form of an amphitheatre, and of the same dimensions as the room below.

The arrangement of these rooms has been made to insure comfort to the students, while the important desiderata in such establishments, viz., light, ventilation, and acoustic adaptation, have been attended to.

A magnificent Museum has been placed in the rear of the building on this story. It is amply provided with materials for illustrating the various branches. In addition to the Osseous, Nervous, Vascular, Muscular, Ligamentous, and other preparations for anatomical demonstration, it also contains a large number of wet preparations, relating to Pathology, Obstetrics, Surgery, &c., and an extensive collection of diseased bones, calculi, models in wood, plaster, and wax, together with an ample series of paintings and engravings, representing healthy and morbid parts, fractures, dislocations, tumours, &c., and the surgical operations necessary for their relief.

The dissecting-room is over the Museum, in the third story. It is pronounced one of the very best in the city for this purpose.

Convenient rooms for the Faculty, and private chambers for the professors and students, are placed in rear of the stairways.

Attached to the College are hospital accommodations, which form part of the clinic of the Institution: they are under charge of the different Professors, and are richly supplied with

With the citizens of Philadelphia this establishment has for six years been the most popular resort for Daguerreotypes. The proprietors pledge themselves to continue to merit their high reputation in the Daguerrean Art.

In addition to the extensive Daguerreotype business, the proprietors invite an inspection of their improved Talbotypes, which are made to resemble the finest miniature painting in effect of colour, retaining all the truthfulness of the Daguerreotype in likeness.

medical and surgical cases, forming a prominent and important element in the educational resources of the establishment. It appears that there were treated in this department, during the clinical year ending April 2d, 1851, nineteen hundred and seventy-nine cases, of which one thousand and seventy-four were admitted to the medical department, and nine hundred and five to the surgical. This list exceeds the preceding year by two hundred and seventy, and embraces many of the most important medical and surgical cases.

THE MEDICAL INSTITUTE OF PHILADELPHIA, founded in 1817, owes its origin to the Professors of the Theory and Practice of Medicine in the University of Pennsylvania, and for a period of thirty-four years it has occupied an important position among the medical institutions of this city, being in fact the oldest among them, with the exception of the University.

The object of Dr. Chapman in founding this school was, primarily, to benefit his large class of office students, during the interval between the winter sessions, by giving them a combined course of medical instruction. For this purpose, associations were formed at different periods, with Drs. Horner, T. Harris, Mitchell, Dewees, Jackson, Hodge, Bell, and many other gentlemen, who have long occupied distinguished public situations, and whose names are widely known to the medical profession.

The design of the Institution differs materially from that of the winter schools, with which it has no connexion whatever. It confers no degree or diploma, being intended rather to afford such a course of instruction, practical and demonstrative, as is particularly needed by those students who remain in the city, either for the whole period of their study, or during any single interval between the winter lectures.

The course of instruction embraces Anatomy, Materia

FACULTY.

WM. DARRACH, M.D., Professor of Principles and Practice of Medicine; JOHN WILT-BANK, M.D., Professor of Obstetrics and Diseases of Women and Children; HENRY S. PATTERSON, M.D., Professor of Materia Medica and Pharmacy; WILLIAM R. GRANT, M.D., Professor of Anatomy and Physiology; DAVID GILBERT, M.D., Professor of Principles and Practice of Surgery; WASHINGTON L. ATLEE, M.D., Professor of Medical Chemistry; WM. H. GOBRECHT, M.D., Demonstrator of Anatomy and Curator of the Museum.

During the summer of 1849, the Trustees and Faculty erected the beautiful and spacious edifice which is now occupied, situated in Ninth below Locust Street, near the Pennsylvania Hospital. The building is as well adapted to its object as any similar edifice in the world, and has ample accommodations for a class of four hundred pupils. The appliances for heating and ventilation are after the most approved modern plans, and secure a steady, comfortable temperature, with a free access of fresh, and constant discharge of foul air. This is a circumstance of much importance, in view of the fact that the health of students so frequently suffers from confinement in crowded and illy ventilated rooms. The building contains three Lecture Rooms, Museum, Laboratory, Anatomical Rooms, &c.

The course of instruction occupies nearly five months, without any intermission. There are six lectures delivered daily, except on clinical days, when there are only four. It is the aim of each Professor to make his course at once full, comprehensive, and practical. All the branches are regarded as demonstrative, and are so taught. The instruction, therefore, on every topic of medical science, is addressed to the eye, as well as the ear of the pupil. Examinations in each branch are given by the respective Professors, either at the commencement of each lecture, or at separate hours. All the pupils may be present at these examinations.

Clinical Instruction.—The Faculty have ever regarded Clinical instruction as an important part of medical teaching, and, in addition to the lectures at the Pennsylvania Hospital, a regular Course of Clinical Medicine and Surgery has been appointed, to continue throughout the year. During the past year a very large number of cases in the departments of Practice and Surgery, with numerous operations, were brought before the class. In addition to these clinical advantages in the College, all second course students are furnished, free of expense, with tickets to the Pennsylvania Hospital, one of the largest and best arranged institutions in this country. In this hospital about two thousand cases are treated during the year.

The requisites for graduation are the same as those of the University of Pennsylvania.

Fees.—Matriculate, $5. Each Professor, $15. Graduation, $30. Demonstrator, $10. The number of students in attendance during the session of 1850–1 was 126, and present session, 1851–2, about 140.

TENTH ANNUAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

The Lectures in this Institution will commence on the first Monday in April, 1852, and continue, with the usual Midsummer Recess, until the opening of the Winter Schools.

Not more than three Lectures are delivered daily, and the hours are so arranged as not to interfere with a regular attendance upon the Clinical Instruction at the Hospitals and Medical Colleges.

The Lectures on Surgery, Obstetrics, and on Physiology, being attached to the ST. JOSEPH'S HOSPITAL, an additional opportunity will be afforded to the Class for Clinical Instruction under their immediate preceptors. The following is a schedule of the Course:

useful in design, and attractive in appearance. The building is sixty by eighty feet, five stories high. Its front elevation is the Collegiate Gothic, and, being adorned with embattlements and embrasures, presents to our city a new style of edifice, at once substantial, tasteful, and novel.

The building contains three lecture-rooms, the arrangement of which is such as to admit of the speaker and his experiments and demonstration, being seen from every seat. They are all constructed on acoustic principles. In addition to those rooms, there is a spacious Museum, a dissecting-room, a chemical laboratory, a Registrar's office, private rooms for the Professors, together with various ante-rooms for the students, and apartments for the Janitor.

The Museum is beautifully arranged. It is 22 feet in width, 47 in length, and 24 high, surrounded on all sides by a gallery 12 feet from the floor. It contains a great variety of wet and dry preparations, both physiological and pathological, models and casts in plaster and wax, together with an extensive series of paintings, diagrams, and plates, classified under the heads of Anatomy, Physiology, Medical and Surgical Pathology, and Obstetrics, in addition to which there is an extensive cabinet of Materia Medica, and a well-selected chemical and philosophical apparatus.

The dissecting-room is over the Museum. It is well lighted, well ventilated, and every way adapted to its purpose.

The façade is of brown stone, and is ornamented by two massive towers, eighty feet high, crowned with a rich embattled parapet.

The corner-stone of this edifice was laid on the 31st of May, 1849, and the building completed and occupied in October, 1850.

THE PHILADELPHIA COLLEGE OF MEDICINE.—This institution was chartered in 1847, with all the rights, privileges, and immunities, granted to other medical colleges in the State.

It is located, for the present, in South Fifth, near Walnut Street. The building is commodious, and centrally situated, though it is in contemplation to erect a new and more imposing edifice, in a more western situation, as the prospects of the school go on improving. In the present building, the facilities for instruction are abundantly supplied, the lecture-rooms are ample, and the museum is one of the best in the city; the dissecting-rooms are unsurpassed, if not unequalled, and the atmosphere of the whole building, so thorough in its ventilation, is perfectly pure.

The full period of study is the same in this institution as that at the other colleges, with this difference, that two courses of lectures are delivered annually, instead of one. One of these is termed the "Winter Course," commencing in October; the other is called the "Spring Course," commencing about a week after the close of the first, on or about the 10th of March. The objects of this Spring Course seem sufficiently obvious, while its advantages, especially to the students coming from a distance, are important. The arrangements of the school are such as to place the propriety of the plan beyond a cavil, and to render the advantages absolute, since they insure the student courses of instruction, and facilities for the acquisition of knowledge, equally full in the spring as in the winter.

This, though a new enterprise, is in successful operation. The Faculty are now prosecuting its tenth course of Lectures. The statistics exhibiting a flattering increase, both in reputation and size of classes. The corporation has conferred 9 Adeundem, 19 Honorary, and 215 full degrees. The percentage of graduations betokens the application of a high standard of requirements, to the qualifications of the candidate in his final examination; and the number of matriculants speak well for the reputation and teaching capacity of the Faculty—the number of its attending students having been 799.

The Faculty comprises, a Professor of General and Special Surgical Anatomy, and the Principles and Practice of Surgery, a Professor of General Therapeutics, Materia Medica, and Pharmacy; a Professor of the Institutes of Medicine and Medical Jurisprudence; a Professor of Medical Chemistry; a Professor of Obstetrics, and Diseases of Women and Children, and Toxicology; one of Surgery; one of Anatomy, and a Demonstrator of Anatomy.

The College building, Filbert Street, between Eleventh and Twelfth, was constructed with a special view to the object to which it is now appropriated. The lecture-rooms are commodious, and that part appropriated to dissection is admirably adapted to the purpose, being large, well-ventilated, and supplied with all the conveniencies necessary for the comfort of those engaged in the study of Practical Anatomy.

The museum contains ample materials for study, in wax models, anatomical preparations, morbid and healthy specimens, both dry and wet, and a large collection of anatomical, surgical, and obstetrical plates, of the size of life, a cabinet of minerals, specimens of the materia medica, and philosophical instruments, &c.

A dispensary is connected with the College, at which, in addition to the regular lectures, clinical instruction is given by the different professors. In this dispensary, an extensive range of disease is presented for study. A physician is in daily attendance, from whose examinations and prescriptions the student can have abundant opportunities of acquiring practical information.

We learn that the corporation have in view the establishment of an hospital, to be attached to this Institution, a charter for that purpose having been granted by the State. Energetic efforts are now being made for placing this charity in operation at an early day.

intelligent females in the various branches of medical science, whose rights and privileges, upon receiving the degree of the Doctorate in this school, will not be inferior to those of the graduates of any other medical institution in this country or Europe.

The popularity attending the first establishment of this college was such, that the Legislature of our State granted it a charter as broad and liberal as that of any in the Commonwealth, upon the presentation of a bare petition.

The school, so far, exceeds the most sanguine expectations of its warmest friends. The number of students attending the present course of lectures is about forty, from all parts of the country. The course of instruction comprises six branches, viz., Anatomy and Physiology, Principles and Practice of Medicine, Obstetrics and Diseases of Women and Children, Surgery and the Institutes of Medicine, Materia Medica, Pharmacy, and Chemistry.

The Museum is amply, and, considering its age, we should rather say richly, supplied. It contains an extensive collection of wet and dry preparations, illustrating every part of human Anatomy and Physiology; together with a large proportion of French models and wax preparations. We recommend our readers to avail themselves of the opportunity to examine this Museum. It is open during the Sessions.

The building, 229 Arch Street, occupied at present by the school is well adapted for its purpose, being perfectly retired and free from annoyance. It is proposed, when sufficient funds are obtained, to erect a more suitable building for the accommodation of the College. We hope the effort will be successful, for the rapidly increasing number of students will soon render the present one entirely inadequate.

The science of Obstetrics in this country is almost entirely in the hands of male practitioners. Why should this be so?

From the earliest history of the art, prior to 1663, it was practised by females. History supplies abundant evidence on this point. About that date, the Duchess de Vallières, a favourite mistress of Louis XIV. of France, made the first innovation, and the fortunate attendant was soon afterwards appointed to the novel yet lucrative office of Midwife to the Princess of France.

Put woman in possession of all the knowledge upon the subject of Midwifery, and let her use it for the relief of her sex. If she could manage these matters so exclusively before the dawns of science, how much more so now, with the light it has afforded! If there is one appropriate sphere of more consequence than another within the scope of woman's duty, it is at the bedside of a suffering sister. Now, as formerly, woman is most willing to enter, and most reluctant to leave, the abodes of suffering and sorrow. It has always been her office to administer the necessities of the afflicted, and most nobly has she sustained it. Why then ought she not to be educated to preside over the duties of the lying-in chamber?

LITERARY AND SCIENTIFIC INSTITUTIONS.

"Knowledge hath left the hermit's ruined cell,
 The narrow convent, and the cloister's gloom;
 With world-embracing wings to soar and dwell
 Mid purer ether and sublimer room.
 The volleyed lightnings of her press consume
 The tyrant's strength, and strike the bigot blind;
 Day after day, its thunders sound the doom
 Of some old wrong, too hideous for the mind,
 Which reason hath illumed, which knowledge hath refined."

It is always a source of gratification, to find men, whose daily avocations are of the most bustling and industrial nature, availing themselves of every leisure interval to cultivate and increase their means of intellectual enjoyment; and there can be no greater ornaments to a city, than those educational and literary institutions, which, springing from and supported by the people, are adapted to the public wants; no matter whether the buildings are of brick, costly marble, or "plain rooms," their objects consecrate and invest them with a host of pleasing and pure associations.

In the very centre of our city, where the hurry of trade, and the anxiety of the law, are depicted on numbers of faces, it is alike pleasing to the visiter, and honourable to the citizen, to find five spacious buildings devoted to the diffusion of knowledge; we allude to the American Philosophical Society, the Philadelphia Library, the Athenæum, the Franklin Institute, and the Mercantile Library.

Benjamin Franklin, we owe the origin of the association which may be considered as the germ of the present American Philosophical Society.

In his own memoir, he tells us that, in the autumn of 1727, himself and several of his ingenious acquaintances formed a club, "for mutual improvement." It was called "the Junto." The number of members was restricted to twelve, and in some respects their meetings were secret, to prevent the application of improper persons for admission.

It appears that this "Junto" continued in existence nearly forty years, but as its members grew old, it doubtless lost much of its activity and spirit, and probably, long before its close, the meetings were held only for sociability. In a letter to Hugh Roberts, written in July, 1765, Dr. Franklin urges his attendance at the "Junto," and says, "We loved, and still love one another; we are grown gray together, and yet it is too early to part. Let us sit still, till the evening of life is spent. The last hours are always the most joyous. When we can stay no longer, it is time enough then to bid each other good night, separate, and go quietly to bed."

This "Junto" seems to have been a mere conversational or debating society, similar to those immortalized by Addison and Johnson. Yet its members appear to have taken an active part in establishing various social reforms, and associations for the promotion of useful knowledge, prominent among which is the one under notice.

In May, 1743, Franklin drew up and issued a prospectus for the formation of such an association. It was entitled, "A Proposal for the Promotion of Useful Knowledge among the British Provinces of North America;" and may be considered the true origin of the American Philosophical Society. The first members were all men of science. Their early efforts, however, were not successful, and for several years it existed but in name. In November, 1767, only six of their number remained in Philadelphia; but these few determined upon making an effort for its revival; and by the following January they succeeded in electing forty-eight others, many of whom were distinguished for their talents, rank, and influence in the community. John Penn, the then Governor of the Province, became the patron of the Society. The Council chamber at the State House was granted for its meetings, and it had also the use of the College room, and apparatus for experiments. From this time its proceedings were conducted with spirit.

In the year 1750, there was another scientific association established under the name of "The Junto," in which subjects of Natural History, Philosophy, Morals, Science, &c., were considered and discussed. In 1766, having increased its list of members, and adopted new rules for the admission of foreigners and non-residents as correspondents, the association abandoned the name of "Junto," and adopted that of the "American Society for Promoting and Propagating Useful Knowledge."

These two learned bodies, whose organization was nearly similar, and whose pursuits and objects were alike, saw the importance of a union; and in 1768, proposals to this effect were made by the American Society to the Philosophical Society. After considerable negotiation, the measure was effected, and the two societies united. Their first meeting was held January 2d, 1769. They were incorporated on the 15th of March, 1780, as the "American Philosophical Society, for Promoting Useful Knowledge," held at Philadelphia.

The early transactions of this association contain much curious and interesting matter, among which we find a notice of the first steam-engine built in this city; also that relative to the first boat ever navigated by steam. It is dated Sept. 27th, 1785, and reads thus: "The model, with a drawing and description of a machine for working a boat against the stream, by means of a steam-engine, was laid before the Society by Mr. John Fitch."

During the Revolutionary War, the meetings were in a great measure suspended. In 1779, they were, however, resumed, and have ever since been continued.

The site of the present Hall was given to the Society by the State, in 1785, the building erected in 1789, and occupied in 1790. It is a plain brick structure, remarkable only for its location and historical recollections. It consists of two stories and a basement,—the hall of the association occupying the second story.

In the year 1786, John Hyacinth De Magellan, of London, gave to the Society two hundred guineas, to be vested as a permanent fund, the interest of which should be annually disposed of in premiums, to be adjudged to the best author of the best discovery, or the most useful invention relating to navigation, astronomy, or natural philosophy.

The library contains about 20,000 volumes, in various languages, many of which are rare and valuable. Few books are purchased, except scientific periodicals; the accessions being principally by gift from learned societies and individuals. The Society also possesses an extensive cabinet of medals, coins, &c., and a large collection of maps, charts, engravings, and manuscripts. The meetings are held on the first and third Fridays of every month, from October to May, and on the third Friday in each of the other four months, at 7 o'clock, p. m. The Hall is also open every Friday evening, when members meet for the purpose of reading and social intercourse. On these occasions they may introduce a friend or stranger. Charles B. Trego is the secretary and librarian.

THE PHILADELPHIA LIBRARY.

in 1731, principally through the influence of Dr. Franklin, and the members of "The Junto." The first importation of books was received from London in 1732, and the Library opened in "Robert Grace's house," Jones's Alley. In 1740, the collection of books having largely increased, the library was removed to the upper room of the west wing of the State House, the use of which was granted to the Company by the Province. On the 13th of March, 1744, the Union Library Company of Philadelphia was united with the one under notice; and, in consequence of the additional number of books and members, the Library was opened three days in the week, and two librarians appointed. In 1771, two additional companies were annexed. In 1773, the books were removed to a more spacious apartment, in Carpenters' Hall; and in 1790, the Library Company took possession of their present building.

The corner-stone of this edifice was laid on the 31st of August, 1789. It is a plain, substantial-looking structure, situated on Fifth below Chestnut Street. The building has a truly venerable appearance. The front entrance is surmounted by a well-executed statue, in marble, of Dr. Franklin.

During its early history, this institution was largely enriched by donations from its friends, among which are the choice collections of curious and rare books presented by Robert Barclay, and the celebrated "Loganian Library;"—this last was a most valuable acquisition. It was the private library of the Hon. James Logan, the confidential friend and counsellor of William Penn, and consists principally of works in the learned and modern languages of Europe. This rare collection is kept in a room appropriated for that purpose. When first annexed to the Philadelphia Library, it contained 3,953 volumes; large additions are made to it annually, and it is supposed to number at present over 10,000 well-selected works.

The Philadelphia and Loganian libraries contain, united, about 60,000 volumes. The income of the Institution is $6,300; $4,000 of which is annually appropriated to the purchase of additional works. The Library is open every week-day, from 10 A. M., until sunset; during which time, strangers have free admission.

In examining this Library, you are impressed with a sense of its magnitude and importance. Look where you will, you see books in cases, on shelves, in boxes,—such heaps of books, that you are astonished at their apparently perplexing and unaccountable variety. One can hardly realize the vastness of the labour that provided all these valuable records. L. P. Smith is the librarian.

THE ATHENÆUM, is beautifully situated on the southeast corner of Sixth and Adelphi Streets.

This Institution owes its origin to that taste for literary pursuits, which has always, to a great extent, characterized our city. In the year 1813, a few young men, feeling the want of a convenient place of common resort, in which their leisure hours could be passed without danger to their morals or tastes, came together and arranged a plan for the establishment of reading rooms, or a place in which periodicals, works of all descriptions, books of immediate interest, of reference and information, maps and charts, could be read and consulted at all hours of the day and evening. The efforts of these young men were successful, for we find that on the 9th of February, 1814, the Athenæum was organized, and articles of association adopted. It was first opened to the public, in a room over the book store at the southeast corner of Chestnut and Fourth Streets. Subsequently, it occupied a portion of the American Philosophical Society's building, Fifth below Chestnut Street.

THE SATURDAY EVENING POST.

THE LEADING LITERARY WEEKLY OF THE UNION.

The proprietors of THE POST think it unnecessary to dwell upon the distinguishing features of their well-known weekly, whose brilliant success during an existence of THIRTY YEARS, is a sure guarantee for the future.

A MORAL PAPER.

We may say, that we shall maintain for THE POST the character it has acquired of being a strictly moral paper, one that a parent may allow to go freely before his innocent sons and daughters. A careful guard shall also be kept, as heretofore, over our ADVERTISING COLUMNS, that nothing of an improper character may obtain admittance.

THE POST also will contain every week Selected Articles of the choicest description, one or more Engravings, Humorous Articles, the Most Interesting News, Local News, Bank Note List, State of the Markets, the Stock Market, &c., &c.

TERMS.

The terms of THE POST are Two Dollars if paid in advance, Three Dollars if not paid in advance. For Five Dollars in advance, one copy is sent three years. We continue the following low terms for Clubs, to be sent, in the city, to one address, and, in the country, to one post-office.

P.S. A copy of THE POST will be sent gratis, as a specimen, to any one requesting it.

THE ATHENÆUM.

The corner-stone of the present edifice was laid on the 1st of November, 1845, and the building opened on the 18th of October, 1847. As viewed from Washington Square, the Athenæum has a chaste and beautiful appearance. The whole structure is 125 feet on Adelphi Street, and 50 feet on Sixth Street, and is 58 feet high. It is of the Italian style of architecture, and is at once bold and imposing. The beautiful proportions of its parts, the fine details, and the massive crowning cornice, give it an air of stateliness and grandeur, most impressive as a piece of city architecture.

The first story of the building is occupied at present by the Controllers of the Public Schools, as their meeting-room and offices, and the private office of Mr. Barclay, attorney. The second story is arranged for the use of the association, and is

This Paper, in all its departments and arrangements, is equal to any in the United States. Its Telegraphic Agencies, its Foreign and Domestic Correspondence, its Editorial and Reportorial force, are unsurpassed. Every branch is under the supervision of competent and experienced persons, who apply themselves exclusively to its interest; and the result is, a condensed, compact, yet comprehensive mass of information, of the highest value and importance to every man of business. From its immense circulation, and high character, both at home and abroad, it is a most desirable and remunerative advertising medium.

and nearly 500 maps, charts, &c., exclusive of periodicals, serials, and pamphlets. The Library, occupying an apartment on the ground floor of the Hall, is about 45 feet by 28, and 14 feet high, with a gallery on all its sides. The books are arranged according to subjects. This Library is particularly rich in all departments of Natural History. In ornithology it is quite complete. In this department, at least, it is said to be the most extensive in the United States, if not in the world.

For these magnificent collections, the Academy is mainly indebted to the munificence of three gentlemen,—Mr. Maclure, Dr. R. E. Griffiths, and Dr. T. B. Wilson. Mr. Maclure presented 5,233 volumes, embracing some of the most costly works of natural history, the fine arts, and antiquities. In it too, are found Bonaparte's great work on Egypt, Pirenesi's Italy, and the splendid natural historical illustrations of Redoute, Humboldt, Poli, and many others.

The museum is divided into three cabinets, viz., Zoology, Botany, and Geology and Mineralogy. It is also said to be the best in the United States.

The attention required by the zoological preparations, and the space necessary to their proper exhibition, are obstacles against which this Society has been inadequately provided; hence we find the collection of quadrupeds comparatively small.

The department of Comparative Anatomy embraces some highly interesting subjects; among which we may particularize the perfect skeleton of the Indian Rhinoceros, brought from the Himalaya Mountains, by Dr. Burrows. It also contains the late Dr. Morton's celebrated cabinet of crania, the most extensive in the world.

In examining this collection, we were astonished at the immense variety displayed. What a gathering! Here, for aught we know, may be the "cranium" of some learned Theban or

PROPRIETOR AND PUBLISHER,

No. 57 South Third Street, Philadelphia.

Babylonian, who three thousand years ago delighted in the study of Natural Science ; and there, perhaps that of a courtier,—

“Once doomed to kneel

At Pharaoh's throne, and anxious tremors feel ;
And this, that of a priest, who often taught the crowd
With words of eloquence, whilst listening votaries bowed :
Or perhaps, he, face to face, saw Moses, when his sacred rod Shook o'er the guilty land the plagues of God.
This, may have been a sage ; and this hollow skull
Was peopled once with thoughts, with wit and wisdom full ;
Yes ! through these socket-holes, the curious eye
Scanned the heavens' wide arch, and read the spangled sky.
And this, alas ! the remnant of some beauteous one,
That once amid the halls of Memphis shone.
Three thousand years ago ! Ah, years are swift and brief,
Since this was, perhaps, the head of a lordly chief.
Poor skulls ! whilst gazing on you now,
Ambition well may sigh, and Wisdom bow ;
Though mute, you do not teach the less—
A sermon read we in thy ghastliness !”

Perhaps no one branch of natural science has been more assiduously cultivated by the members of this Academy than Ornithology. This collection is also said to be without a rival in Europe or America. It contains over 25,000 specimens, beautifully displayed in glass cases. The natural tints of the feathers are preserved in all their freshness, and the character and natural expression of each individual are fully retained. We never saw finer specimens of the art of taxidermy, than those under notice. The collection of humming-birds is exceedingly brilliant ; the eye in examining them is completely dazzled by the kaleidoscope-like glitter of purple and gold, of crimson and blue. The collections of eggs, and of nests of birds, are also very extensive ; so are those of fishes, reptiles, crustacea, insects, &c.

The Cabinet of Botany is particularly rich ; the Herbarium embracing over 30,000 specimens of plants, of which no less than 23,000 were bequeathed by the late Mr. L. D. Von Schweinitz. These were the acquisition of a single individual, during a period of forty years devoted to this favourite science. The Academy also possesses the valuable Herbarium of Mr. T. Nuttall. This gentleman was for many years ardently engaged in botanical researches, in pursuit of which he traversed the United States and territories, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from Maine to Mexico.

The Geological series is also very complete. It comprises over seven thousand specimens, of which a large portion are fossil organic remains of animals and plants.

The department of Mineralogy is likewise full. The principal portion of this collection was contributed by the late Mr. Maclure, an early friend and ardent supporter of the Institution; indeed, to this gentleman's talent, generosity, and influence the Academy owes, in a great measure, its permanence and prosperity. Geology was the engrossing study of his mind, and he pursued it with an enthusiasm and success to which time, toil, and distance, presented but temporary obstacles. He went forth, with his hammer in his hand and his wallet on his shoulder, pursuing his researches often amid pathless tracts and dreary wastes, until he crossed and recrossed the Alleghany Mountains no less than fifty times. Some of his adventures were, in after years, the theme of amusing anecdote. When travelling in a remote district, the inhabitants seeing him battering the rocks, supposed him to be a lunatic escaped from confinement; and on one occasion, the inmates of a public house, on his approach, took refuge indoors, and refused him admittance, until convinced that he was really of sound mind.

This Institution has added largely to the stock of science, and now enjoys a high and well-deserved reputation. The Hall is a very beautiful building. Visitors are admitted on Tuesday and Friday afternoons.

YERGER &amp; ORD,

METALLIC SKELETON ARTIFICIAL LEG, ANKLE SUPPORTER, AND IMPROVED ANATOMICAL MACHINERY

For the Treatment of Deformities.

The Metallic Skeleton Limb is light, neat, strong, and durable. It is constructed of steel ribs, and rings, or bands, united together upon the principle of a lattice bridge, or arch, one piece bracing and sustaining the other, rendering it capable of bearing any required weight; the socket or receptacle of the stump being open below, allows a free circulation of air, keeping it always cool and healthy, thereby preventing ulceration, which is almost invariably the consequence when the stump is confined in air-tight sockets.

The motions of the knee and ankle joints approach so near to nature as to render it almost impossible to distinguish it from the natural limb; and it can be adapted to every form of amputation, and worn without the least difficulty.

No stronger proof can be given of its superiority than the fact that it has been examined and approved of by all of the eminent Surgeons and Physicians in Philadelphia and elsewhere, to whom we take pleasure in referring at all times.

The Massachusetts Charitable Mechanics' Association, the American Institute, New York, and the Franklin Institute, Philadelphia, have awarded Silver Medals to Yerger & Ord, for the Skeleton Leg and Deformity Apparatus constructed by them. The public are cautioned against a certain party who is endeavouring in vain to bolster up his shackling business by circulating a petty species of slander, which has been justly refuted by an overwhelming patronage from those he expected to win by pursuing a course too far beneath the character of a man for us to notice in detail.

Every information in reference to the Metallic Leg, Ankle Supporter, and Instruments for Deformity, will be given on application, personally or by letter (post paid), to No. 7 Phoenix Block, Southwest corner of Second and Dock Streets, Philadelphia.

THE MERCANTILE LIBRARY.

THE MERCANTILE LIBRARY is situated on the southeast corner of Fifth and Library Streets. This Institution was founded for the benefit of the young men employed in the various mercantile establishments in the city. It was opened in temporary rooms, on the 19th of January, 1821, in the second story of No. 100 Chestnut Street. The present new and really elegant building, was erected in 1844-45, at a cost of $23,199 42, including furniture, &c. This building is unsurpassed for convenience of arrangement, and adaptation to the purpose for which it was designed, and it is justly deemed one of the chief ornaments of the city. The Library contains upwards of 10,000 volumes of well-selected books. The reading-rooms are always well attended, and the books have an unceasing circulation. To all who may have made use of it, the "Mercantile" has been a rich treasure, a pure and constant source of pleasure and improvement. In its list of members

THE FRANKLIN INSTITUTE, is a valuable association, organized, as stated in its constitution, "For the promotion and encouragement of Manufactures and the Mechanic and Useful Arts, by the establishment of popular lectures on the sciences connected with them; by the formation of a library, reading-room, and a cabinet of models and minerals; by offering premiums on all subjects deemed worthy of encouragement; by examining all new inventions submitted to them; and by such other means as they may judge expedient." This Institution was incorporated on the 30th of March, 1824. The members are manufacturers, mechanics, artisans, and persons friendly to the mechanic arts. The Hall of the Institute, located on Seventh, above Chestnut Street, is a plain and substantial edifice, having a spacious lecture-room on the first story, in which, during the winter season, lectures are delivered on mechanics, chemistry, and other sciences, to large and intelligent audiences. The reading-room, library, and cabinets of models and minerals, are in the second story. The library, though not large, is valuable; it contains about 6,000 volumes, principally mechanical and scientific works. The reading-room is well attended, and liberally supplied with periodicals and newspapers. In October, of each year, this Institution has an extensive exhibition of American manufactures. The extent and interest of these exhibitions cannot be described, or their importance to the industry and skill of our mechanics over-estimated. The exhibition is always an object of attraction, alike to citizens and strangers. It is generally held in the spacious saloons of the Museum Building, corner of Ninth and George Streets.

LIBRARY OF THE LAW ASSOCIATION OF PHILADELPHIA.—In the year 1802, a few gentlemen of the bar associated themselves for the purpose of obtaining a Law Library. They succeeded by degrees in forming a collection, which, with the limited number of law books then extant, was all that was wanted. With the increasing number of reports in modern times, the library, as originally organized, fell very far behind the professional requirements of the day; and in September, 1841, an effort was made to enlarge the collection, and to place it upon such a basis as should make it worthy of the bar to which it belonged. Between the 15th of October, 1841, and the 1st of March, 1850, there has been expended by the Society, in the purchase of new books, the sum of $9,583 72, exclusive of $865 87, paid for binding, &c.

The collection, we are informed, is now complete in all those departments usually required in the practice of law. There exists in it, a series of all the English, Irish, and American reports,—a department in which, we believe, no other library, either in Great Britain or the United States, is equally perfect. The department of text-books is also good; and, in addition to complete collections of the British statutes at large, and of the acts, both of our state and federal legislature, in their authoritative, unabridged condition, there will be found upon the shelves of this Library such digests and works of general jurisprudence as have obtained with the profession any title to authority. As a means of professional culture, and of extending among the bar a knowledge of the judicial

THE COLLEGE OF PHYSICIANS, was chartered on the 26th of March, 1789. Its objects are, "to advance the science of medicine, and thereby to lessen human misery, by investigating the diseases and remedies which are peculiar to this country; by observing the effect of different seasons, climates, and situations, upon the human body; by recording the changes which are produced in diseases by the progress of agriculture, arts, population, and manners; by searching for medicines in the American woods, waters, and in the bowels of the earth; by enlarging the avenues to knowledge from the discoveries and publications of foreign countries; and by cultivating order and uniformity in the practice of physic."

The College consists of Fellows and Associates. The Fellows must be practitioners of medicine, residing in the city or the incorporated districts of Philadelphia, and must be over twenty-four years of age. The Associates are distinguished practitioners residing without the above limits. No person who gives his support to any system of practice which is sustained by efforts to weaken or diminish public confidence in the science of medicine, or in the medical profession, or who, by advertisement, announces himself as possessing superior qualifications in the treatment of diseases, or of a particular disease, or who holds a patent, or part of a patent, for a surgical instrument, or gives a prescription to any apothecary, which he refuses to give to other apothecaries, or who deals in secret medicines, or publicly recommends them, can be elected either

These transactions embrace all written communications presented to the College which the publishing committee may select, a statement of all the facts relating to the science of medicine, surgery, or obstetrics, communicated verbally to the College by its Fellows, and an abstract of all discussions upon subjects of general interest which take place at the meetings of the Society. This periodical is one of the most valuable medical works of the day.

THE LIBRARY OF THE GERMAN SOCIETY, contains a collection of about 8,000 volumes, of both English and German works. The Hall is in Seventh below Market Street.

THE LIBRARY OF THE UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA, is located in the University Buildings, Ninth below Market Street. This Library originated by private donations from the friends of the Institution; among whom the Rev. William Smith, the first Provost of the College and Academy, and Dr. McDowell, one of his successors, deserve to be particularly remembered. During the war of Independence, the Library was enriched by a donation of books from Louis XVI. of France. These books were printed at the royal printing office, and consist principally of works on mathematics and on natural history, among which is a collection of M. Buffon's, together with some Byzantine historians. They are carefully preserved, and will, it is hoped, long remain a memorial of the generosity of that unfortunate monarch. The Library at present, contains about 5,000 volumes.

THE LIBRARY OF THE PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL.—The first medical work possessed by this Institution, was Louis's "History of Materia Medica," presented in 1762. It was subsequently determined to demand a fee from students attending the wards, and to appropriate the funds so obtained to the founding of a Medical Library.

The first catalogue published, which was in 1790, contained 21 folios, 79 quartos, 341 octavos, and 89 duodecimos, a total of 528 volumes. The increasing number of students from that time, has afforded a fund for the steady increase of the library. For several years the books were selected and purchased by the celebrated Lettsom, who enriched the collection with many valuable donations. In the year 1800, Sarah Lane presented 142 volumes of medical books, some of which are of great rarity; and on the decease of Dr. B. S. Barton, his extensive and choice collection of works on natural history, was obtained by purchase from his widow. At present, the library contains over 10,000 volumes, occupying a large and elegant room in the Hospital. The works are mostly medical, and those pertaining to kindred sciences. In these departments it is, probably, the most extensive in the country.

THE APPRENTICES' LIBRARY, southwest corner of Arch and Fifth Streets. Among the many organizations for the diffusion of knowledge in this city, not among the least is this excellent institution. The Apprentices' Library was founded, by voluntary contributions from our benevolent citizens, in 1819. It now contains over 12,000 volumes of well-selected books, embracing generally the most approved and standard works. The usefulness of this institution can only be estimated by seeing the number of young persons who seek its treasures; upwards of 1200 boys and 600 girls now partake of its benefits.

the Apprentices' Library, are the only institutions of this kind in our city. This ought not to be. Free libraries are of the highest importance in a community like that of Philadelphia, for they would give to the poor, to a great extent, the master-key of self-education. It is useless to say that books are cheap; cheap though they be, they are dear to those whose toil scarcely suffices to procure their daily living. The founders and supporters of the above-mentioned institutions, are entitled to all praise. We hope that ere long others will "Go and do likewise."

Since writing the above, we have the pleasure of noticing another shrine to Knowledge. Spring Garden is moving in the good cause. The citizens of that flourishing district have established

THE SPRING GARDEN INSTITUTE.—Here, in truth, will be a free reading-room and library, of the most approved kind. The spirit with which this enterprise has been undertaken is admirable. Its friends are earnest, truth-seeking men, who not only talk, but labour. Can their efforts be otherwise than successful?

This new structure—of which our illustration is a correct and beautiful view—will be an ornament to its vicinity, Broad and Spring Garden Streets.

In addition to the above Libraries and Associations, there are numerous minor institutions and clubs, &c., many of which have a choice collection of books for the use of their own members. Nor should we overlook the SOUTHWARK LIBRARY COMPANY, in Second below German Street, the NORTHERN LIBERTIES FRANKLIN LIBRARY COMPANY, in Second near Tammany Street, the JEFFERSON LIBRARY AND LITERARY ASSOCIATION, corner of Brown and Second Streets, and the FREE READING-ROOM ASSOCIATION, of Spring Garden.

We learn, also, that the Commissioners of Kensington have appropriated a lot of ground as a site for the erection of a Hall, to be designated THE KENSINGTON INSTITUTE. The establishment of this praiseworthy enterprise is yet in its infancy. We hope that the example of Spring Garden will urge on the good work, not only in Kensington, but in all our districts. Such institutions will go far to refine and elevate the character of our young men; there cannot be too many of them.

by cultivating the Arts of Design in connexion with the industrial arts.

Young women, whose minds are sufficiently cultivated to enter upon a course of instruction, may freely come forward and enjoy the advantages of this school. The charges are extremely moderate, considering the benefits to be derived.

The School of Design will mark, it is hoped, a new era in our manufactures. In Europe, signal advantages have been derived for the arts, from a close alliance between the useful and the ornamental. The silk and porcelain of France, the iron and glass of Germany, are instances of the manner in which articles of use and luxury can acquire increased attraction and value from tasteful decoration or elegant form. The care with which, in those countries, the Arts of Design have long been fostered, has secured a market for their fabrics, in certain branches of industry, which until recently was without a rival.

The importance of this subject to our manufacturers, cannot be over-estimated; for, unless as Americans, we can compete in matters of taste with European artists, we must for ever be subject to the mortification of following where we should lead. Then, gentlemen, look to it! Avail yourselves of the immense advantages to your interests here offered, by thus bringing the Arts of Design within your reach, while at the same time you may enjoy the privilege of cherishing a class of your countrywomen every way entitled to the highest respect and regard.

THE PENNSYLVANIA ACADEMY OF THE FINE ARTS, located in Chestnut Street, between Tenth and Eleventh Streets, is the oldest and perhaps the most important institution of the kind in the United States.

It was organized in 1807, by joint stock subscription, the shares in the corporation being then fixed at fifty dollars each, subject to an annual contribution of two dollars, entitling each stockholder to free admission at all times, within the hours appointed for public exhibition. The shares are now fixed at thirty dollars each, which includes a commutation of all annual dues. The stockholders become joint owners in the property of the Institution, the estimated value of which has been recently ascertained to amount to $34,955.

Among the works of art which belong to the Academy are the following rare and important sculptures. HERO AND LEANDER, a group in marble, by Steinhauser. BACCHANTES, a pair in marble, by Cerrachi. SON OF NIOBE, in marble, from the antique. COMMODUS, a bust, in marble, from the antique. DIANA, in marble, by Steinhauser. ANTINOUS, in marble, from the antique. VENUS DE MEDICI, in marble, by Canova. THE GATE OF THE BAPTISTERY OF ST. THE ART UNION OF PHILADELPHIA, located in Chestnut Street between Eighth and Ninth Streets, is an institution of considerable importance, affording, as it does by its free gallery, a place of public resort for strangers, and citizens, at all seasons.

The plan upon which it is managed differs entirely from all other Art Unions in the United States. The yearly payment of five dollars entitles each subscriber to membership, which includes the right of voting, the ownership of the annual engravings, and a chance in the allotment of prize certificates, with which works of American Art may be purchased in any part of the country. The distribution of the prizes takes place annually on the evening of the last week-day of the year.

The gallery is opened to the free admission of the public every day, Sundays excepted, and is brilliantly illuminated in the evenings. The use of this gallery is made free to all Artists for the exhibition and sale of their productions.

Although the gallery is capable of containing more than one hundred and fifty paintings at one time, it is yet estimated to exhibit over one thousand different original pictures in the course of every year—the wall being re-hung once in every month.

The present officers are, HENRY C. CAREY, President ; EDWARD P. MITCHELL, Treasurer ; GEORGE W. DEWEY, Corresponding Secretary ; EDWARD F. DENNISON, Actuary.

THE PRESS.

The achievements of the last fifty years have been such that no local or temporary interest can satisfy the mind; everything is conducted on a grand scale. The extension of education, the progress of science, the facilities of communication and intercourse between nations, and, above all, the freedom of the Press, and its consequent wide and rapid circulation of news, have served to produce this extent of thought and purpose. In the United States the Press is supremely important. The affairs of the republic are debated, not only in Congress, but in the journals of the day; thus enabling the far-off dweller on the shores of the Pacific to canvass the affairs of his government equally as well as the citizen in Washington. The Church, in the olden time, furnished the man of talent with the means of procuring power and influence; but for the man of talent and tact now, the arena of the Press may well be an ample one, where influences the most mighty can be obtained over the heads and hearts of millions. Can ambition seek for more?

In no part of the country, indeed we may say in the world, does the Press maintain a higher tone, or is more characterized by originality, courtesy, and propriety, than in Philadelphia: controlled as it is, for the most part, by men of high social position, its columns are rarely stained by those "exhibitions" which, in some other cities, so often outrage the public sense. In our political papers, influenced by party interest and party spirit, the decorum of personal intercourse is invariably observed, and it is seldom, indeed, that the editor forgets in his writings the respect due to the profession, and that he too is a gentleman.

The activity and power of the newspaper press of the United States date their origin from the Revolutionary War. Previous to that great event, they were few in number, and barren of that interest, vigour, and originality, so important a feature in those of the present day. The Home Government and the United Colonies, having determined to settle their dispute by arms, both appealed to the people. Each, no doubt, had their partisans; but there were many independent or indifferent persons, whose support was valuable. Then it was that the Press entered into the strife, and assumed that direction of public opinion, which has continued ever since, and forms so remarkable a feature in modern political history.

The first public journal published in Philadelphia was "The American Weekly Mercury," established in 1719, by Andrew Bradford. It was printed on a half sheet quarto paper. A number, the only one we believe extant, is preserved in the Philadelphia Library. In 1723, Samuel Keimer, rendered famous by the wit and sarcasm of Benjamin Franklin, established the second paper. It was entitled "The Pennsylvania Gazette, and Universal Instructor in all the Arts and Sciences." This paper subsequently fell into the hands of Benjamin Franklin, under whose management it rapidly rose in public favour. It continued for a long series of years one of the principal papers of the day. The first daily newspaper published in the United States, was "The Pennsylvania Packet, or General Advertiser." It was first issued weekly in 1771, and became, in 1784, a daily paper. The Packet eventually passed into the hands of Mr. Zachariah Poulson, by whom it was continued under the name of "The American Daily Advertiser." In 1840, it merged into the present North American.

The following list will be found to comprise all the newspapers and periodicals published at present in this city.

CHAPTER VII.

BENEVOLENT INSTITUTIONS.

“Where the heart pineth in sorrow and sadness;
Where the brain rioteth free in its madness;
Where Reason’s lamp burneth, shrouded, yet bright,— Oh! on such miseries ‘Let there be light!’”

THE CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS of Philadelphia, proud monuments of benevolence, rear their heads in all parts of the city. They are not excelled, perhaps not equalled, by those of any other city, of the same extent, in the world. In this particular, Philadelphia has admirably illustrated its name,—“Brotherly Love.” First among these praiseworthy associations stands—

THE PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL.—In the year 1751, a number of the benevolent citizens of Philadelphia were incorporated by an Act of the Provincial Assembly, as “The Contributors to the Pennsylvania Hospital.” The charter was general in its character, and provided for “the relief of the sick, and the reception and cure of lunatics.” From the first opening of the Institution, the Insane Department has always constituted a prominent part of this noble charity, and has claimed a large share of the attention of its distinguished medical officers and managers.

This benevolent enterprise mainly relies for its support, and for the means of extending its usefulness, on private contributions and legacies. From the judicious management of these resources, has arisen those substantial and convenient buildings, on Pine Street, which are now used only for medical, surgical, and obstetric patients, and those more recently erected, two miles from the city, on the Haverford Road, known as the Pennsylvania Hospital for the Insane.

The square on which the first-named Institution stands, is bounded by Spruce and Pine, and Eighth and Ninth Streets. The entire lot is enclosed by a brick wall, with the exception of about one hundred and fifty feet on Pine Street, which is furnished with an iron railing. About seven-eighths of the square was purchased in 1755, by the managers, for £500; the remaining portion was presented to the Institution, by Thomas and Richard Penn, in 1762.

The Hospital, surrounded on the borders of the square by majestic trees, exhibits a south front of venerable aspect, and considerable architectural beauty, extending east and west two hundred and eighty-one feet. It consists of a centre building, united by two long wards, three stories in height, to two wings, extending north and south. These wings are surmounted by cupolas, and finished so as to present fronts on Eighth and Ninth Streets. The centre building is sixty-four feet front, by sixty-one in depth, and, to the top of the balustrade surrounding the cupola, seventy-two in height.

That portion of the Hospital first erected, was the east wing, the corner-stone of which was laid May 28th, 1755, by John Key, the first European born in Philadelphia. It was finished and opened for the reception of patients, the following year. The west wing was erected in 1796, and the centre in 1805.

In addition to the main edifice, there are various outhouses, together with a building on Spruce Street, erected for the exhibition of West's celebrated painting of "Christ Healing the Sick." The net proceeds from the exhibition of this picture, from 1818 until 1848, when it was removed to the Academy of Fine Arts, where it still remains, was nearly $24,000.

A well-executed statue of William Penn, presented by his grandson, John Penn, Esq., stands in the beautiful lawn facing Pine Street. (See page 252.)

The attention paid to neatness and ornament in the exterior and grounds of this Institution, gives it an air of elegance seldom equalled in establishments of the kind.

Previous to the year 1841, a large portion of the building was appropriated to the accommodation of the insane; but since the transfer of this class of patients to the new hospital, the building has been, in a great measure, remodelled, and thoroughly repaired; giving, in consequence, an enlarged accommodation for the ordinary medical and surgical patients.

The whole revenue of this noble charity is devoted, directly or indirectly, to the support of the sick poor. All accidents, if brought to the door within twenty-four hours after their occurrence, are admitted without a question, provided they have not occurred out of the State of Pennsylvania. All cases of chronic or acute disease are admitted,—if it appears that they are at all susceptible of relief,—as far as the accommodation of the house will allow. The reader must remember that it is not an asylum for the support of the destitute, but an hospital for their cure when sick; consequently, those beyond the reach of treatment are not admitted. A limited number of pay patients are received, which is but an extension of its charity; for, whatever profits are derived from this source, go to increase the ability of the Institution to relieve the poor.

This Hospital has always dispensed its blessings with a generous hand. At present, to the one hundred and twenty, already occupied, it has space provided for one hundred and fifty additional charity beds.

Among the beneficial operations of this Institution, are the medical lectures delivered there, to over three hundred medical students, who annually attend upon the practice of the house; thus enjoying opportunities for improvement, the benefits of which, to themselves and the communities among whom they may practise, are quite incalculable. It is well admitted that the young practitioner who has sought instruction by the bedside, in institutions of this kind, is far better qualified for the duties of his profession, than if he enjoyed no such advantage. For every patient cured or well treated in an hospital, hundreds scattered through wide regions of town and country may experience similar benefits. In concluding our notice, we will state, that since 1841, there have been 13,829 patients received into this establishment, of whom 9,800 were poor. The average population of the house at present, is about one hundred and fifty-eight,—one hundred and twenty of whom are poor.

Visitors are admitted, from 10 o'clock to sunset, every day except Sunday; and the afternoon of Saturday, only on special business.

PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL FOR THE INSANE.—The cornerstone of this building was laid on the 22d of June, 1832; it was opened for the reception of patients on the 1st of January, 1841. It is located on a fine farm, of 111 acres, between the Westchester and Haverford Roads, on the latter of which is the gate of entrance. The principal building and the main wings present an eastern front of four hundred and thirty-six feet, and consist of a basement and two principal stories.

The centre building is ninety-six feet deep, sixty-three feet wide, east of its junctions with the wings, and sixty-seven on its western side. The former, which is the principal front, is built of cut stone, and ornamented with a chaste and elegant Doric portico ; the west side has also a portico, of smaller dimensions, and like the rest of the Hospital is of stone, stuccoed to resemble the principal front. The interior arrangements are unsurpassed for convenience and perfect adaptation to the purpose designed.

Running north and south from the centre buildings, are the main wings. The north is occupied by the male, and the south by the female patients ; they do not differ materially in their structure or arrangements.

The principal edifice is surmounted by a dome, in which are placed iron tanks, from whence water is conveyed to every part of the building. The summit of the dome is eighty-five feet above the level of the basement, and from it the view is one of great beauty, embracing a large extent of country. In the distance are seen the Delaware and Schuylkill Rivers, the city of Philadelphia, the Girard College, &c.

A short distance north and south of the main Hospital, and nearly on a line with its eastern front, are the "Lodges," one for each sex : they are also of stone, one story high, and built on three sides of a hollow square, the fourth being finished with piers and an open iron railing, giving free access to the air, and affording a handsome view of the surrounding country. These Lodges, are constructed especially for the accommodation of noisy and violent patients, and have proved an admirable part of the Hospital. Every year's experience confirms their great value.

In each of these buildings, three distinct classes of patients can be accommodated ; and from their position and structure, the noisiest lunatics cause no annoyance to the inmates of the main Hospital, while their accommodations are not less comfortable.

The workshop is a handsome frame building, two stories high, situated near the gateway.

Of the one hundred and eleven acres in the farm, about forty-one around the Hospital are appropriated as a garden and pleasure-ground, and enclosed by a substantial wall. Immediately in front of the building is a beautiful lawn, forming a segment of a circle, in which is a circular railroad, together with extensive flower-beds. The pleasure-ground is beautifully undulating, and interspersed with clumps and groves of forest trees; these are fitted up with seats and summer-houses, and are the favourite resort of the patients during the summer.

The medical treatment of patients in this Institution is of the most judicious kind. Here, reason, perchance disturbed by the cares of life, or the hand of affliction, is not rudely hurled for ever from its throne, by the horrors of a madhouse, but is soothed and restored to health by kindness and by love. The mind is not allowed to brood over the past in a gloomy cell, but is kept in constant exercise, by labour or amusement in the garden, on the farm, or in mechanical employments;—riding in the circular railway, ten-pins; carriage riding, or long walks; the use of musical instruments; attendance at parties, lectures, concerts; all the usual varieties of games, and the use of a library and choice collection of papers and periodicals. To this and kindred Institutions,—for there are many of them now in our land,—we say God speed! They are like green spots of verdure amid the desert, where the mind impaired in its journey, can find peace and repose. Philadelphians may well be proud of this noble charity.

FRIENDS' ASYLUM FOR THE INSANE, near Frankford.—This Institution was founded in the year 1815, by contributions from the members of the Society of Friends, and is now supported by the pay received from patients, donations, and contributions. The buildings are well adapted for the purposes designed, and the administration of the Institution combines all that humanity and prudence can produce, to cure or relieve the unfortunate objects of its care.

THE UNITED STATES NAVAL ASYLUM.—This noble charity was founded in the year 1835, as a Naval School and an Hospital for Pensioners, but is now used for the latter purpose only. It is situated on the banks of the River Schuylkill, a short distance below the city, fronting on the Gray's Ferry Road. The site is one of the most beautiful in the vicinity of Philadelphia, being the highest point of land on the river below Fairmount.

The Asylum consists of three structures, separated from each other, yet forming one entire and beautiful plan,—the main building, and the residences of the Commodore and Surgeon.

The main or principal edifice is three stories in height, built of Pennsylvania marble, and presents a front of 380 feet, including a centre building of 142 feet by 175 deep; it is embellished with a beautiful portico of eight columns of the Ionic order. The wings contain verandas on each story.

On the platform are two field pieces, captured at the Battle of Saratoga; and two large marble balls, which were brought by the late COMMODORE ELLIOT from the Hellespont. The balls are said to have been fired from the celebrated Turkish mortar, the largest piece of ordnance in the world.

The basement, or first story, of the centre building, is divided into a spacious dining-room, the various culinary departments, pantry, and washing and ironing rooms. The wings of this story are divided into dormitories, &c.

The second story contains the Dispensary, and the Officers', Surgeon's, and Apothecaries' apartments; also a beautiful chapel, fifty-six feet square, lighted from a dome. The wings of this story are fitted up into chambers, for the accommodation of the Pensioners, each being neatly furnished with a bed, table, chairs, &c. These rooms are well ventilated; they open directly on the verandas, and are kept remarkably clean. The third story contains sleeping apartments, the Infirmary, baths, closets, &c.

The whole building is heated from furnaces in the basement, and plenteously supplied with water from Fairmount.

The Asylum contains about 140 Pensioners at the present time,—among whom is THOMAS JOHNSON, the only survivor of the daring crew of the Bon Homme Richard. He was one of the two men who assisted PAUL JONES to lash his vessel to the British Frigate Serapis, in that memorable engagement in the British Channel.* Each pensioner has an allowance of thirty-six dollars a year for clothing, and one dollar a month pocket-money, together with one pound and a half of tobacco. They are not restricted in diet,—each man having as much as he requires. The bill of fare, as shown to us, is equal to that of any hotel in the city.

The buildings are surrounded by a beautiful park, containing about twenty-five acres, enclosed in front by an elegant iron railing; it is laid out into walks, flower-beds, and grass-plats, and planted with trees, and shrubbery. That portion facing the river, affords some fine views, embracing the Schuylkill and its shipping, together with the Almshouse, Woodland Cemetery, Hamilton Village, &c., on the opposite shore.

This Institution will compare favourably with any other of the kind in the world: it is worthy of the country. Long may it continue the happy home of the brave, who have perilled their lives, or impaired their health, in the service of their native land.

* Since writing the above notice, this old hero has gone to his long home. He was supposed to have been over one hundred years of age.

INSTITUTION FOR THE DEAF AND DUMB.

PENNSYLVANIA INSTITUTION FOR THE EDUCATION OF THE DEAF AND DUMB.—This benevolent Institution is situated at the corner of Broad and Pine Streets. It was founded in the year 1820, incorporated in 1821, and removed to the present building in 1825; the original cost of which was eighty thousand dollars.

This charity is supported by donations and the contributions of annual subscribers and life members. By the act of incorporation, the State of Pennsylvania, allowed 160 dollars apiece, annually, for the support of indigent pupils of this State, the number of whom was not to exceed fifty, and the term of each not to extend over three years. This number has since been increased, and the term extended, by several enactments. The number under the present appropriation is 92, and the term allowed is six years.

The Institution at present contains 134 pupils, 92 of whom are supported by Pennsylvania, 18 by Maryland, 13 by New Jersey, 3 by Delaware, and 13 by the Institution. The system of education adopted in this establishment is that of the Abbé de l'Epée and Sicard, which has been so successfully practised in Europe.

The edifice was erected from designs by Haviland, and is constructed of granite. It is composed of a centre building, 50 feet front by 63 in depth. The whole front, including the wings, is 96 feet, and it extends back 235 feet. The façade is ornamented by a chaste and beautiful portico, in the Doric style of architecture. There are two spacious yards, and an enclosed plat laid out as a flower-garden, furnishing ample space for exercise for the pupils. The interior arrangements are of the most ample kind, comprising eleven school-rooms, a lecture-room, cabinet of models, apparatus, and specimens, airy sleeping-rooms, an infirmary, workshops, and apartments for culinary purposes, &c. To cultivate the understanding, to invigorate the constitution, and to train up the child in the way he should go, are the leading objects of this Institution, and the best efforts of the Officers and Directors have been aimed to accomplish this great end. By a rule of the Institution, deaf and dumb children are not admitted under ten years of age. Any respectable stranger is admitted to inspect the building on application to the Principal of the Institution, A. B. Hutton, A.M.

THE PENNSYLVANIA INSTITUTION FOR THE INSTRUCTION OF THE BLIND.—This noble charity is situated in Race Street, between Schuylkill Second and Third Streets, and was founded in the year 1833, through the exertions of the benevolent.

The buildings of this Asylum have been much improved during the last year, by the erection of additional wings, an extension of the upper story, and a material addition to the infirmary ; this enlargement had become absolutely necessary in view of the increased number of applicants.

The number of pupils now receiving instruction at the Blind Asylum is 93, of whom 45 are supported by the State of Pennsylvania, 6 by New Jersey, 5 by Maryland, 1 by Delaware, 15 by the Institution, 15 by their own industry, and 6 by their friends.

The amount of good done by this charity to a deeply afflicted class, and to the community, by giving them the means of support, and relieving the public from an inevitable charge, commends it strongly to public favour. The organization of such charities forms a bright era in the history of our race ; it is really accomplishing the words of the Prophet, that “ the blind would see, the dumb speak, and the ears of the deaf be unstopped.”

The Institution is open to strangers every day except Sunday, but to citizens it is only open every Wednesday afternoon, when an opportunity is given to examine the workshops, &c. At 4 o'clock a concert of vocal and instrumental music is given, with an exhibition of the apparatus used in the instruction of the pupils. Owing to the impossibility of accommodating the large crowds that attended these exhibitions when free, a small admission fee is now charged.

The Race Street line of omnibuses pass the premises, and the Vine and Arch Street lines within a square of the gate.

Principal of the Institution, W. Chapin.

FRIENDS' ALMSHOUSE, located in Walnut below Fourth Street. This Institution is sustained by the Society of Friends, by legacies, &c. There are few inmates at present. The front of the lot has been improved by the erection of several elegant buildings, occupied as offices, &c. This antique building is worthy of a visit. It is occupied at present by the keeper's family, new buildings having been erected for the accommodation of the inmates.

BLOCKLEY ALMSHOUSE.—The extensive range of buildings comprising this Almshouse, are situated on the west side of the River Schuylkill, opposite the city. They consist of four edifices, each 500 feet front, three stories high, including the basement, of regular ashlar masonry, so arranged as to enclose a rectangular yard. The front facing the city is ornamented by an elegant portico, in the Tuscan order of architecture, having six columns, five feet in diameter at the base, and thirty feet high, giving a grand and imposing appearance to the structure. Looking at its exterior, it is really a palace for the poor.

The average number of paupers maintained during the past year, was 1813, at an expense of $97,925 55,—being at the rate of $1 04 per week each.

The manufactory and house of employment, during the same period, yielded $21,707 21, and the farm $14,857 05.

The Children's Asylum attached to the Almshouse, contains at present about 362 boys and 1498 girls, altogether 1860, supported at an expense of $69,525.

The Insane department contains about 390 of these poor unfortunates.

The Hospital consists of 11 wards, each 47 by 44 feet, and two attics; altogether containing 432 beds. There are at present about 349 patients under care.

These buildings have every necessary accommodation that can reasonably be expected. What city has better?

We may here remark, that the cost of supporting the poor at the Almshouse and in the City and Districts was $228,977 11, during the year 1851.

MOYAMENSING ALMSHOUSE, situated on Irish Track Lane, below Fitzwater Street. The principal building is of brick, with several out-houses; attached are a number of acres of ground, on which produce is raised for the use of the Institution.

This public charity is under the control of the District of Moyamensing, which, in consideration of taking care of their own poor, pays no tax into the general city and county fund for that purpose.

THE WILLS HOSPITAL, for the Diseases of the Eye and Limbs, was founded by the late James Wills of Philadelphia, who bequeathed to the city for that purpose, the sum of $108,396; which at the time of the completion of the building, had accumulated to $122,548. The expense of its erection, including the cost of the lot, was $57,203, leaving a balance of $65,345; the interest of which is available for the support of the Institution.

The corner-stone was laid on the 2d of April, 1832, and on the 3d of March, 1834, the Hospital was opened for the reception of patients.

WILLS HOSPITAL.

It is a neat stone structure, eighty feet long and fifty feet deep, with a piazza on the south side extending through its entire length, and is divided into two large wards, and a number of smaller and more private rooms, besides those occupied by the officers and others connected with the establishment.

The Hospital is beautifully situated, being immediately opposite to Logan Square. The ample grounds appertaining to it, together with the delightful promenade in front, secure not only free ventilation, but, to a considerable extent, also, the healthful influences of a rural location. In addition to the legacy of MR. WILLS, several small bequests have been received from other individuals, among them one by the late DR. BLENON; and the Institution is moreover allowed by Act of Legislature the temporary use of the unemployed income from a fund left by JOHN BLEAKLY, in 1802, for the relief of the poor during visitations of the yellow fever; the net annual proceeds of which amount at present to $554.

The greatest number of patients admitted hitherto into the Hospital, at any one time, is about forty-five; but many more attend as "out-patients," for advice and medicine. Since its foundation, upwards of two thousand persons have been cured or relieved, as inmates of the Institution, and more than twice that number have received its benefits in their own homes. Most of these cases are such as would have proved incurable in private practice, and in numerous instances the sufferers have been restored to sight from a state of total blindness.

Persons applying for gratuitous admission are expected to bring satisfactory evidence of respectable character and indigent circumstances; pay patients are also admitted, and the managers are thus enabled to diffuse its advantages more widely among the poor than they could otherwise do. Patients from distant parts of the country, have sought relief there in preference to treatment at their own homes or hotels, and will continue to do so in greater numbers, as more extended accommodations are provided.

Such enlargement is very much required; and it is to be regretted that means should be wanting for so beneficent a purpose. Founded for the cure of diseases of the Limbs, as well as those of the Eye, to which it is at present restricted, it might, with adequate endowments, comprehend all recent accidents, as well as chronic ailments, affecting the extremities. It is a stock, moreover, upon which various branches of healing may be engrafted, bearing severally such designation as might be given them by their respective founders. Nothing forbids the association therewith of a medical department also; and the city would thus be furnished with another general hospital, now greatly needed, of convenient access, and unsurpassed in beauty and healthfulness of location by any similar Institution in the world.

For many years, it has been steadily dispensing to the poor the blessings it was intended to impart. The good which it has done, and is still doing, even in the contracted sphere of its present operations, is incalculable ; and with the addition of two wings, appropriated one to the Orthopedic and the other to the Ophthalmic department, it would be an honour to the city, and take at once high rank among the charitable institutions of the world.

The Wills Hospital is governed by a Board of eighteen Directors, appointed by the City Councils, who confide its professional charge to the following gentlemen, the first-named three of whom have been connected with the Institution from its commencement, J. Hays, M.D., S. Littell, M.D., J. Parrish, M.D., J. Neill, M.D.

THE CITY HOSPITAL AT BUSH HILL, is situated at the southwest corner of Schuylkill Fourth and Coates Street, Spring Garden. The structure is of brick, and consists of a centre building, three stories high, connected to two-story wings, running east and west. A portico, enclosed with pivot blinds, extends on three sides of the east, and the entire length of the west wing. In the front on Coates Street, is an ample space, enclosed by a wicket fence, handsomely laid out in walks, flower-beds, &c. On each end is a garden, and in the rear, a yard, outhouses, &c.

The centre on the floor and level with the entrance is occupied by a hall, apartments for the different officers, and a spacious stairway leading to the upper stories. The second story is divided into four, and the third into five chambers. The attic also contains five rooms. The wings, one for male and the other for female patients, are each divided into seven wards ; all well aired by spacious windows. There is also a room for insane patients.

The apartments and wards of this Hospital are kept remarkably clean, and its whole arrangement is under the most judicious management. Thus, though seldom occupied by patients, it is always in a state of readiness for any emergency. This Institution was established by Act of Assembly, January 7th, 1818, as a Pest Hospital, where all persons may be sent, by order of the Board of Health, Sanitary Committee, or other persons appointed by the Board of Health, who are afflicted with a pestilential or contagious disease.

The Hospital is under the exclusive control of the Sanitary Committee of the Board, which is composed at present of the following gentlemen, viz., Dr. John A. Elkinton, Dr. Pleasants, William Goodwin, Esq., Edward C. Markley, Esq., Dr. Gardiner, and Thomas J. Herring, Esq. The physician of the Hospital is Dr. John J. Bird, and the Matron, Lydia Tomlinson.

An hospital carriage is always in readiness to convey patients to the Institution from any part of the city or county.

CHRIST CHURCH HOSPITAL, Cherry Street, between Third and Fourth Streets, founded by DR. J. KEARSLEY, for the relief of indigent females of the Episcopal Church.

THE SAINT JOSEPH'S HOSPITAL, Green Hill. This Institution is situated on the Girard Avenue, within a short distance of Girard College, and has the advantage of a fine open lot around it, which is well ventilated from the absence of contiguous buildings. It is capable of accommodating sixty patients, the males and females being in separate buildings, and receives them at the low price of three dollars per week, either for surgical or medical treatment. It is administered in its nursing by an experienced religious community, the Sisters of Saint Joseph. Persons desirous of entering will call upon one of the Managers acting as an Hospital Committee, and furnish the requisite security for their accommodation, upon which they will be admitted. Surgical accidents of a severe kind are received at once for a limited time.

Prescribers of the Institution—Surgeons.—W. E. Horner, M.D., Henry H. Smith, M.D., J. H. B. M'Clellan, M.D.

Physicians.—Wm. V. Keating, M.D., Alfred Stillé, M.D., Francis G. Smith, M.D.

THE DISPENSARIES.

There are four of these valuable institutions in Philadelphia, to dispense medicine, and medical advice, to the poor. It has been truly and justly observed, that there are many in every community, whose situation prevents their entering an Hospital, while there are many others whom an honourable pride deters from a public exhibition of their wants. To such, establishments like those under notice, must prove a real blessing; and it cannot be doubted, nay, we have ample evidence, that many valuable lives are saved to the community by their operations.

THE PHILADELPHIA DISPENSARY, South Fifth below Chestnut Street, was the first established in this city, being founded in 1786. The Institution is under the control of a Board of twelve Managers, elected annually, by the contributors. The Managers elect six attending and four consulting physicians and surgeons, an Apothecary, and a Treasurer. The physicians and surgeons attend in their turn at the Dispensary every day, at 3 o'clock, P. M. The apothecary resides in the building. All cases, whether acute, chronic, surgical, or obstetrical, are promptly attended to, when recommended by a contributor or by making proper application to the Dispensary; such as are not able to come in person, are attended at their homes; but no persons are deemed objects of this charity but such as are really necessitous.

According to the last report of the Institution, there have been 7,362 patients under care of the Dispensary during the year past, of which number 7,251 recovered, 78 died, and 33 remain under care.

The Obstetric department, founded in 1837, has now become, under its able management, a perfect system of prompt and active usefulness.

The payment of five dollars entitles the donor to the privileges of a contributor, and the payment of fifty dollars constitutes a life membership.

THE NORTHERN DISPENSARY was established in 1816. It is located at No. 1 Spring Garden Street. There is connected with this Institution a lying-in department, where the poor can have the best attendance, with every comfort that can reasonably be expected; indeed, we are informed that few in the better ranks of society have better attendance than those receive who enjoy the blessings of this charity.

MOYAMENSING DISPENSARY AND HOUSE OF INDUSTRY, Catharine Street, above Seventh. This Institution went into operation in 1847, since which time it has done an incalculable amount of good, in restoring the health and saving the lives of thousands of indigent sufferers. In the district of its location, a county officer was known to receive, previous to its establishment, over $600 per month, for burying the dead, who were sent to the grave for want of timely medical assistance; now, the same officer has rarely a case during the same period. Few charitable institutions have stronger claims upon the benevolent.

PRESTON RETREAT, at present used by the Foster Home Association. This elegant building, designed as a lying-in hospital for indigent married women, was founded by bequest of DR. JONAS PRESTON. The edifice is one of the most beautiful in the city. The lot upon which it stands occupies an entire square, extending from Schuylkill Second to Third Street, and from Hamilton to Spring Garden Street.

The funds left for the support of this Institution are ample, but in consequence of their not being available,—being invested in the Schuylkill Navigation Company's stock,—the object of the testator has not been carried into effect. In the mean time, the managers have allowed the Foster Home Association to occupy the premises.

This Society, as its name implies, is instituted to provide a home for the children of the poor, and it now feeds, clothes, and instructs about 74 little homeless ones. In our visit to this Asylum, we were delighted with the order, remarkable cleanliness, and decorum, that pervaded the whole establishment; and it was pleasing to see the affection evinced by the children toward their attendants. Nowhere did we see happier or more cheerful faces. We recommend the generous to visit the "Home;" we know that their charity will not be misplaced.

HOUSE OF INDUSTRY, Catharine Street between Seventh and Eighth Streets. This charity was organized in the winter of 1846, through the exertions of MR. MULLEN, who, being acquainted with the deplorable condition of the poor in the District of Moyamensing, felt prompted to relieve their most pressing necessities, as far as his individual means would permit. In this benevolent mission he soon found the destitute far more numerous than he anticipated, and a very large portion sunk in the deepest and most hopeless poverty; consequently, he was led to devise other means for their relief. The plan of the Institution under notice was the result, which from its inception proved successful. Other kindred spirits were soon attracted to his aid, thus cheering on the undertaking and enabling it, by enlarged means, to extend its blessings. It has been ascertained, that by the system of giving employment to the poor, the association have been able to keep each individual comfortable, through the most inclement season of the year, at the small expense of about one dollar for three months over the received value of their labour, or an average of a little more than four dollars per annum. But this is not the most important view of this subject. It has also done much towards the diminution of crime in the District of its location. We find that in January, 1845, there were 409 commitments to the County Prison, of which number 212 were from Moyamensing alone; now the proportion from this quarter is greatly diminished. The Coroner, in 1846, received not less than six hundred dollars per month for burying the dead, over whom he held inquests, in this, then called "In-feeted District ;" now, his receipts for this purpose are much reduced.

In this benevolent enterprise Mr. Mullen has laboured without any other remuneration than that which ought to animate the followers of HIM, who came to preach glad tidings, to bind up the broken heart, and to raise the fallen. We dwell upon this effort, because it shows what one person can accomplish by perseverance and devotion to one object. Happy is that man who makes that object the temporal and eternal welfare of his fellow-men. We commend the enterprise to our readers as a system that might well be adopted in all large cities, not only with benefit to the destitute, but with an actual saving to the public in every point of view.

The present buildings were erected in 1848, the interior arrangements of which are well adapted to the benevolent object. The lower story consists of a store, for the sale of provisions, &c., to the poor, at cost prices, a room fitted up for the Moyamensing Soup Society, an office for the Moyamensing Dispensary, a kitchen, and a free bathing and washing establishment. It is a usual thing for workmen to stop here after their day's labour, and bathe, going home clean and refreshed. In the second story are the work-rooms of the Institution. The third story contains the much-talked-of Ragged Schools. Everything in this room appeared to us in good order. These schools are under the charge of some benevolent ladies of the Society of Friends. The fourth story is divided into small rooms, for the purpose of giving a night's shelter to those without a home.

We were much gratified with the general appearance of the entire establishment. It is a model in point of cleanliness, order, judicious management, and practical benevolence.

THE WIDOWS' ASYLUM, situated at the northeast corner of Schuylkill Fifth and Cherry Streets, was instituted in the year 1819, by contributions, and it still depends upon the same resources for support. It contains at present about sixty inmates, the oldest of whom is ninety years of age.

PHILADELPHIA LYING-IN ASYLUM, FOR THE RELIEF OF INDIGENT WOMEN.—This is a new and praiseworthy Institution, located at No. 229 Arch Street. It was organized on the 10th of October, 1850.

ST. ANN'S WIDOWS' ASYLUM, Moyamensing Road below Christian Street, is under the charge of the Sisters of St. Joseph.

ROMAN CATHOLIC BENEVOLENT SOCIETY OF PHILADELPHIA, an association of ladies, who visit the sick and distressed poor, affording them such aid as their means will allow in clothing, provisions, money, &c.

THE ORPHANS' SOCIETY OF PHILADELPHIA, Race Street and Schuylkill Fifth, was formed on the 20th of March, 1814, by a number of ladies, who convened for that purpose in the schoolroom of the Second Presbyterian Church, and was incorporated on the 29th of January, 1816.

The object of this benevolent association, is "to rescue from ignorance, idleness, and vice, destitute, unprotected, and helpless children, by providing for them that support and instruction which will eventually enable them to become useful members of society." The first orphan was admitted on the 3d of March, 1815. The family at present consists of eighty-four children,—forty-eight boys and thirty-six girls.

According to the by-laws, no boy shall be bound out as a house servant, or to a tavern-keeper, nor until he has received a suitable education, and no girl can be bound to a tavern or boarding-house keeper. It is the duty of the managers—an onerous one too, self-imposed though it be—to keep a maternal eye over these children, after they leave the Institution, by visiting them occasionally, and inquiring into their conduct and treatment.

In the year 1816, the Society received a donation of a large lot of ground, that on which the present building stands, from four gentlemen, viz., Messrs. J. Cook, Jacob Justice, James Wilmer, and Jonah Thompson. The foundation of the first Asylum was laid the same year, and the building completed, and occupied by the children, in April, 1818. This first Orphans' Home was a substantial structure, fifty by fifty-three feet, three stories high, exclusive of a basement and attic, and was erected at a cost of $26,675. This building was entirely destroyed by fire, on the morning of the 24th of January, 1822, when, melancholy to relate, twenty-three of its little inmates perished in the conflagration. At that time, there were ninety orphans in the family. Such was the rapidity of the flames, that of those who escaped, few saved more than their night-clothes. The fire having commenced in the kitchen, soon extended to the stairway, and from thence it enveloped the entire building. Repeated noble attempts were made to rescue the little sufferers, but the efforts were rendered of no avail for want of ladders.

The sympathy of our citizens was awakened by this calamity, and the sum of $27,978 was speedily obtained, which, with a grant of $5,000 from the State, enabled the managers to rebuild the Asylum the following year. The present edifice is from a design by WILLIAM STRICKLAND, and presents an excellent plan, embracing every requisite accommodation for the inmates at that date; we think, however, that at present many improvements and additions might advantageously be made.

The structure is of brick, one hundred and ten feet by fifty-three, and consists of a basement, a principal, and an attic story. The materials are of the best kind, and the workmanship executed in the most substantial manner. The basement is arched, and the stairways are of stone; indeed, the building, we may say, is entirely fire-proof. A large area is attached to the Asylum, used as a play-ground, which, considering its immediate vicinity to one of our noble squares, gives it the advantage of a rural location.

The benevolence of the Christian appears truly in a work like this. What friend of his country, of humanity, does not wish well to such a noble institution !

SAINT JOHN'S ORPHAN ASYLUM.—This new and elegant building is located on the west side of the Schuylkill River, about two and a half miles from Market Street Bridge. It is built on a lot of thirteen acres, adjoining the Cathedral Cemetery. The structure is of brown stone, in the Tudor style of Gothic architecture,—a style peculiarly suited for such institutions. It consists of a main edifice, sixty feet long by fifty deep, and four stories high, connected to wings of three stories the extremes finishing with pointed gables ; the whole length is two hundred and twenty feet. Over the main building is a turret, surmounted by a cross. The height from the ground to the top of the cross is ninety-six feet. The interior, in accordance with the exterior appearance of the building, is finished in a plain, substantial manner. The basement of the centre block, contains the various culinary departments, wash and bath rooms, together with the refectory and a play-room for the children, when the weather is such as to prevent their enjoying out-door amusements. The upper portion is appropriated to the use of the “SISTERS,” or religious order having charge of the Institution. The north wing contains the chapel, schoolrooms, and dormitories ; and the south wing is devoted entirely to dormitories. There are three staircases, all of easy access, from any part of the building by the corridors. Particular care has been taken in the construction of these stairways, to make them commodious and strong. The building is designed to accommodate a family of about two hundred and fifty orphans, and their attendants. J. T. MAHONY, ESQ., was the architect of this beautiful edifice.

MAGDALEN ASYLUMS.

There are three of these praiseworthy institutions in Philadelphia. THE MAGDALEN ASYLUM, Schuylkill Second above Race Street, THE HOUSE OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD, Schuylkill Front and George Street, and the ROSINE ASYLUM, Eighth above Wood Street.

The first of these Institutions was organized in the year 1800. The number of Magdalens who have obtained shelter of its charity since then, has been about one thousand, of whom upwards of five hundred have been reclaimed, and restored to respectable society, or have died under its care, manifesting satisfactory evidence of true repentance. The Asylum is a plain brick edifice, erected by voluntary contributions.

THE HOUSE OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD, is under charge of the Sisters of the Good Shepherd, a religious order, attached to the Roman Catholic Church. It has been the means of reclaiming many from the paths of vice.

THE ROSINE ASYLUM is a new institution, under the judicious management of some of our most benevolent ladies; since its organization it has been eminently successful. It is pleasing to know, that some of our citizens sympathize with the fallen. A moment's reflection will convince the inquirer of the absolute necessity of such institutions as those before us, if we ever hope to reclaim the wanderers from the paths of virtue. It has been truly said, that the unhappy girl who has been the sufferer from misplaced confidence—and are there not too many such, who are more sinned against than sinning?—has no hope of escape from total ruin, unless sheltered by such asylums. If not here, where can she go? Her friends, and too often her parents, fear to take her back to the domestic hearth, apprehending moral contamination to the other members of the household. Alas! cast out from all that is dear and hallowed in life, humbled in her own estimation, she becomes reckless, and soon, very soon, seeks to drown her woes in the intoxicating bowl. That any in such a situation, surrounded by such unfavourable circumstances, should have the resolution to stop and seek to regain a virtuous course of life, while the world, notwithstanding their penitence and tears, treats them with coldness, enough to deter many from less noble resolutions, is truly a matter of wonder. We hope that the importance of these institutions will be regarded in their proper light, by the citizens of Philadelphia, a city whose boast is her benevolence. None have stronger claims.

COLOURED ORPHANS' ASYLUM, Thirteenth above Callowhill Street. This is a large and commodious building for the maintenance and education of coloured orphans, and is one of the many monuments of the benevolence of our citizens. It contains at present about sixty-seven children. This Institution has rescued many little ones from the abodes of wretchedness and vice, which abound in some neighbourhoods of the southern portion of our city. It is a cheering thought that they may in a future day, become useful members of society, instead of a prey to the miseries of crime, to which they were exposed. Many poor but worthy coloured people, also, have had their dying moments soothed, by the knowledge that there was a comfortable home provided for their bereaved little ones.

Donations are gratefully received at the Asylum.

To the above we may add, the PROVIDENT SOCIETY, THE UNION BENEVOLENT SOCIETY, THE NORTHERN ASSOCIATION FOR THE RELIEF AND EMPLOYMENT OF POOR WOMEN, and THE TEMPORARY HOME ASYLUM. These associations and a multitude of others, are organized to assist the poor, by providing employment and relieving their immediate wants. The remark is often made, that these societies, "do too much for the poor," and that they encourage idleness. This is not so; for, from examination and inquiry, we do not hesitate to say, that in very few cases has their benevolence been imposed upon. Let the caviller accompany the visitors of any one of them, and he will for ever after hold his peace, if not assist in the good work.

We might add to this extensive list, the various SOUP SOCIETIES and CITY TRUSTS, for the distribution of bread, wood, and coal, to the poor; the various BENEFICIAL ASSOCIATIONS, organized for mutual support in time of sickness,—a guide to which would form a book itself,—THE HUMANE SOCIETY FOR THE RECOVERY OF DROWNED PERSONS, THE SOCIETY FOR ALLEVIATING THE MISERIES OF PRISONS, THE COLONIZATION SOCIETY, the various ABOLITION SOCIETIES, THE FOREIGN BENEVOLENT SOCIETIES OF ST. GEORGE, ST. ANDREW, ST. PATRICK, ST. DAVID, &c., until we exceeded the limits of the present work.

PENN'S TREATY WITH THE INDIANS.

CHAPTER VIII.

CHURCHES AND RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS.

RELIGIOUS SOCIETIES of all denominations are exceedingly numerous in Philadelphia. This is creditable to the memory of its founder, whose wish was, that every one might worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience.

Penn, himself a distinguished leader in the Society of Friends, solemnly declares, that he came into the charge of founding the Province of Pennsylvania for "the Lord's sake." He desired to establish a people who should be a praise in the earth, for conduct, as well as for civil and religious liberty.

Few of the old churches in Philadelphia are distinguished for architectural beauty; but many, erected within the last few years, are remarkable for elegance and comfort. Being designed to suit the wants and the characters of a republican people, they excel in beauty of design, elegance of execution, and chasteness of decoration, rather than ornate display.

The first of these societies which claims our attention, is THE FRIENDS, or QUAKERS. Meetings of this Society were held, previous to the settlement of Philadelphia, at the house of Thomas Fairman, at Shackamaxon,—the present Kensington.

This house, Watson says in his "Annals," was near "the Elm Tree," that subsequently obtained such renown as being the scene of Penn's Treaty of Friendship with the Indians. It was at this Treaty (of which our engraving is a beautiful view) that Penn addressed them in these memorable words: "We meet on the broad pathway of good faith and good will.

No advantage shall be taken on either side, but all shall be openness and love. I will not call you children, for parents sometimes chide their children too severely; nor brothers only, for brothers differ;—the friendship between thee and me I will not compare to a chain, for that the rains may rust, or the falling tree may break: we are the same as if one man's body were to be divided into two parts; we are all one flesh and blood." The impression made upon the minds of the Indians by Penn, at this and subsequent interviews, was such that they ever after retained the highest esteem for his memory, and good will towards Friends. Years after, when cruel-minded men made the waters of the placid Conestoga red with the blood of the Christian Indians, many of them fled, outcasts from their homes, to the city of Brotherly Love, to seek and find protection among the followers of "Maquon," as they termed Penn. On one occasion a chieftain, in a reply to a commissioner said, "that they should never forget the counsel William Penn gave them 'as long as the sun gives light.'"

In 1685, a meeting-house was erected at the southwest corner of Centre Square. This building was designed as a state-house, market-house, as well as the chief meeting-house. Another meeting-house was erected, in 1685, in Front above Arch Street. This was intended to serve for "evening meetings," and the Centre Square one for the "day meetings." In after years, when the house in Pine Street (this old building still remains) was erected, they called the Front Street building the "North Meeting." In 1789, this structure was removed, and a meeting-house erected in Key's Alley. In the year 1695, the fourth meeting-house of this Society was built, at the southwest corner of Second and Market Streets. This was styled, by those unfavourable to Friends' principles, the "Quaker Cathedral;" "but," says Watson, "great as were the ideas of the primitive population, it was removed, in 1755, to build still greater. The meetings, in time," he continues, "were so disturbed by the noise and turmoil of the increased population, that it was deemed expedient to sell the property;" which was done in 1808, when the present large meeting-house, on Arch near Fourth Street, was erected.

The Friends' meeting-houses are all remarkable for their plain and substantial appearance. The following will be found to embrace all those in the city, at present.

FRIENDS' MEETING-HOUSE, Fourth and Arch Streets. The burial-ground attached to this building is the oldest in Philadelphia, with the exception of that belonging to the Swedes' Church, Southwark. William Penn spoke over the grave of the first person interred in it.

FRIENDS' MEETING-HOUSE, Ninth and Spruce Streets.

FRIENDS' MEETING-HOUSE, Twelfth between Chestnut and Market Streets.

FRIENDS' MEETING-HOUSE, Green near Fourth Street.

FRIENDS' MEETING-HOUSE, Sixth and Noble Streets.

FRIENDS' MEETING-HOUSE, Washington Street, opposite Washington Square.

FRIENDS' MEETING-HOUSE, Pine below Second Street.

FRIENDS' OR FREE QUAKERS' MEETING-HOUSE, Race below Fifth.

FRIENDS' OR FREE QUAKERS' MEETING-HOUSE, Arch and Fifth Streets.

FRIENDS' MEETING-HOUSE, West Philadelphia, near the forks of Westchester and Darby turnpike roads.

In addition to these, they have one in Byberry and two in Frankford.

EPISCOPAL CHURCHES.

The first church edifice of this denomination to which we call the attention of the reader, is that of the GLORIA DEI, or SWEDES' CHURCH, situated in Swanson below Christian Street, near the Navy Yard. It is the oldest church in Philadelphia, having been erected in 1700. Its predecessor occupied the same site, and was erected in 1677, four years before the arrival of Penn's colony, in 1681. It was a log building, constructed to serve both as a place of worship, and a block-house against the Indians. The burial-ground attached to the Gloria Dei, presents a striking contrast to the more modern cemeteries, in the rude, antique lettering of its grave-stones.

While viewing this ancient edifice, the history of the past is powerfully recalled. The graves, scattered around, conjure up many a scene of trial, encountered by those early pioneers. Here lie the remains of ALEXANDER WILSON, the ornithologist: he desired to be buried in this churchyard, on account of its beautiful location and retirement!

The next in point of antiquity and historical interest is,

CHRIST CHURCH, in Second above Market Street. This church was organized under the auspices of the Rev. Mr. Clayton, in 1695. Its first place of worship was also a log building, which was subsequently enlarged and improved. This primitive structure gave place to the present stately edifice, which was commenced in 1727, and completed in 1753. The steeple is a graceful piece of architecture. It contains a chime of eight bells, purchased in England. They were brought to Philadelphia freight free, in the ship Matilda, Captain Budden, and in compliment to his generosity, as often as he arrived, in subsequent years, they rang forth a merry peal of welcome. The communion service of this church is very interesting, part of it having been presented by Queen Anne, in 1708.

ST. PETER'S CHURCH, stands on the southwest corner of Third and Pine Streets. It was founded in the year 1758 as a "chapel of ease" to Christ Church. It has a venerable and imposing appearance. The spire is of modern construction, and contains a chime of bells, presented by the late Mr. Wilcox, for many years an extensive trader to China.

ST. JAMES' CHURCH, Seventh above Market Street, erected in 1809, is a plain brick structure, extending east and west ninety feet, and is sixty feet wide. The foundation of a spire has been laid, but it is doubtful whether it will ever be erected.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH, Third below Walnut Street. This edifice was built in the year 1762, by a few particular friends of the Rev. Dr. M'Clenaghan, as an Independent Episcopal Church.

CHURCH OF THE EPIPHANY, Schuylkill Eighth and Chestnut Streets, is a rich and imposing edifice, with a portico in the Doric order.

CHURCH OF THE ATONEMENT, Summer and Schuylkill Sixth Streets. This is a new building, in the early English style.

GRACE CHURCH, Twelfth and Cherry Streets.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH, Thirteenth near Pine Street. This is one of the most beautiful and commodious church edifices in Philadelphia. The portico is a fine example of the Corinthian order.

CHURCH OF THE ASCENSION, Lombard above Eleventh Street.

CHURCH OF THE MEDIATOR, Schuylkill Fourth and Lombard Streets.

ST. PHILIP'S CHURCH, Vine Street, near Franklin Square.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH, Eighth near Spruce Street. The façade of this building is one of the most perfect specimens of the Grecian Ionic order in this city. It is copied from the celebrated Temple of Bacchus at Teos. It consists of a portico of six fluted columns in enstyle, with a strictly copied entablature, embracing all the enrichments and members of the original. The portico is approached by a flight of six marble steps, extending the whole width of the front. The main entrance is fourteen feet by twenty-five; subdivided into seven horizontal compartments of four panels each. The fascios of the panels are bold, and enriched with the egg moulding, the stiles and rails are studded with rivets, giving the whole the character of strength. The nave is planned with middle and side aisles, the seats being disposed in simple parallelograms, running east and west; their general appearance is that of a Grecian lounge. The front of the gallery is divided, on each side, into five equal divisions, forming an elongated panel, each enriched with carved mouldings. The columns supporting the gallery are composed of a cluster of palm leaves, turning over at the top, thus forming the capital; over each is introduced a wreath, the whole supporting a light and graceful entablature. In the west end of the church, facing the entrance, are placed the pulpit and chancel. The whole of the interior entrance is 17 by 25 feet. The principal feature in this design is two large columns, with their pilasters and entablatures, copied from the Temple of Minerva Polius at Athens, and executed with all the enrichments, without the slightest deviation from the proportions given in "Stewart's Athens." The pulpit, reading-desk, and communion table, are elegantly executed. The organ loft occupies the east end of the building, over the vestibule. The front of the organ represents a Grecian lyre, standing on a pedestal, between a cluster of pipes, forming themselves into a tower, surmounted by leaves, with a vase at each wing. This design is highly and richly finished, and forms one of the chief ornaments of the church.

In the rear of the main edifice is an additional building, erected within the last few years. It affords a commodious vestry-room, school-room, &c. The lot on which the church stands, is enclosed in front by a neat iron railing, and on each side of the church it is laid out in burial lots.

Mr. Haviland was the architect of St. Andrew's, and it certainly reflects credit on his taste and skill.

ST. STEPHEN'S CHURCH, Tenth below Market Street. This imposing and beautiful Gothic structure was erected and consecrated in the year 1823. The front on Tenth Street consists of two octangular towers, eighty-six feet in height, comprising five stories, with windows and offsets, terminating in an embattled parapet. The towers are connected by a screen wall, thirty feet wide, by sixty high. There are three doors of entrance, over which there are three large windows, formed with a recessed arch, twenty-four feet wide, by thirty-six in height. On each flank are the windows of the north and south aisles, separated by mullions into four compartments, and decorated with panelled tracery. A vestibule communicates with a stairway in each tower, leading to the gallery and organ loft. From the vestibule there are three screen doors, which open into the body of the church. The interior is highly finished. On entering, the contrast between the open sky, and the pervading shade, is so striking as to immediately arrest the attention. This light has a pleasing effect, from its perfect harmony with the peculiarities of the architecture. Here it is poured in a golden flood through the deeply-stained and richly-coloured glass of the windows;—it darts through the arches, streams across the aisles, illuminating the minutest ornaments of the lofty roof: everything is gilded with lustre.

The chancel and pulpit form the principal decorations of the eastern end, being richly finished with reversed screen panels and clustered columns, supporting four canopies. The large window behind the pulpit is filled with beautifully-stained glass. This window is flanked by recessed panels, containing marble tablets, upon which the Lord's Prayer, and the Creed, are engraved. The gallery screen is parallel with the sides of the church, connected in a semicircular form on the west end. It is enriched with perforated tracery and panel-work, and is supported by clustered columns, the front reed of each column rising above the capital, and terminating in a canopy, on a level with the top rail of the screen. From the upper part of the windows, on the flanks, spring the massy ribs which sustain the roof; each rib is supported by brackets, and terminates in a pendant, the spandrels being pierced with panels. These ribs, brackets, and pendants, being regularly disposed along the ceiling, dividing it into so many compartments, produce a rich and beautiful effect. The organ loft is on the west end, over the vestibule. It is capable of containing eighty choristers, and is amply lighted by the three front windows.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH, St. John's and Brown Street, is a neat and substantial edifice, decorated with a portico of two columns in front.

CHURCH OF THE ADVENT, Old York Road above Tammany Street.

ST. MARK'S CHURCH, Locust near Schuylkill Seventh Street. This beautiful Gothic structure was erected in 1849, and consecrated to its high and holy use, as a house of prayer, May 21st, 1850; on which occasion there were sixty-one clergymen present—twenty-seven of them, in surplices, filling the noble chancel, and adding much to the solemnity of the scene. The building is of that order of Gothic architecture known as the "decorative," which prevailed at a period when it may be said that this order attained its highest point of graceful proportion and luxuriant beauty. The churches of that age were distinguished for their fine proportions and beauty of interior effect: the style is therefore valued by the artist for its fine forms of adaptation to sacred edifices of every size and cost, from the parish church to the gorgeous cathedral.

ST. MARK'S CHURCH.

St. Mark's is situated on the north side of Locust Street, on a lot of ample size, which is enclosed from the street by an ornamental iron railing. The building extends east and west 150 feet; and its breadth, including the tower, is 91 feet. It is constructed entirely of freestone, neither paint nor plaster having been used internally or externally,—the inside walls being lined with dressed stone, and the woodwork of solid oak. The tower is in the position of a south porch ; and through it is the principal entrance, by a richly moulded doorway, ornamented with foliated shafts in the jambs. The windows of the aisles and clerestory on the flank are of two lights, divided by mullions of stone, which are foliated in the arch, showing a variety of elegant patterns. They have also moulded stone jambs.

The church has a most imposing appearance, as viewed from the southeast : its lofty tower and tapering spire are thence seen in all their beauty. Upon the elegance of these peculiar features of Gothic architecture it is needless to dwell. The page of romance is filled with descriptions of the "heaven-directed spire ;"—the artist cannot draw a landscape, the poet an Arcadian region, nor the novelist a fairy-land, in which the spire is not introduced. Of the beauty of St. Mark's tower and spire, all are competent judges. From the plain and solid buttress, as it rises from the ground, to the beautifully-executed tracery adorning the top of the tower, from whence the spire ascends, the eye knows not where to stop. It wanders in delight from the distant vane to the massive base, and observes every part, melting into, as it were, and harmonizing with the other. It meets with nothing to offend, nothing to disturb it. Here are no occult angles, to attract and disturb the attention ; no awkward attempts at grandeur, to provoke a smile. This tower and spire, in connexion with the edifice, we consider among the happiest efforts of its accomplished architect, John Notman, Esq. The whole is beautifully and justly proportioned.

The interior is remarkable for its chaste simplicity and elegance. It is divided into a chancel, nave, and aisle. The chancel is furnished with stalls for twenty-four seats ; there is also an arcade of three niches, forming the ancient sedilia, and a recess, to be used as a credence table. The altar is of stone, covered with a rich velvet cloth, exquisitely wrought in gold. Above the altar is the great east window, of five lights, with mullions and foliated tracery in stone; this is filled with exceedingly rich stained glass, of the most magnificent colours; it contains the figures of our Saviour and the Apostles Peter, Paul, and John, together with that of St. John the Baptist. The brilliancy of the drapery in these portraits is remarkable, although we think the shading too heavy; for we must remember that a stained-glass window is not a mere picture, but a means of admitting light; modified and tempered, it is true, but still light, for the building to which it appertains. The nave is twenty-eight feet wide, and one hundred feet long. The north and south aisles are each fourteen feet wide by one hundred long. The divisions are in seven bays on each side; the piers and arches are of cut stone, supporting the clerestory, with bracket-shafts for the roof-timbers. The roof is open-timbered, with moulded hammer and collar-beams. The north aisle connects with the organ aisle by a fine stone arch, which is also open to the chancel. The seats are of oak; plain, but of suitable design. The windows are all glazed in lead, having borders and tracery in coloured glass, exhibiting a great variety of beautiful patterns. The great west window is of four lights. It contains the figures of the four Evangelists. The tracery is also filled with fine glass. The drawing and pictorial effects of these figures are exquisite specimens of the art. The whole of this noble window is rich in harmony and effect, and gives an admirable finish to the entire structure. The prayer-desk is of an elegant design, corresponding to the pulpit, both of which are of carved oak, and of octagonal form. The pulpit is raised on a stone base, on the north side of the chancel arch. A movable lantern stands between the two, from which the lessons are read. The whole floor is laid in tile, of a great variety of colours and patterns. These tiles were imported by Mr. S. A. Harrison, No. 146 Walnut Street. We hope to see them generally introduced into our public buildings, since they are admirably adapted to the climate, and can be obtained at about one-half the cost of marble, while they have a more beautiful effect.

The cost of this building, not including the tower and spire, was $30,000. It is the private enterprise of five individuals, members of the congregation.

ST. JUDE'S CHURCH, in Franklin above Brown Street, between Seventh and Eighth Streets, is built in the early English Gothic style, with the high, pointed roof. Its form is that of a Latin cross, forty-two feet front on Franklin Street, extending that width to the transepts, which are forty feet deep, where it widens to eighty feet. The head of the cross beyond the chancel will form a Sunday-school building when it is completed: the whole length of the structure then will be one hundred and twelve feet, from east to west. The entrances are through the tower (which it is intended to surmount with a spire), and through the corresponding porch on the north side. The church is slightly elevated from the street, and is without basement. The roof inside is open-timbered.

CHURCH OF THE NATIVITY, Eleventh and Washington Streets. This is another beautiful Gothic structure, highly creditable to its architect, N. Le Brun, Esq., under whose superintendence it was erected.

CHURCH OF THE REDEMPTION, northwest corner of Callowhill and Schuylkill Front Streets, is another specimen of the early English style. The building, however, is small, and one of the least expensive kind.

CHURCH OF THE MESSIAH, Port Richmond, is also a Gothic building, every way worthy of the flourishing district of its location.

ST. MATTHEW'S CHURCH, is beautifully situated in Francisville, near the Girard College. It is a neat little country church.

CHURCH OF EMANUEL, is located in Marlborough above Franklin Street.

CHURCH OF THE EVANGELISTS, Fifth above Catharine Street.

ALL SAINTS CHURCH, Twelfth below Fitzwater Street.

GERMAN EPISCOPAL CHURCH, Charlotte above Poplar Street.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH, West Philadelphia.

CHURCH OF ST. JAMES THE LESS.—This is another beautiful Gothic structure, situated near the Falls of Schuylkill.

CHURCH OF THE CRUCIFIXION, Seventh near Bedford Street. This is a Free Mission Church, for the coloured population of the southern section of our city. This mission commenced originally amongst the most destitute and depraved of the coloured race. It has, however, gradually extended its influence, and now comprises a respectable congregation, and a flourishing Sabbath school. The present edifice is of modern construction. It is a plain but substantial building, capable of seating about five hundred persons.

ST. THOMAS'S CHURCH (African), Fifth below Walnut Street.

THE FLOATING CHURCH OF THE REDEEMER.—This novel yet beautiful structure lies at the foot of Spruce Street. It is a free church, designed for seamen and their families.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCHES.

This Church was established in the city of Philadelphia as early as the year 1695. The first congregation was organized, and held their primary meetings, in a small frame building, one story high, which for many years stood on the northwest corner of Chestnut and Second Streets. Mr. Jedediah Andrews was their first regular pastor. This congregation having increased in number, erected, in the year 1704, the building which formerly stood in Market Street, between Second and Third Streets. This was a spacious edifice, built in the Grecian style. During the religious excitement occasioned by the preaching of the Rev. G. Whitfield, there was a division in this society, and a part withdrew, under the name of the "New School," to Mr. Whitfield's meeting-house. This building was known in after years, as "the Old Academy," in Fourth below Arch Street.

In 1750, the New School, then under the pastoral care of the Rev. G. Tennent, erected the church that lately stood on the northwest corner of Third and Arch Streets. This edifice was long known as the "new meeting-house." Subsequently this congregation became reconciled to the parent stock, to which they were reunited, under the name of the Second Presbyterian Church. The Third Church, situated in Pine Street, between Fourth and Fifth Streets, was established by the Market Street congregation, to accommodate that portion of their members "living on the hill."

The Presbyterian Church, since its establishment in this city, has been eminently prosperous, no sect having exercised a more salutary influence in the cause of humanity and religion.

THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH is beautifully situated in Locust Street, opposite Washington Square. It is a brick building, roughcast to imitate marble. The front elevation is said to be a copy of the celebrated Ionic temple on the river Illyssus, at Athens. The structure is eighty-eight feet in length, by seventy-one in width; the vestibule and principal entrance, thirty-seven by thirty-two. The pulpit is placed at the south end and is constructed in a segment of a circle. This building is one of the most commodious in the city.

THE SECOND PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, in Seventh below Arch Street, we have no hesitation in pronouncing one of the most elegant places of worship in Philadelphia, remarkable alike for chaste simplicity and beautiful proportions.

THE THIRD CHURCH is located in Pine near Fourth Street.

THE FOURTH CHURCH is a plain brick building in Lombard near Thirteenth Street.

THE FIFTH CHURCH, Arch above Tenth Street. This imposing building was erected in the year 1823. It is beautifully situated on one of the most elevated parts of the city, to which its steeple is highly ornamental, exhibiting in one view in their proper grades, from the base to the summit, the Doric, the Ionic, the Corinthian, and the Composite orders of architecture. The height of the tower and spire is 165 feet. The building extends ninety-one feet north and south, by sixty-five in width. Its design comprises simplicity and elegance, in a degree and manner well suited to the sacred uses for which it was erected.

A large and important addition has been made to this church during the past year, by the erection of a building, to accommodate the Sunday Schools, on the rear of the lot.

THE SIXTH CHURCH is in Spruce near Sixth Street.

THE SEVENTH, OR PENN SQUARE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, is situated on the corner of Broad and Olive Streets. The style of architecture, fine proportions, and chaste appearance which characterize this edifice, attract the notice and elicit the admiration of our citizens. It is justly esteemed among the ornaments of Philadelphia. The principal front, on Broad Street, consists of a Corinthian portico of eight columns, so disposed as to have a return column at each angle and to partly surround the massive foundation of a steeple, which it is intended to erect in a short time. The approach to this portico is by a flight of thirteen steps. The walls and flanks are embellished with pilasters, the whole supporting an entablature enriched with ornaments peculiar to classic architecture. In the basement are ample and convenient rooms for the Sabbath School, and lecture-rooms. The principal story is finished in an elegant and chaste style, being in conformity with the exterior. The pulpit rests upon a basement, four feet in height, supporting a screen of four Corinthian pillars, whose rich entablature extends to the ceiling, which is panelled in the most beautiful manner, the whole presenting an imposing appearance, heightened by the exquisite proportions and harmony of colour which reign throughout.

The steeple intended to surmount the structure will rise to the altitude of 215 feet; it will be octagonal throughout in its plan, viz.,—a panelled pedestal base, supporting a story consisting of a monopteral portico of eight columns, above the screen wall and entablature of which, the spire will be built. This beautiful edifice was designed by and erected under the superintendence of N. Le Brun, Esq., architect, and is one of the first of his construction in this city.

THE EIGHTH, OR SCOTS' PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, in Spruce above Third Street, was erected before the War of Independence. During the occupancy of this city by the British, it was fitted up as an army hospital. In the year 1843 it was considerably enlarged and embellished, according to designs furnished by N. Le Brun, Esq. The building presents a front elevation consisting of a recessed portico, in the Composite order, surmounted by a pediment, and flanked by panelled wings. From the portico, access is obtained to the audience-chamber through the vestibule, on each end of which are stairs leading to the galleries. The interior of the church is finished in a simple yet chaste manner. The pulpit is embellished with a screen of Ionic columns.

THE NINTH PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH is on the northwest corner of Schuylkill Seventh and George Streets.

THE TENTH PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH is on the northeast corner of Twelfth and Walnut Streets.

THE ELEVENTH PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, situated in Vine below Thirteenth Street, was considerably improved and embellished during the year 1850. It now presents, to some extent, an ornamental appearance.

THE TWELFTH PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH is situated in Cedar (or South) above Eleventh Street.

THE CENTRAL PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—This is a large and imposing edifice, situated on the corner of Cherry and Eighth Streets.

CLINTON STREET PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH is eligibly located on the corner of Tenth and Clinton Streets.

THE WESTERN PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Schuylkill Sixth and Filbert Streets.

ASSOCIATE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—This is a new and tasty brick edifice, situated on the northwest corner of Schuylkill Fifth and Filbert Streets.

LOGAN SQUARE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Schuylkill Third and Vine Streets, is a beautiful building, in the Grecian order, erected from designs furnished by Mr. Cummings, architect.

SPRING GARDEN PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Eleventh above Spring Garden Street. The imposing portico of this Church is justly admired; and the building is, altogether, one of the chief ornaments of the flourishing District of Spring Garden.

GREEN HILL PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, situated in Girard Avenue above Schuylkill Seventh Street, is a new and elegant Gothic edifice.

UNION PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Thirteenth near Budd Street.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH (Northern Liberties), Buttonwood above Fifth Street.

CENTRAL PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH (Northern Liberties), Coates below Fourth Street.

NORTH PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH (Northern Liberties), Sixth below Coates Street.

PENN PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Tenth above Poplar Street.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH (Kensington), Palmer above Queen Street.

SECOND PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH (Kensington), York, east of Front Street.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH (Southwark), German above Second Street.

REFORMED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Eleventh below Market Street.

FIRST ASSOCIATE REFORMED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Walnut above Fourth Street.

SECOND ASSOCIATE REFORMED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Spruce between Third and Fourth Streets.

THIRD ASSOCIATE REFORMED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Thirteenth above Market Street.

FOURTH ASSOCIATE REFORMED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Linn near Schuylkill Front Street.

FIFTH ASSOCIATE REFORMED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Lombard between Schuylkill Third and Fourth Streets.

CUMBERLAND PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH (Spring Garden), Franklin near Green Street.

FIRST INDEPENDENT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Broad and George Street.

REFORMED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Cherry below Eleventh Street.

REFORMED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Schuylkill Front near Callowhill Street.

ASSOCIATE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH (Southwark), Fifth above Washington Street.

COHOCKSINK PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Germantown Road above Fifth Street.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Germantown.

WEST PHILADELPHIA PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, is situated on Chestnut Street, Hamilton Village.

FIRST AFRICAN PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Seventh below Shippen Street.

SECOND AFRICAN PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Lombard near Ninth Street.

THIRD AFRICAN PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, St. Mary above Sixth Street.

In addition to the above, there is a Presbyterian Church in Bridesburg, one in Frankford, and one in Manayunk, besides several societies, which, having no regular place of worship, meet occasionally in some of the numerous Halls in the city.

PRESBYTERIAN BOARD OF PUBLICATION BUILDING, 265 Chestnut Street. This is a handsome edifice constructed of brown stone, four stories high, 25 feet front by 174 feet deep. An effigy of an open Bible ornaments the front, bearing the appropriate inscription SIT LUX, which signifies "Let there be light." This may be considered, though only an executive branch, the "local habitation" of the Presbyterian Church, which quoad cavilia is a corporation of Pennsylvania, though in its sacred character it knows no boundaries but those of the human family.

This Building contains the offices of the Board of Publication, the Board of Education, and the Board of Domestic Missions; the fourth Board, that of Foreign Missions, being located at 23 Centre Street, New York.

Pause upon the massive pavement, before we enter; for beneath us, in fire-proof safes, are deposited the immortal works of Calvin, Owen, Flavel, Baxter, Bunyan, and others famed in Church History.

The store is large and conveniently fitted up. Here, if you have any taste for good reading, you will find many valuable works. Proceeding onward, we come to the office of the periodicals of the Church, viz., the Home and Foreign Record, and Presbyterian Sabbath School Visitor; still farther back is the private room of the Publishing Agent. This effort of the Church to supply a healthy religious literature for the people, is worthy of the noblest support.

In the second story are the offices of the Corresponding Secretary, and General Agent, together with the Library, consisting of a valuable collection of standard books in Divinity, History, and Natural Sciences.

The third story contains the apartments occupied by the Board of Education, the object of which is to supply the Church with an educated Ministry: for that end it assists young men of approved character and talents, through the whole of their education. It has at present under its care about 388 persons.

In this story, the offices of the Secretaries and Treasurer of the Board of Domestic Missions is also located. This is one of the most important Boards of this Church, as upon its efforts their prosperity mainly depends. During the year 1850 it has supported 591 missionaries in their labours, supplied 1113 churches, 49 of which were constituted within that year, and within the past twenty-one years, it has been instrumental in the organization of 943 churches, aiding in the erection of 1484 houses of worship, into which upwards of 40,000 persons have been received on confession of their faith.

We have previously noticed the establishment of the first Presbyterian church in this city in the year 1695: there are now in connexion with it, in Pennsylvania, 2675 churches, 2027 ministers, and 210,306 communicants, reported to the General Assembly.

Other parts of the building are occupied by the Board of Publication, for store-rooms, workshops, &c.

ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCHES.

The diocese of this communion embraces the eastern district of Pennsylvania, West New Jersey, and the State of Delaware.

CATHEDRAL CHURCH OF ST. PETER AND ST. PAUL, Schuylkill Fifth Street, between Race and Summer Streets. This vast edifice, now in progress of construction, was commenced in September, 1846; and although each year, since that date, considerable progress has been made in the work, it is at present not more than one-third advanced towards completion. It was designed by N. Le Brun, Esq., and the whole interior of the building, which when finished will be in the highest degree grand and magnificent, is progressing according to the original design.

The plan of the edifice is that of the modern Roman cruciform churches, having in the centre a great nave. The vault over the nave and transepts will be about seventy-eight feet high, cylindrical and panelled. Over the intersection of the cross vaults, there is to be a pendentive dome, one hundred and twenty-five feet high. The side aisles and transepts are divided from the nave by massive piers. The piers support the arches on which the clerestory is built; these piers are to be richly ornamented with foliated moulding, &c.; they will be further relieved by fluted pilasters, of the Corinthian order, with enriched bases and capitals. These pilasters will support an entablature, including the architrave, frieze, cornice, and blocking-course; over which will spring the vaulted semi-circular ceiling.

The sanctuary at the east end will be fifty feet square, and the high altar, which will be exceedingly magnificent, is to be within it. The light throughout the building is mainly to be introduced through the lanterns of the great dome, the small pendentive domes over the aisles, and large semicircular windows at the west end. The richest style of the Roman Corinthian order will prevail throughout the building. The front, on Schuylkill Fifth Street, is a beautiful design, by John Notman, Esq., of a highly decorative character, very creditable to that gentleman's taste and skill. The plan consists of a portico of four gigantic columns, sixty feet high, and six feet in diameter, finished with richly-sculptured bases and capitals; over these will be an entablature and pediment, in corresponding architectural taste. On the frieze will be engraved the words AD MAJOREM DEI GLORIAM. The apex of the pediment will be surmounted by a colossal figure of the Saviour, and on the opposite angles will be the statues of two angels, in a kneeling position. The main entrance will be approached by a flight of nine steps, forty-eight feet long. Over the central doorway will be the large west window, and over the side doors will be niches to receive the figures of the patron saints of the church, St. Peter and St. Paul. These niches, together with the doorways and the large window, will be relieved with a bold and richly-executed architrave. The wings, which will be lower than the central façade, are also to be decorated with columns, pilasters, and entablatures, and surmounted by towers; these towers will rise to the altitude of one hundred and ten feet. In front of these wings, are also floriated niches, to contain statues of the "great fathers of the Church." The principal dome will form an imposing feature in the exterior view. It will rise to the height of two hundred and ten feet; and will be surrounded by a row of columns, thirty feet high, supporting an enriched entablature. Between these columns will be the windows to light the centre of the building. This immense dome is to be highly ornamented, both internally and externally. Its effect will impart a grandeur of appearance unequalled by any other building in the country.

CHURCH OF ST. JOHN THE EVANGELIST, Thirteenth, above Chestnut Street, is a large and imposing edifice, built in the Gothic style, stuccoed in imitation of marble.

ST. AUGUSTINE'S CHURCH, Fourth Street, between Race and Vine Streets, is constructed of brick, with a tower in the centre of the front, which it is intended to surmount with a very handsome steeple. The whole of the exterior is very chaste and simple. The interior is arranged in the usual manner of modern churches; the sanctuary, however, is novel in design and arrangement. It is much admired. The columns supporting the dome over it, are of Scagliola marble, the capitals of which, together with the entablature over them, are richly carved and gilded. The design of this beautiful feature of this church, is copied from the much-admired remains of the Temple of Jupiter Olympus at Rome. The whole of the interior is painted in distemper, presenting an exceedingly rich and ornamental appearance. The former church occupying this site was destroyed by fire in 1844. The present building was erected from designs by N. Le Brun, Esq., in 1848.

THE CHAPEL OF OUR LADY OF CONSOLATION, is a neat brick edifice, adjoining St. Augustine's, on Crown Street. It is used for the Sunday schools and confraternities of the congregation of that church.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH.—This is a brick building, erected in 1763; it is situated in Fourth Street, between Walnut and Spruce Streets.

ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH, Willing's Alley, between Spruce and Walnut Streets, back of Fourth Street.

TRINITY CHURCH, Sixth and Spruce Streets, is an antique-looking building. The remains of the late Stephen Girard were interred in the burial-ground attached to this church, from whence they were removed, in 1851, to the College founded by his beneficence.

ST. PATRICK'S CHURCH, Schuylkill Third above Spruce Street.

ST. FRANCIS XAVIER'S CHURCH, near Fairmount.

ST. PHILIP DE NERI'S CHURCH, Queen above Second Street.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH, Christian below Tenth Street. This is a new and ornamental building, constructed of brick, in the Gothic style.

ST. PETER'S CHURCH (German).—This building, situated at the corner of Franklin Avenue and Fifth Street, was commenced in the year 1843, and the interior completed in 1847. The length of the church is one hundred and seventy feet, the width of the nave sixty-eight feet, and of the front seventy-eight feet. The style of architecture adopted in the interior is that known as the "classic Roman," though the exterior possesses a Byzantine character in its appearance. The roofs of several portions of the building, such as the vestibules, nave, sanctuaries, &c., being of different levels, impart a picturesque appearance to the whole structure. There is a large and massive tower in the centre of the front, which is at present one hundred and twenty-five feet high; but, when finished according to the design of the architect, it will reach the height of two hundred and twenty feet. In the basement story is a chapel, capable of accommodating four hundred persons, and two apartments appropriated to the use of the Sunday schools. The main story is very rich and grand in appearance. The height of the interior is forty-four feet, the entablature and the panelled and coved ceiling being supported by a multitude of fluted Composite pilasters, three feet wide, which are raised upon panelled pedestals, nine feet high. The sanctuary in the east end is thirty-five feet deep, within the ceiling, and is ornamented with windows filled with beautifully-stained glass. There are three altars. The high altar is of Italian marble, the table of which is supported upon eight Doric columns. The tabernacle represents a cyclostyle Corinthian temple. Under the table of the altar, and between the columns, is a marble sarcophagus. This church could accommodate two thousand persons; but from the ample dimensions of the pews and aisles, the number of seats is considerably limited. The whole of the superstructure was designed and erected by N. Le Brun, Esq. In the architectural portion of the building, the proportions and arrangements are exact and skilful, whilst the decorative part is equally to be admired.

Attached to this church are several buildings for the accommodation of the religious order of the Redemptionists, who have the church under charge. One of these buildings—that on the south side—is designed and built, although on a limited scale, according to the rules required for monastic establishments.

CHURCH OF THE ASSUMPTION, Spring Garden above Eleventh Street, is a new building, much noted for its rich and imposing appearance. It is constructed of brown stone, in the decorated Gothic style of architecture.

ST. ANN'S CHURCH, Richmond.

ST. MICHAEL'S CHURCH, Jefferson and Hancock Street, Kensington.

To the above may be added, ST. MARY'S CHURCH, Passyunk Road; CATHOLIC CHURCH at Nicetown, N. L.; GERMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH, at Bridesburg; CATHOLIC CHURCH at Germantown; CATHOLIC CHURCH at Frankford; CATHOLIC CHURCH, Robison Street, Manayunk; ST. MARY'S CHURCH, Oak Street, Manayunk; and the new CATHOLIC CHURCH, in Chestnut Street, West Philadelphia.

BAPTIST CHURCHES.

The first settlers of this respectable denomination who arrived in Philadelphia, came from Radnorshire, in England, and Killarney, in Ireland, in the year 1686. This infant colony settled on the banks of the Pennypack Creek.

In 1698, nine persons assembled in Philadelphia, and formed themselves into a church, under the pastoral charge of Dr. John Watts. Their early meetings were held in the "Old Barbadoes lot store," on the corner of Second and Chestnut Streets. They subsequently united their interest with the Presbyterians, so as to meet in the same building for worship, as often as either could procure a preacher. This partnership continued for about three years, when the society under notice removed to "Anthony Morris's brewhouse," which was occupied occasionally as a mariner's chapel. This building stood on the east side of Water Street, near Dock Creek. In this humble location they continued their labours until the year 1707, when, by invitation of the followers of George Keith, they united in erecting a more commodious place of meeting, on the site of the present First Baptist Church, in Lagrange Place, Second below Arch Street. Here they continued to worship, the Keithians uniting with them, until the year 1731, when, the building being too small, it was removed, and a much larger one erected. This edifice has subsequently been enlarged.

The Baptists, in olden times, performed the solemn rite of immersion in the River Schuylkill, at the foot of Spruce Street. The place was long celebrated for rural beauty. It is described by a gentleman, in 1770, as being "a spot where immense trees, principally oaks, afford a fine shade, while all around is variegated with shrubs and wild flowers. Near the water is a large stone, elevated about three feet, made level on the top by art, with steps hewn out at one side to ascend." Around this druidical pulpit the people assembled to pray, and upon it the preacher stood to address them. This was not only a convenient place for the purpose of baptism, but was also a delightful resort in summer. The British army, in 1777, destroyed the grove for fuel, and the place is now occupied by coal wharves, in one of which "the stone of witness" is buried for ever.

The following comprises the churches of this communion in Philadelphia at present:

SECOND BAPTIST CHURCH, Fifth below Carpenter Street, Southwark.

SANSOM STREET BAPTIST CHURCH, Sansom above Eighth Street, from the originality of its design, deserves particular notice. The building is a rotunda, surmounted by a dome, crowned with a neat and ornamental cupola. The walls are of brick, and the dome is constructed upon the principle adopted in that of the famous Halle de Blé, at Paris. Above the walls, which are fifty feet high, three risers encircle the edifice, before the swell of the dome appears. In front and rear of the rotunda, square projections come forward,—that in front to afford a vestibule and passage-way for the stairs leading to the galleries, and that in the rear to provide space for the vestry-rooms, &c.

The front consists of a recessed portico, flanked by wings, which are surmounted by cupolas. The principal entrance is by a flight of marble steps, into the portico,—which is of the Ionic order. On the east and west ends of this portico, are the stairs, leading to the upper part of the building. In front is the large door, leading to the baptistery and pulpit; east and west aisles run parallel with this. The baptistery is in the centre of the circle, surrounded by an open balustrade. The pulpit, at the south end, is supported by a screen of columns. The galleries encircle the nave of the church, except that section occupied by the pulpit. The pews in the body of the building, are so disposed as to run parallel with its transverse diameter. The number of these pews, together with those in the galleries, is three hundred and twenty, which, with the free sittings, will contain with comfort, upwards of two thousand, five hundred persons. The structure is amply lighted by large square windows below, and an arcade of semicircular windows above the galleries. The lintels of the dome light the centre, and ventilate the whole church. The base of the dome is encompassed by a broad dental band, mouldings, &c. The soffit of the cupola is also enriched with mouldings. The design of this building was furnished by Mr. Mills; the first American architect, regularly educated to the profession, in this city. He studied under Mr. Latrobe.

THIRD BAPTIST CHURCH, Second below Queen Street.

SPRUCE STREET BAPTIST CHURCH.

The alterations which impart its present imposing appearance, consist in a large addition to the north end, and an entire remodelling of the interior and exterior. The new front, from the design of T. U. Walter, Esq., United States Architect, at Washington, and executed by his successor in Philadelphia,

R. Morris Smith, consists of a basement of Connecticut granite, 11 feet 6 inches in height, over which rises a principal story or order, and an attic order. The principal story is 28 feet 6 inches in height, flanked by two square projections, and penetrated in the centre by the great entrance door, which is 20 feet in height, with an entablature resting on heavy consoles. This story finishes in a cornice supported by plain console-modillions, and is surmounted by the attic order. The cornice of this last, forming the sky-outline of the building, is of a bold and simple character. Two cupolas, rising to a total height of ninety feet above the pavement, adorn and finish the front, and form prominent and picturesque objects in any point of view.

The interior, executed from the designs and under the superintendence of R. Morris Smith, is governed by the same character of massive grandeur which marks the exterior. While an appropriate style reigns throughout, the ceiling is beautifully enriched: it is one of the most pleasing in the city; where, in this portion of the structure, a striking effect has been attained in the small height of two feet, limited by the position of the old joists and window-openings, by the following simple arrangement. A cornice of three feet projection runs along the tops of the windows, and sustains beyond it a range of raised panelling around the room, perforated by caissons. The large ventilator in the centre is surrounded by a circle of radiating, enriched panels. Light to the north gallery has been obtained through the caissons of the ceiling, from a sky-light in the roof.

GERMAN BAPTIST CHURCH, Crown near Callowhill Street.

TWELFTH BAPTIST CHURCH, Queen near Shackamaxon Street, Kensington.

NORTH BAPTIST CHURCH, Sixth Street, near Girard Avenue, Spring Garden.

WEST KENSINGTON BAPTIST CHURCH, Hancock above Franklin Street, Kensington.

THE FIRST AFRICAN BAPTIST CHURCH, Eleventh near Pearl Street.

THE SECOND AFRICAN BAPTIST CHURCH, Little Pine Street.

THE CLIFTON STREET AFRICAN BAPTIST CHURCH, Clifton near Pine Street.

THE FOURTH AFRICAN BAPTIST CHURCH, Lawrence Court.

AMERICAN BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY, Office and Depository, 118 Mulberry or Arch Street. This Society was formed in 1839, its object being the publication and circulation of Baptist books and periodicals. The receipts for the year 1851, were $40,597 71, of which $18,098 were from book sales. The cash receipts from business operations paid all the expenses incurred in stereotyping, printing, binding, salaries of officers, &c. During the same year sixteen new publications were stereotyped or printed, embracing 2708 pages, together with 17,250 copies of the Baptist Almanac, and 20,000 copies of the Baptist Record. The present value in books, &c., is $12,888, and in stereotype plates, $11,100.

The Association employ twenty-seven colporteur missionaries, in seven states, Canada, and Oregon, in circulating these works; while nineteen ministers and Sunday school libraries have been furnished. In 1851, grants of books, &c., were made to the destitute in twenty-three states, also to foreign lands,—viz., South America, Hayti, France, Greece, China, Assam, Birmah, &c.

The Society's building is a new and ornamental edifice, constructed of brown sandstone. The façade has a pleasing appearance, without being too ornate or expensive. The structure is four stories high, the first of which is occupied as the Depository; the second embraces the Managers' room, and the office of the Corresponding Secretary. The upper floors are used as store-rooms, &c. We understand that it is in contemplation to erect an addition to the rear of the present building, so as to have all the work of the establishment done under the immediate supervision of the officers.

The periodicals of this Society, published in Philadelphia, are, The Christian Chronicle, an able weekly, edited by Messrs. W. B. Jacobs and H. Lincoln, The Mother's Journal, published monthly, edited by Mrs. M. J. Clark, and The Baptist Record, a quarterly, edited by T. S. Malcolm and I. N. Brown, Esqs.

METHODIST CHURCHES.

The first establishment of this communion in Philadelphia, was in the year 1769, by the Rev. Mr. Pilmore, then quite a young man, who was sent to this city as a missionary, by the Rev. John Wesley. Mr. Pilmore preached his first sermon from the State House steps, in Chestnut Street. He was early assisted in his pious labours by a British officer, named Webb, represented as a perfect Whitfield in declamation. The exertions of these gentlemen were attended with the most beneficial results, in the reformation of the poorer classes, to whom they generally addressed themselves. We are told that many districts, proverbial for licentiousness, became, through their influence, examples of morality. The early meetings of this Society were held at an inn, situated in a court, which formerly ran from Arch to Cherry, near Fourth Street. The first building owned by them was the present St. George's Church, Fourth near New Street. They purchased it in an unfinished state, the building having been previously occupied by the British, as a cavalry riding-school. This church was long a cold and dreary-looking place, having been fitted up in a rough and temporary manner. The pulpit stood about twenty feet from the east end;—a writer notices it as being square, not unlike a watch-box with the top sawed off.

During the early history of this Society, it had some remarkable revivals. Several eminent preachers from New York, Maryland, and New Jersey, frequently came to assist in the good work; among whom, none were more conspicuous than the celebrated Benjamin Abbot, of Salem, New Jersey. He delighted to come over, as he said, to assist in keeping alive the fire kindled in the church at Philadelphia. Mr. Watson, in his "Annals," describes Mr. Abbot as an aged disciple, with large and heavy eyebrows, eyes of flame, robust body, and great strength of voice, which, when exerted to the utmost while preaching, and an occasional stamp of the foot, "made the house ring." His eloquence is represented as fire, running through the assembly, his voice, like a trumpet sounding to battle, amid the shouts of victory and the cries of the vanquished.

The clergymen of this branch of the Christian church at present in Philadelphia, are generally men of talent, inferior to none in fervour and devotion to their high calling. Their labours are eminently successful,—few churches in our city being more frequented by larger or more intelligent audiences; none include more active members.

The church edifices belonging to this communion, are more remarkable for convenience than for ornamental display; yet some of them can boast of considerable architectural beauty.

The following list will be found to comprise all those of this denomination in Philadelphia.

ST. GEORGE'S CHURCH, Fourth below New Street. This was the first established Methodist meeting-house in this city.

SALEM CHURCH, is a neat brick building, constructed in the modern style, on the north side of Lombard, between Thirteenth and Broad Streets.

NAZARETH CHURCH, Thirteenth below Vine Streets.

UNION CHURCH, Fourth below Arch Street, is one of the most elegant and commodious meeting-houses in the city.

TRINITY CHURCH, Eighth above Race Street, is the most beautiful Methodist church in Philadelphia. It differs from the others of this Society, in having pews instead of free sittings.

WESTERN CHURCH, Schuylkill Third below Walnut Street.

EIGHTH STREET CHURCH, Eighth near Noble Street.

HARMONY CHURCH, New Market above Laurel Street.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH, Third below George Street.

TWELFTH STREET CHURCH, Twelfth and Ogden Street.

GERMAN METHODIST CHURCH, Second above Poplar Street.

OLD BRICK CHURCH, Queen and Marlborough Street.

METHODIST CHURCH, Callowhill near Schuylkill Fourth Street.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH, northeast corner of Shippen and Penn Streets.

MOUNT ZION CHURCH, Monroe Street.

INDEPENDENT CHURCH, Fifth below Washington Street.

EBENEZER CHURCH, Christian below Fourth Street.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH, Catharine above Sixth Street.

JOHN WESLEY CHURCH (African), Shippen above Seventh Street.

ZOAR CHURCH (African), Brown below Fourth Street.

BETHEL CHURCH (African), Sixth above Lombard Street.

UNION METHODIST CHURCH (African), Little Pine above Sixth Street.

METHODIST CHURCH (African), Locust Street, West Philadelphia.

To the above list may be added twenty-one churches, distributed throughout the county,—making a total of fifty-three buildings.

LUTHERAN CHURCHES.

The first church of this communion in Philadelphia was erected in 1743. It yet remains, in Fifth above Arch Street. This antique edifice is seventy-two feet by forty-four, and twenty-two feet high to the eaves. During the occupancy of the city by the British, in 1777, it was the garrison-church; and, after the victory achieved by the Army of Independence at Yorktown, Congress went to it in a body, to return thanks to God. For a long period the services in this church were performed in the German language; but, owing to the increased number of members who did not learn the language of their ancestors, an attempt was made to have the services performed, at least once a day, in the English language. This measure was resisted, and, in consequence, a large party withdrew, and erected the elegant

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH, in Race Street, between Fifth and Sixth Streets. This is an imposing edifice, in the Roman style of architecture; it is of brick, one hundred feet by sixty-seven.

ZION CHURCH, situated on the southeast corner of Cherry and Fourth Streets, is one of the most substantially-erected and commodious churches in Philadelphia. It is also of brick, of the Roman style, and is one hundred and seven feet long, seventy-one broad, and forty-four feet to the spring of the roof. It was intended to surmount this edifice with a steeple, the tower of which was partly erected with the building in 1766. In 1777, the British army removed the pews, and occupied the building as a temporary hospital. This church was destroyed by fire on the 26th of December, 1794; but the walls remaining entire and sound, it was rebuilt and much improved in 1795. The organ is one of the largest and best-toned in the city.

ST. MATTHEW'S CHURCH, New below Fourth Street.

GERMAN LUTHERAN CHURCH, Fourth below Thompson Street.

ZION AND ST. MICHAEL'S, Brown and St. John Streets.

ST. MARK'S CHURCH.—This is a new and beautiful building, situated on the south side of Spring Garden Street, west of Thirteenth Street. It is a brick structure, masticated. The front presents a fine specimen of the Romanesque style of architecture, characterized at once for simplicity and taste.

LUTHERAN CHURCH, Queen and Main Streets, Germantown.

ST. MICHAEL'S CHURCH, Main Street, Germantown.

There is also a Lutheran Church in Frankford, one in Roxborough, and one in Passyunk.

GERMAN REFORMED CHURCHES.

The early establishment of this denomination in Philadelphia County was in Germantown, where they erected a meeting-house in 1733.

THE FIRST GERMAN REFORMED CHURCH erected in our city was in Race below Fourth Street, in 1747. This edifice was octagonal in form, surmounted by a spire. It was removed in 1762, and a more commodious one erected, which, in 1837, gave place to the present neat brick structure.

GERMAN REFORMED CHURCH, St. John near Green Street.

There is also a German Reformed Church in Manayunk, and one in Roxborough.

DUTCH REFORMED CHURCHES.

SECOND DUTCH REFORMED CHURCH.

THE SECOND DUTCH REFORMED CHURCH, corner of Tenth and Filbert Streets, is a fine building. The façade, on Tenth Street, is ornamented with a beautiful Doric portico, resting on an elevated base. The interior will compare with that of any other church in the city, in point of taste and finish.

MORAVIAN CHURCH.

The first congregation of this communion that settled in North America, came from Berthelsdorf, a village belonging to Count Zinzendorf, in Upper Lusatia, whence they were expelled by the Elector of Saxony. The instructions given to these exiles by the Count is worthy of notice. "Submit yourselves," he said, "in all things, to the guidance of God ; preserve your liberty of conscience ; but avoid all religious disputes. Ever keep in view the call given you by God,—to preach the gospel of Christ to the heathen ; and, further, endeavour as much as possible to earn your own bread." The first colony arrived in Pennsylvania in 1738, the larger portion of which settled at Bethlehem. In 1742, the members of the Society who had remained in Philadelphia erected the church which still stands on the corner of Race and Bread Streets. The Moravians, though few in number when compared with other sects, are yet noted for piety and industry. The burial-ground belonging to this church is situated on the corner of Vine and Franklin Streets.

UNIVERSALIST CHURCHES.

THE FIRST UNIVERSALIST CHURCH is situated in Lombard above Fourth Street.

THE SECOND UNIVERSALIST CHURCH, Callowhill between Fourth and Fifth Streets. Both of these buildings are of brick ; the latter roughcast, in imitation of marble. This building is eighty feet long, sixty wide, and thirty-four high to the spring of the roof. The interior is neat, and the pulpit is handsomely decorated.

THE THIRD UNIVERSALIST CHURCH is a plain structure, situated in Phoenix near Amber Street, Kensington.

THE FOURTH UNIVERSALIST CHURCH, situated in Locust above Thirteenth Street, is a new edifice, in the Collegiate Gothic style, erected from designs by Mr. Walter.

THE UNITARIAN CHURCH.

THE UNITARIAN CHURCH, situated on the corner of Tenth and Locust Streets, is a beautiful building in the Grecian style.

HEBREW SYNAGOGUES.

THE FIRST SYNAGOGUE erected in the city, is situated in Cherry near Third Street.

THE THIRD SYNAGOGUE.

THE SECOND SYNAGOGUE, situated in Juliana above Wood Street.

THE THIRD SYNAGOGUE, in Crown below Vine Street. This last is a new and imposing building, constructed of brown stone, in the Egyptian style.

THE BIBLE CHRISTIANS have a church, situated in Third below Thompson Street.

THE DISCIPLES OF CHRIST, Fifth and Gaskill Streets.

THE COVENANTERS have two places of worship in Philadelphia,—one in Schuylkill Sixth near Race Street, and the other in Cherry Street, between Tenth and Eleventh Streets.

THE MENONISTS' or DUNKERS' CHURCH, in Germantown, has been established from an early day.

NEW JERUSALEM CHURCH, Fourth below German Street Southwark. A Society of this denomination meet for worship at present, in Sansom Street Hall.

In addition to the above religious societies in this city, there is the UNION CHAPEL, Chestnut Hill, The CHURCH OF THE UNITED BRETHREN, Clinton above Poplar Street, and the MARINERS' CHURCH, Water near Chestnut Street.

THE BIBLE.

Around the Bible centre a thousand lovely associations, thoughts, and feelings. It is the source of all true and lasting knowledge—the only true guide to happiness. The blessings of liberty and civilization cluster around and lie in its path. Where the Bible is read, there are wholesome laws, civil prosperity, and social endearments. It is a teacher in schools, a counsellor in senates, and a cheerful friend at the fireside. It gives wisdom to the ignorant, confidence to the doubting, joy to the comfortless, light to the straying, and hope to the hopeless.

The diffusion of the Bible in our midst, together with the means of its distribution, are here noticed.

The first of these Institutions to which we direct attention; is THE PENNSYLVANIA BIBLE SOCIETY, which was established forty-three years ago. This noble Association has circulated in this state, since 1840, about 500,000 copies of the Sacred Scriptures. The number issued during the past year, was 38,583. The receipts in the same period, have amounted to $26,897 85. It has in connexion with it 120 auxiliaries throughout the state.

Orders and communications should be addressed to Wilfred Hall, Depository Agent, 144 Chestnut Street.

THE PHILADELPHIA BIBLE SOCIETY, formed in 1838, stands in the position of a county organization. Its particular duty is the supplying of those who are destitute of the Scriptures within the streets, courts, lanes, and alleys of Philadelphia. The hardy sons of the deep are also the subjects of its peculiar care. We may here remark, that "The Book," is published in all the modern languages, so that emigrants and sailors, from all climes, can be supplied with it in their own tongue.

During the past year, Bibles and Testaments have been distributed in the German, Swedish, Danish, Italian, Portuguese, Greek, and Welsh languages. This Society employs four colporteurs, or missionaries, in this good work.

THE FEMALE BIBLE SOCIETY OF PHILADELPHIA, instituted April 24th, 1814. The members of this Association not only contribute their money, but aid in the circulation of the Bible personally. The Society is divided into a number of auxiliaries, distributed throughout the county, each of which is a separate and distinct organization, yet united in a bond of general union for mutual support. These auxiliaries are, the Northwestern, Southwestern, Southeastern, Southwark, Moyamensing, West Kensington, and Spring Garden Societies.

All communications to these Bible Societies, should be addressed to the Depository, 144 Chestnut Street.

In addition to those mentioned, there are THE NORTHERN LIBERTIES BIBLE SOCIETY, GERMANTOWN FEMALE BIBLE SOCIETY, FRANKFORD BIBLE SOCIETY, and MANAYUNK AND ROXBOROUGH FEMALE BIBLE SOCIETY.

We may here remark, for general information, that the various Bible societies established since 1804, in different parts of the world, have issued no less than 40,000,000 copies of the Holy Scriptures,—the United States raising alone for that noble cause, during the past year, $1,750,000. It is printed in no less than 130 different languages, now spoken by the principal varieties of the human family.

THE BIBLE ASSOCIATION OF THE FRIENDS IN AMERICA, was founded in 1829, for the purpose of encouraging “a wider circulation, as well as a more frequent and serious perusal, of the Sacred Scriptures, among such as are members of the Religious Society of Friends, and also, as its funds will permit, to other persons.”

Since the establishment of this Association, they have printed 23,350 copies of the Reference Bible, 12,530 of the 24mo. school Bible, 15,196 of the 12mo. Testament, and 5,768 of the 24mo. Testament. These books are circulated through auxiliaries in different parts of the continent.

The Depository is at No. 50 North Fourth Street, above Arch. Mr. John Richardson is the agent, to whom communications should be addressed.

RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS.

AMERICAN SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION BUILDING, 146 Chestnut Street, between Sixth and Seventh Streets. This is a spacious and imposing edifice, well adapted to the purpose designed. It is a brick structure, five stories high, masticated and painted, which much enhances its general appearance. The lower story is divided by an entry, leading to the upper part of the building, into two extensive stores, the west one of which is occupied by the Society as their Depository and Publication Office.

Few institutions in our city are better calculated to promote the cause of Christianity than the one under notice. Its influence is not bounded by "locality" or "sect;" it is truly American.

The "Union" was formed in 1824, by the combination of several local associations, having for their object "The concentration of the efforts of Sunday School societies in different sections of the United States, together with the diffusion of useful information by moral and religious publications, missions," &c.

According to the Constitution, the Union is composed of the various evangelical denominations. No control is assumed by it over any school whatever, the principal and primary object being to aid and encourage the establishment of Sabbath Schools throughout the United States, without any interference in their future organization or government.

MISCELLANEOUS ASSOCIATIONS.

MASONIC LODGES.—These, at present, include a Grand Lodge, three Mark Lodges, a Grand Chapter, three subordinate Chapters, and twenty-three subordinate Lodges, in Philadelphia and adjoining districts.

THE MASONIC HALL is situated in Third Street, between Walnut and Spruce Streets.

In the year 1809, the large Gothic edifice on Chestnut Street, between Seventh and Eighth Streets, known as "The Masonic Hall," was erected. We learn that the Order have in contemplation the removal of this building, and the erection on its site of another, which will be, not only more adapted to the accommodation of the numerous lodges, &c., but an ornament to the city.

INDEPENDENT ORDER OF ODD FELLOWS.—Of this excellent Order, there are one hundred and fourteen Lodges, embracing over twenty thousand members, in the city and adjoining districts. Many of the halls erected in different sections of Philadelphia County, for the use and accommodation of the Order, are beautiful, chaste, and commodious buildings. The most prominent of these is the ODD FELLOWS' HALL.

ODD FELLOWS' HALL, Sixth Street between Arch and Race Streets. This structure, sixty-two feet front by one hundred in depth, is quite imposing in its appearance.

ODD FELLOWS' HALL, Third and Brown Streets, Northern Liberties, is also an elegant building, in the Egyptian style of architecture.

ODD FELLOWS' HALL, Broad and Spring Garden Streets.—This new hall, creditable to the enterprise of the Order, and an ornament to its vicinity, was erected in 1851. In addition to these, there is a hall, erected in 1850, at the corner of Tenth and South Streets; one in Third below German Street; one in West Philadelphia, one in Germantown, one in Roxborough, and two in Manayunk.

Among the many associations in Philadelphia, we may mention, THE UNITED ORDER OF AMERICAN MECHANICS, THE DRUIDS, THE INDEPENDENT ORDER OF GOOD FELLOWS, and THE IMPROVED ORDER OF RED MEN, as worthy of particular regard, being organized for the purpose of cultivating the principles of Friendship and Benevolence among their members.

THE MUTUAL BENEFICIAL SOCIETIES in Philadelphia are, also, exceedingly numerous. Their names alone would far surpass our limits.

TEMPERANCE SOCIETIES.—We rejoice to see this cause again awakening a lively interest in our city, where it ever has had many ardent friends. Among the Temperance organizations in Philadelphia, THE ORDER OF THE SONS OF TEMPERANCE, THE INDEPENDENT ORDER OF GOOD SAMARITANS, THE CADETS OF TEMPERANCE, THE PUPILS OF TEMPERANCE, THE DAUGHTERS OF TEMPERANCE, and THE DAUGHTERS OF SAMARIA, are worthy of notice. These and kindred associations are the pioneers of a glorious, peaceful age. When we reflect on the vast sums that have been squandered in intoxicating drink, which has been the means of so much misery, wickedness, and brutality—how Intemperance stands in the way of man's social progress—how it thwarts every good and benevolent design—what innocence it has defiled—what hopes blighted, and homes made desolate,—can we do otherwise than wish them God speed?

CHAPTER IX.

CEMETERIES OF PHILADELPHIA AND ITS VICINITY.

SOME of these cemeteries are the "loveliest spots upon earth," and they ought to be so. We love the beautiful while living, and it is a pleasing thought that when our journey is over, we shall be laid amid the loveliness of Nature. ALEXANDER WILSON'S last wish was to be laid beneath a shady tree, where the songsters that charmed him while living, might come and sing around his tomb! Poor Wilson! even your last hope on earth has been disappointed; few birds carol around your grave. The solitude you loved has long ago deserted your lowly bed.*

We propose to notice some of the most prominent cemeteries in our city and its vicinity.

LAUREL HILL CEMETERY.†

"Here may the heart, half desolate and broken,
Far from the city's pomp its vigil keep,
And wreath with fairest flowers, affection's token,
The pale, cold marble, where its loved ones sleep."

This cemetery is beautifully situated between the Ridge Road and the River Schuylkill, about three and a half miles from Philadelphia. It consists of two sections, designated respectively North and South Laurel Hill.

* Alexander Wilson, the Ornithologist, died in this city in the year 1814, and is buried in the Swedes' Churchyard, Southwark. The testimonial to his memory is a plain marble slab, easily distinguished among the few humble monuments in that old ground.

† From "The Cemeteries of Philadelphia," a new work, preparing for the press by R. A. Smith, the first part of which, "Laurel Hill Cemetery," will be published at an early day.

SPRING GARDEN STREET, ABOVE RIDGE ROAD.

LAUREL HILL CEMETERY.

The grounds of the North section (which first claims our attention) are substantially enclosed, and the whole plot surveyed into lots of various dimensions, from eighty to one thousand square feet. The improvements consist of an elegant entrance, constructed of brown stone, in the Doric style; a Gothic chapel; the superintendent's residence; a spacious receiving vault; an observatory, commanding a charming view of the river and opposite shore; stabling, &c., sufficient to accommodate over forty carriages; and a hot-house, where flowers, plants, and shrubs of every variety are cultivated with the greatest care. The entrance on the Ridge Road presents a bold and commanding appearance, through which is a vista of remarkable beauty. On each side are lodges for the accommodation of the attendants, &c.

defaced. Beneath these memorials lie the ashes of THOMAS GODFREY, the inventor of the Mariner's Quadrant, together with those of his father and mother.

The monument was erected by the Mercantile Library Company of Philadelphia, aided by citizens of Philadelphia and Germantown, in gratitude for the enduring benefit his invention has conferred upon the navigation and commerce of the world.

In the northeast corner of the cemetery is the burial-ground attached to St. John's Lutheran Church.

Following the carriage-road, to the left we view the chaste and ornamental tomb of OSCAR DOUGLASS, a Philadelphia fireman, killed by the falling of a wall, while in the discharge of his duty, January 23d, 1841. This monument was erected as a tribute to his many virtues, by his fellow-members of the Pennsylvania Fire Company. West of this is the rich and imposing tribute to the memory of the brave and lamented GENERAL and MAJOR TWIGGS, father and son; both fell in the recent war with Mexico. In this vicinity, too, repose the ashes of the poet, the scholar, and divine—WALTER COLTON. A plain obelisk marks his last resting-place.

Innumerable monuments are tastefully disposed in this neighbourhood—some of them being exquisite works of art; while trees, shrubs, and flowers, of every variety and hue, throw a delicious shade around. Among these tombs is the figure of a lovely child, a master-piece of the celebrated sculptor, Pettrich. It is much visited, and generally admired. No less beautiful, though more humble in pretension, is that to "OUR DEAR WILLIE."

We are now in the vicinity of the Gothic Chapel, the scene in front of which is one of unparalleled loveliness. In such a pleasing spot, when the birds are singing, and flowers and trees present their ever-new verdure, the dreariness of the grave is lost; the utter oblivion that awaits the tenant of the tomb is forgotten; death is here robbed of half its terrors.

Immediately opposite repose the remains of GENERAL HUGH MERCER, who fell at the Battle of Princeton. They were originally interred in Christ Church graveyard, Second Street, from whence they were removed to this cemetery on the 26th of November, 1840, attended by unusual pomp and funeral ceremony. The present elegant monument was erected by the St. Andrew's Society of Philadelphia, as a tribute to the memory of

In this vicinity may be seen an obelisk, bearing an epitaph to the memory of JOHN COOK, written by himself, the lettering and execution of which is highly creditable to the artist, John Eckstein, Esq. The lot (too limited in extent and badly arranged for the proper exhibition of a monument of this description) is enclosed by a tasty and substantial iron railing, and embellished with some choice shrubs and plants.

To the right of this, Mr. LOUIS A. GODEY has a lot, ornamented with true poetic taste. Proceeding westward, the visiter will not fail to admire the tomb erected over the remains of JOSEPH S. LEWIS. On the south front of this elegant monument is an admirable view of Fairmount.

North from this, is the classic tomb of COMMODORE HULL, executed after the model of that of the Scipios at Rome, with the addition of the American Eagle, perched on the centre. Beneath this beautiful and appropriate memorial repose the ashes of that naval hero, who, by his brilliant triumph, in the frigate Constitution, over the British frigate Guerriere, Captain Dacres, on the 19th of August, 1812, "became the precursor of that series of victories which immortalized the Navy of the United States." The tomb was erected by his widow, as an affectionate token to his private virtues.

In the adjoining lot, to the east of Commodore Hull's tomb, rest the remains of COMMODORE A. MURRAY. They were originally interred in the burial-ground of the First Presbyterian Church, Market Street below Third (the site of which is now occupied by extensive storehouses), and removed to Laurel Hill in 1844, by direction of his family.

East from this, beautifully situated, is the monument of STEPHEN DECATUR LAVALETTE, U. S. N. It is in the Roman style, and consists of a large, square pedestal, on which rests a block of marble, with medallions on each side, bearing appropriate naval emblems,—the flag, anchor, &c., the whole surmounted by an urn.

Proceeding to the westward, immediately over the first terrace, is the monument erected to the memory of FERDINAND RUDOLPH HASSLER, a native of Switzerland, and a distinguished citizen of the United States, for many years engaged in the Coast Survey, as superintendent, for which responsible office he was well suited, no less for his learning and scientific research, than for his natural talents. The memorial consists of two pieces of rock in the rough, surmounted by a pedestal and urn, elegantly sculptured in marble. Alongside of this tomb repose the ashes of CHARLES A. HASSLER, Surgeon U. S. N. This gallant officer perished, when returning from a protracted cruise, in the noble effort to save the helpless on the wreck of the steamer Atlantic, in Long Island Sound, November 27th, 1846.

His memory will ever be dear to the American citizen, and his tomb one of the most interesting objects in this cemetery.

In this vicinity, too, is the last resting-place of JOHN CARLTON, a native of Salem, Massachusetts, a Major in the Army of the Revolution; and likewise that of J. W. COX, U. S. N. The memorial to the last-named is a plain shaft, surmounted by a Bible and an open Prayer-book. Nearly opposite to these is the splendid monument to WILLIAM DRAYTON, of South Carolina; and in the extreme northwest corner, that of M. MORGAN, M.D., Surgeon U. S. N.

Dr. Morgan was a favourite in the Navy, and his death was much regretted. He died at Pensacola in 1841. The monument was erected by his naval friends, who had his remains brought by sea from Florida. The lot is neatly enclosed by four cannons, linked together with chains.

Directly east from this is seen the noble granite obelisk which marks the spot where repose the ashes of the lamented HOLDEN, formerly of the "Saturday Courier."

Descending the declivity, immediately beside the northern boundary, to the first terrace, the lover of the picturesque will be gratified with the rural and wild character of the scenery. The west, or river front, is still left to the care of Nature, and for the most part, is covered with a fine growth of forest trees. The south portion is laid out in terraces. The north, or that portion below, is only here and there intersected by rugged paths, the rocks rising from the water in some parts abruptly. Here, stranger, pause and look around !

Breathes more than mortal majesty.”

Proceeding southwardly along this terrace, we meet several lots tastefully enclosed, provided with rustic seats ; they are all remarkable for their simplicity and beauty of ornament, as well as chasteness of sentiment and real feeling engraved on the memorials. A little in advance from these rises the stately monument erected to the memory of JOHN H. BEUSSE, formerly of South Carolina ; facing which is the mausoleums of the LENNIG, BACKUS, and ROBERTSON families. Near this

“There is a lone and silent shade,
Where none but reverent footsteps tread ;
There, NEAL, the loved, is calmly laid,
And sleeps the slumbers of the dead.
And sadly droops the murmuring trees,
As though they mourned his early doom.”

JOSEPH C. NEAL lies in a sequestered spot, immediately in front of the Ball Mausoleum. The monument consists of a rough block of marble, surmounted by an urn, against which reclines a stringless lyre ; below is a marble tablet in the form of a shield. This monument—fit memorial of the poet—was erected as a tribute of affectionate regret by those who loved him as a man and admired him as an author. The lot is handsomely enclosed by artistic marble posts, connected by massy iron rails.

Beneath this, on a craggy point, rises a granite obelisk, in the form of “Cleopatra's Needle,” twenty-one feet high. This monument, together with its situation, is peculiarly suitable to commemorate such a character as CHARLES THOMSON, the first, and long the confidential Secretary of the Continental Congress.

Retracing our steps to the upland, we now pursue our walk along the terrace southward. The quantity and variety of roses, shrubs, &c., along this path and vicinity present a most enchanting scene.

The southern portion of the cemetery, is full of chaste and beautiful memorials to

Among which we notice the monuments erected by the Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind, to the memory of Julius R. Friedlander, the founder of that noble charity, and to William Young Birch, one of its early friends and most munificent benefactors. The first is a plain granite obelisk; the other, a beautifully-executed shaft, surmounted by an urn; both are merited testimonials of regard to pure philanthropy and disinterested devotion.

Near these is the rich and imposing GOTHIC MONUMENT, so generally visited and justly admired; it is erected to the memory of three sisters,— “Whose lives, so dearly cherished,

Nor father's prayers, nor mother's love could save;
For He, our refuge, when all else hath perished,
In love still taketh, what in love he gave.”

To the admirers of architecture, this monument will prove a treat. It was designed by and executed under the superintendence of Mr. John Notman.

Proceeding eastward, we view the classic tomb, erected over the remains of Isabel Coleman, daughter of Thomas and

Hannah Coleman. This exquisite work of art, is from the chisel of Joseph Maples, Esq., sculptor, and is a most beautiful specimen of American Art. It is undoubtedly the gem of North Laurel Hill. (See engraving.)

“Where, perchance, our footsteps never
Its fairy haunts again in life may tread;
Yet, as a gem, in memory’s casket ever
Art thou shrined, oh, loveliest city of the dead.”

South Laurel Hill, to which we now direct our steps, is also a charming spot. This new cemetery, like North Laurel Hill, occupies a lofty promontory above the river,—the views of which, and through the sombre glades and avenues of the ground, are unsurpassed for sweetness and repose; nowhere could a more attractive spot be found for the purposes of burial. Several elegant monuments have already been erected, the most prominent of which is that raised to the memory of “Sarah Ann, wife of George L. Harrison, who fell asleep May 12th, 1850.” It is of marble, in the decorated style of Gothic architecture, which prevailed during the reigns of Edward the Second and Edward the Third of England,—a period when this rich and imposing order was carried to its highest degree of perfection and luxuriant beauty. About that time, also, the canopy was introduced as a new feature in monumental decoration. The tomb under notice consists of a richly-sculptured altar table, surmounted by an elegant canopy, enriched with crochets and finials, supported by twenty clustered columns; festoons of ivy creep along each angle of the roof until they meet at the apex, where they unite in an ornamental cluster. Within the screen is the life-size image of a lamb, reposing on a cross, emblematic of that faith endeared to her whose remains lie beneath. The whole structure

THE ODD FELLOWS' CEMETERY is situated on Islington Lane, near the Ridge Road, about two miles from the northern boundary of the city proper. It contains thirty-two acres, and is intersected by spacious avenues of from fifteen to thirty feet in width, well graded. A substantial stone wall, surmounted by a neat iron railing, has been erected along the entire front. The first interment was made on the 5th of May, 1849. The Cemetery is under the management of the Order whose name it bears.

The buildings of which the above is a correct and beautiful view, are located in the centre of the ground, fronting on the Lane. They are of brown stone, in the Egyptian style of architecture. The centre building, surmounted by a tower eighty-one feet high, is designed for a chapel, with offices and ample apartments for the residence of the superintendent; the wings are used for carriage ways and entrances for foot passengers.

These beautiful and appropriate buildings were designed and erected under the superintendence of Hoxie and Button, architects.

GLENWOOD CEMETERY, Ridge Road and Islington Lane, contains twenty-one acres. It is situated exactly on the ridge that divides the waters flowing into the Delaware from those flowing into the Schuylkill. The avenues are laid out so as to combine beauty of appearance, with ready access to every part of the ground. When the designed improvements (part of which we had the pleasure of inspecting) are completed, "The Glenwood" will be one of the most beautiful, as it is now one of the most desirable places of burial in the vicinity of the city.

THE MONUMENT CEMETERY is beautifully situated on Broad Street, about a mile above Coates Street. It combines everything in a natural point of view which could possibly be desired, being high, dry, and at so convenient a distance from the city as to be easily reached on foot.

The front presents a tasty and appropriate appearance. On entering, the natural beauty of the spot, embellished as it is by art, renders the view altogether lovely. Here, as at Laurel Hill, numerous trees throw their shade around, and flowers both rare and fragrant deck the grave.

Among the most notable monuments in this Cemetery, is that erected to the memory of William De La Mater Caldwell,

THE WOODLAND CEMETERY is situated on the west side of the Schuylkill River, about one mile southwest from the city.

This beautiful spot was long the country seat of the Hamilton family; and the mansion still remains, a memorial of the past. The trees that adorn the Cemetery are some of them of majestic growth, lending to the scenery and the grounds the most impressive effect. The vistas beneath the foliage, or between the separated groves, conduct the eye to distant prospects, varied on every hand, and by every change of position; there, the spires and public buildings of the city are beheld; here, the windings of the Schuylkill; and more distant, the bright surface of the Delaware and the blue hills of New Jersey skirt the horizon; while flowers and shrubs are scattered plenteously around, shedding a cheering influence in shaded lawns, or among the tombs.

CHAPTER X.

THE CITY GOVERNMENT.

THIS is composed of a Police Department, Select and Common Councils, Board of City Commissioners, and a Board of City and County Commissioners. The Police Department consists of a Mayor, Clerk of Police, Lieutenant of Police, four Special Constables, four High Constables, thirty-four day policemen, four captains, four lieutenants, two hundred watchmen, and fifty-seven lamp-lighters.

THE DAY POLICE is divided into four districts, viz.—DISTRICT No. 1, extending from Cedar to Chestnut Street, and from the Delaware to the east side of Ninth Street. Police station, Union Street below Fourth, south side.

DISTRICT No. 2, extending from Chestnut to Vine, and from the Delaware to Ninth Street. Station house, Cherry above Fourth Street, north side.

DISTRICT No. 3, extending from Cedar to Chestnut Street, and from the west side of Ninth to the Schuylkill River. Station, Schuylkill Eighth below Walnut Street.

DISTRICT No. 4, extending from Chestnut to Vine, and from Ninth to the Schuylkill River. Station, Filbert Street near Schuylkill Eighth.

Each of these divisions is under charge of a high constable, who reports daily at 12 o'clock, M., precisely, to the Mayor, the condition of his district.

THE WATCH is likewise divided into four districts, the bounds and stations of which are the same as those of the day police. Each of these divisions consists of a captain, a lieutenant, and fifty men; twenty-five of whom only are on duty in the division at any one time. The system is one of relief, and the twenty-five men on duty are relieved every two, three, or four hours, as the season, weather, &c., may demand; the remaining twenty-five occupy the station house, ready for any emergency.

The system is not perfect, there being too few men; the twenty-five on duty are spread over too great a space. The old system gave thirty-one or thirty-two men for the same divisions; now there are only twenty-five,—the consequence is an elongation of the watchmen's walks, so that they appear "like angels' visits, few and far between."

In addition to this force the mayor can, by law, require the services of the lamp-lighters, in case of necessity, as policemen.

THE SELECT COUNCIL consists of twelve members. THE COMMON COUNCIL of twenty members. These Councils are divided, for the better transaction of business, into joint standing committees, viz., on Water, Finance, Highways, Cleansing, City Property, Legacies and Trusts, Girard Estates, Library, and Gas-works. Each Council elects its own president and clerk.

BOARD OF CITY COMMISSIONERS. The officers of this Board are a President, Clerk, City Surveyor, Assistant Surveyor, Treasurer, Treasurer of the Girard Fund, Agent for the Girard Estates, and a Register and Secretary of the Watering Committee.

THE CITY AND COUNTY COMMISSIONERS AND OFFICERS consist of a Sheriff, Coroner, Clerk, Treasurer, three County Commissioners, and three Auditors.

THE CONSOLIDATED POLICE FORCE OF THE CITY OF PHILADELPHIA. This force is under the control of a BOARD OF POLICE, viz., President, John S. Keyser, Marshal of Police; Clerk, Samuel P. Welsh; Members, President of the Select Council, and President of the Common Council of Philadelphia, together with the presidents of the Boards of Commissioners of the various incorporated districts. This police force was established by an Act of Assembly, passed May 3d, 1850; according to which the qualified voters of the city and districts shall elect, every three years, a suitable person as Marshal of Police, "who shall hold that office for the said term of three years, if he so long behave himself well." The powers of this officer, in relation to the preservation of the peace, the prevention and suppression of crimes and misdemeanours, and the detection and arrest of offenders, is the same as those of the Mayor of the city, and Sheriff of the county of Philadelphia.

The city proper, by the aforesaid act, consists of four divisions, and each of the incorporated districts constitutes a division. Each of these divisions is entitled to one lieutenant, and the number of policemen is fixed at the rate of one for every four hundred inhabitants, which gives fifty-five to the city, twenty-six to Spring Garden, twenty-four to Kensington, twenty-one to the Northern Liberties, eighteen to Southwark, twelve to Moyamensing, four to Penn, four to Richmond, and three to West Philadelphia, which, with the twelve lieutenants and Marshal, makes the effective force of the establishment one hundred and eighty strong.

In case of riot, if the Marshal is of opinion that his force is not sufficient, he has power to require the aid of the military, and it is the duty of the major-general or commanding officer to assist him promptly with such force as he may demand. The Marshal, his Lieutenants or policemen, in case of emergency, have a right to, and can demand the aid of any citizen in suppressing riots or tumultuous assemblies. It is well to say that, "if such persons, constituting unlawful, riotous, or tumultuous assemblies, shall continue together, and not disperse on proclamation, then the Marshal, his Lieutenants, or

How far this "Consolidated Police" has accomplished the object of its creation, can be estimated by the fact, that from the date of its organization, November 21st, 1850, to November 1st, 1851, the number of arrests by this body amounted to more than twelve thousand.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH, Office, southwest corner of Sixth and Sansom Streets. This Board, consisting of eighteen members, is appointed annually, by the Councils of the city, and the Commissioners of the adjoining districts, for a term of three years. The Governor of the State, also appoints a Physician, who resides in the city, denominated the Port Physician, and another, who resides at the Lazaretto, called the Lazaretto Physician, together with a Health Officer, and a Quarantine Master.

The Board of Health is vested "with full power and authority to make general rules, orders, and regulations, for the government of the Lazaretto, and the vessels, persons, and cargoes, there detained in quarantine, likewise of the Health Office and hospital; for the mode of visiting and examining vessels, persons, goods, and houses, within the city and districts; also, to appoint such officers and attendants as may be necessary to attend the Health Office, Lazaretto, and City Hospital, together with such other regulations as may from time to time be requisite for the preservation of the health of the city."

This Board has also power, when any portion of the city, or adjoining districts, is infected by a contagious disease, to prevent all communication with the infected parts, and, if necessary, to remove the inhabitants. They have also authority to enter and search any house, or store, where they may suspect any substance that may engender disease to exist, and are required to have the same removed. A register of the births and deaths, in the city, is kept at the Health Office, and all physicians, surgeons, &c., are required, by Act of Assembly, to make periodical returns to the Board, of the deaths, once per week, and of the births, once per month, and of all cases of contagious disease, under a penalty.

The quarantine regulations of the port commence in June, and extend to October, which is called the quarantine season. Vessels coming from foreign ports, during that period, must anchor off the Lazaretto, until duly inspected by the Lazaretto Physician and Quarantine Master. Severe penalties are imposed by law, for every violation of the quarantine regulations.

The following gentlemen comprise the present officers of the Board: President, John Lindsay, Esq.; Secretary, Richard Gardiner, M.D.; Treasurer, Edward Duff, Esq.; Clerk, Samuel P. Marks; Solicitor, J. A. Phillips.

The executive officers are, Health Officer, William M'Glensey; Port Physician, D. Gilbert, M.D.; Lazaretto Physician, T. J. P. Stokes, M.D.; Quarantine Master, William V. M'Kean.

THE LAZARETTO is pleasantly located on the banks of the Delaware, fourteen miles below the city. It occupies an area of about twelve acres of ground, most of which is under cultivation as a vegetable garden. The buildings consist of a main edifice and two wings, covering a space of fifty feet in depth, and one hundred and eighty in length; a residence, with garden attached, for the Physician; a similar one for the Quarantine Master; an out-kitchen, a bath-house, a green-house, a large barn; with a two-story building, originally intended for the accommodation of German emigrants, who, some years ago, came to this port in very large numbers. It is now used for the reception of those cases of disease exhibiting a more malignant character than are usually accommodated at the general hospital.

The officers are a Steward, Lazaretto Physician, and Quarantine Master. The Steward is elected annually by the Board of Health. His duties comprise a general supervision of the property, cultivation of the garden, furnishing and preparing the diet and board of the sick, &c. The Physician and Quarantine Master are appointed, as before remarked, by the Governor. The duties of the first-named are to visit all vessels required by law to stop at the Lazaretto, and to examine into the health of the crew and passengers, and if any are sick with malignant or contagious diseases, to have them removed to the hospital, and there attend them.

The duties of the Quarantine Master are to accompany the Physician in his visits as above, have charge of the boats and other property of the station, and, jointly with the physician, have control of the bargemen.

The Board has also, during the quarantine months, six bargemen employed, and as many nurses as the wants of the station may require. The duties of the bargemen, in addition to manning the boats, are, to remove the sick, bury the dead, and to perform such other duties as may be required of them by the proper officers.

Adjoining the Lazaretto, the United States government has an INSPECTION STATION, occupying about nine acres of land, upon which are a large storehouse, and two brick buildings, formerly occupied during the prevalence of the yellow fever,—one, as the residence of the collector of the port, and the other as a custom-house.

STATE PENITENTIARY, for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania.—This institution is the result of the laborious investigation of half a century, of a few minds, deeply interested in the subject of prison discipline. In the latter part of the year 1786, the treatment of persons convicted of crimes engaged the consideration of some members of the “Philadelphia Society for Relieving the Miseries of Public Prisons.” The miserable condition of the jails of that day awakened the sympathy of the benevolent members of this Society, and out of these feelings grew the efforts, which were at last, under the operation of able minds, directed to the whole range of penal jurisprudence. The Legislature of Pennsylvania was addressed from time to time on the subject: the late BISHOP WHITE, MR. WISTAR, ROBERTS VAUX, and other kindred spirits, united their efforts to induce the General Assembly of the State to reform the penal institutions of the Commonwealth. After years spent in examination and controversy, the Legislature passed an act authorizing certain gentlemen commissioners named in the act to erect a State Penitentiary on the principle of separate confinement of the prisoners at hard labour.

This is the corner-stone of what is now designated "THE PENNSYLVANIA SYSTEM."

Much has been written on the merits of "separate confinement." It has been always denominated by its enemies solitary confinement; but mere terms, though used to describe the character of the discipline, are by no means synonymous. The separation of prisoners from each other, at all times, does not include the idea of solitude. We have been favoured with the correspondence between the Honourable ROBERTS VAUX of Philadelphia, and WILLIAM ROSCOE of England, on the principles of the Pennsylvania System. Mr. Vaux defends and explains the subject with great clearness against the attack of Mr. Roscoe, who urges all the objections against the System, so rife while it was then in its infancy.

The Penitentiary was finished and transferred to the "Board of Inspectors," the governing power, in the year 1829. The cost of the ground and buildings was about six hundred thousand dollars. In the year 1846, January 1st, a period of about seventeen years, 2059 prisoners had been received into the prison. The number now nearly reaches 3000. The average number in confinement during the year is about 300. For the last ten years the average amount of prisoners yearly in the Penitentiary is about 295. The district from which prisoners are sent includes all the eastern counties of Pennsylvania.

The Institution is governed by a Board of Inspectors, a warden, physician, and fourteen overseers. It has been in active operation since 1829, and the results given by the experience of over twenty years have confirmed all the predictions and expectations of its originators and friends.

The penal code of the State has not yet been fully adapted to this system of punishment. So soon as the Legislature shall reform a code, never revised with any degree of radical reform, then will Pennsylvania defy the civilized world to show a more perfect, humane, and reformatory system, than is to be found within her borders.

The plan of the buildings is as follows. The grounds comprise about eleven acres, enclosed by a stone wall, thirty feet high. The centre of the plot is comparable to the hub of a wheel, and the corridors of cells, the spokes; on each side of the corridors, cells are situated, to each of which a yard is attached, for air and exercise. Each prisoner has a cell to himself; there he works, and sleeps, and eats, taking exercise daily in the yard.

Each prisoner is taught to read, write, and a useful handicraft, during his term of imprisonment. A moral instructor and a teacher, are employed. On the Lord's day, any Christian minister, of good standing in his denomination, can visit the convicts, and preach to them, or otherwise instruct them.

No corporeal punishment of prisoners is allowed; kindness is the spirit of all communication with the inmates.

The health of the convicts is under the most judicious circumspection. The physician resides in the Penitentiary. The mortality is about two per cent. less than one would expect, from the kind of persons sent from the depraved classes of city humanity. The fatal diseases are nearly all constitutional, produced by causes mostly without the influence of the prison.

The Penitentiary is located about two miles from the centre of the city of Philadelphia. It is sometimes called "Cherry Hill Prison," as "Cherry Hill" was the name of the property purchased for its site.

At this time, RICHARD VAUX is President of the Board of Inspectors; S. A. MERCER, Secretary; HON. CHARLES BROWN, JOHN BACON, and HUGH CAMPBELL, Inspectors; JOHN S. HOLLOWAY, Warden; DR. LASSITER, Physician.

Tickets of admission can be had on application to any of the Inspectors. For the accommodation of strangers, we will state that MR. VAUX's office is in Sixth below Chestnut Street. This gentleman takes pleasure in giving any information in his power respecting this truly noble Institution, which, we assure the reader, is well worthy of a visit.

The interior of the main prison is divided into two general divisions, one for untried prisoners, vagrants, &c., and the other for convicts. It contains four hundred and eight separate cells, built in two blocks, three stories high, extending from each wing at right angles with the principal front. The cells open into a corridor, occupying the centre of each block, and extending the whole length and height of the building; the upper stories being approached by means of granite stairways leading to galleries, supported by cast iron brackets; a clerk's office is situated at the head of each corridor, from which every cell door may be seen throughout the entire range.

The apartment for females is situated on an adjoining lot. This building embraces one hundred separate cells, a suite of rooms for an infirmary, and two apartments for the keepers. The principal entrance to this portion of the establishment is on Eleventh Street: it consists of a gateway, placed in the middle of a projecting centre, constructed of brown stone, finished in the Egyptian style of architecture.

The Prison combines all the characteristics of a penitentiary proper, as well as those of a county jail and workhouse. It is under the management of a Board of fifteen Inspectors, whose duties are probably more arduous than those of any other in the country, yet we have no hesitation to speak with confidence of the generally correct regulation and superintendence of every department.

The health of the Prison is good. In this respect it will compare favourably with any other in the United States. Great care is taken to furnish wholesome food, and to have it properly cooked; every prisoner is allowed as much as he wants, this being found more economical than the mode of individual rations.

We refer with pleasure to the moral instruction of the prisoners. The Rev. W. ALEXANDER fills the office of Instructor, with both credit to himself, and satisfaction to the Inspectors.

The female department is regularly attended by a committee of four ladies, belonging to the "Association of Women Friends." The Inspectors and others acquainted with the labours of this Society, speak highly of the wholesome effects resulting from their efforts. Indeed, there is nothing connected with the internal regulations of the prison, that presents a more pleasing and interesting spectacle than the untiring energy and laudable zeal of these truly benevolent ladies.

Each convict, on leaving the prison at the expiration of his sentence, is furnished with a suit of decent clothes, and a sum of money for his present wants, as the means of removing him from the immediate temptation to commit crime.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

In the year 1711, the then Mayor of Philadelphia recommended "the procuring of fire-buckets, hooks, ladders, and fire-engines, for the purpose of aiding in extinguishing fires." "This," says Watson, "was a pretty early beginning; as fire-engines were but of recent invention, and had only been in use in London since 1663." Notwithstanding this recommendation, no active measures were taken in the matter until the year 1730, when public attention was awakened to the importance of the subject, by a destructive fire, which consumed several houses in Front below Walnut Street. Soon after this event, several hundred buckets and two fire-engines were imported from England. The buckets were placed in the courthouse, that formerly stood in Market Street, and the engines were stationed, one at the southwest corner of Market and Second Streets, the other at the corner of Walnut and Front Streets. In the year 1738, Benjamin Franklin, among other patriotic exertions in behalf of his adopted city, succeeded in originating the First Fire Company.

At present there are seventy of these praiseworthy associations in the city of Philadelphia and adjoining districts, viz., thirty-five engines, thirty-three hose, and two hook and ladder companies.

A highly commendable spirit animates their members. They are ever prompt at the scene of danger, regardless alike of time, distance, or weather. Actions of truly disinterested heroism and intrepidity are of almost daily occurrence among these young men; and the department has, on more than one occasion within a few years, been called upon to mourn the loss of valuable lives, sacrificed in the discharge of this self-imposed though patriotic duty.

The introduction of the Schuylkill water into the city, proved very efficient in the preservation of property from destruction by fire. Previous to that, water was obtained in small quantities, and with considerable trouble, from the pumps, which in most places were few and far between. In the year 1803, Mr. Reuben Haines suggested the idea of attaching a hose to the different fire-plugs, by means of which the engines might be the more readily supplied with water. The improvement received the approbation of several of his friends, who that year organized themselves into a fire company, assuming shortly afterwards the title of "The Philadelphia Hose Company."

Another efficient means of preserving the city from the danger of widespread conflagration, was the law of 1796, prohibiting the erection of wooden buildings within the city. This excellent act has subsequently been extended, so that at present it embraces all the city proper, and a great portion of the adjoining districts.

This department has an ASSOCIATION FOR THE RELIEF OF DISABLED FIREMEN, established and incorporated in 1835. The object of this praiseworthy society is not only the relief of disabled firemen, but also of their widows and orphans, and the relief of such persons, not firemen, who may sustain personal injury by fire apparatus. The funds of the Association, which at present amount to about $17,500, are permanently invested, principally in ground rents, mortgages, &c., the interest from which can be appropriated to no other object than that for which the Association was instituted. The total amount distributed for this purpose since the institution of the Association has been nearly $9,000. No benevolent society in our city has stronger claims than this.

Each fire company usually consists of about thirty active members, composed for the most part of young men engaged in the active pursuits of life. Great care is taken, and much pride manifested in having their apparatus constructed after the most improved models, and built in the most substantial manner. They are also beautifully, and for the most part, richly ornamented.

The following list embraces all the companies comprising the department.

CHAPTER XI.

INTERNAL IMPROVEMENTS.

PERHAPS in no particular has society changed to a greater extent, within the last fifty years, than in the mode and rapidity of travelling. In those days, a journey to New York or Baltimore, or even to Trenton, was both a long and tedious one, accomplished, for the most part, on horseback, or in wagons. In 1775, six weeks were occupied in going to and returning from Boston; and at a still later period, it took ten or twelve days to make the journey to New York, a distance now accomplished in four and a half hours. Then the post-carrier was the most important personage in the community; his arrival, announced by his well-known horn, was the cause of a much greater sensation in the community than that now excited by "the latest news from Europe."

The first improvement towards facilitating the communication between distant parts of the country, was the construction of turnpike roads. This subject early attracted the attention of the public in this State, particularly of the city of Philadelphia. In 1791, the Lancaster Turnpike Company was incorporated, and the road opened to travel in 1795. In 1804, the Germantown and Perkiomen Turnpike-road Company was chartered, and the road completed two years afterwards. The advantages of these enterprises, being the first of the kind in the United States, soon led to the establishment of others. At present there are no less than one hundred and seventy of these companies in Pennsylvania, having together over four thousand miles of turnpike road.

We learn from good authority, that, from the establishment of the first-named of these corporations, to the year 1824, the enormous sum of $22,000,000 was expended in this State on turnpikes, bridges, canals, and railroads. Thus, strange as it may appear to the general reader, Pennsylvania took, if not the first, an early and an active part in introducing that splendid system of internal improvement now so characteristic of the United States.

Before any of her sister States appreciated their importance, Pennsylvania had adopted an harmonious chain of canals and railroads, which, when fully completed, will intersect every part of the State, leaving no point at a greater distance from those great highways than, at most, thirty miles. If she failed at an earlier day in accomplishing so desirable an object, it was not for want of the spirit of enterprise, but rather, that she was too much in advance of the age. If for a time suspended, these improvements were not abandoned. Our citizens have again entered the field with renewed and determined energy.

The great Central or Pennsylvania Railroad, which is to bind this city to the fertile Valley of the Mississippi, and to open untold avenues of trade to our merchants and tradesmen, is now rapidly progressing towards completion. Nor is this work, vast though it be, all that now engrosses the attention of the citizens of Pennsylvania. Companies have been chartered, and means are being procured to complete those lines projected to reach the Lakes, the trade of which already exceeds in value the whole foreign commerce of the Union.

THE COLUMBIA AND PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.—Depot, Market, west of Broad Street; Directors' Office, Walnut, west of Third Street. This road, when completed, will form a continuous route from the west end of the Market Street Bridge, through Lancaster, Columbia, Harrisburg, Lewistown.

Hartford Life and Health Insurance Company.—Office No. 145 Chestnut Street. President, J. Dixon; Secretary, H. L. Miller; Agents, Gillett & Coggschall.

Philadelphia Life Insurance Company.—Office northwest corner Third and Walnut Streets. President, R. P. King; Secretary, F. Blackburne.

National Safety Insurance and Trust Company—Saving Fund.—Office 62 Walnut Street. President, Henry L. Benner; Secretary, William J. Reed.

Globe Insurance and Trust Company.—No. 312 North Second Street. Osmon Reed, President; Samuel Bonnell, Cashier. Directors—Osmon Reed, Howell Hopkins, Elijah Tyson, Henry Simons, Peter Fisher, George Butz, Jr., John Smith, James D. Whetham.

RAILROAD, COAL, AND CANAL COMPANIES.

Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company.—Office No. 82 South Second Street. President, James Cox; Secretary, Edwin Walter; Treasurer, Otis Ammidon.

The Little Schuylkill Navigation, Railroad, and Coal Company.—Office 80½ Walnut Street. President, F. N. Buck; Secretary and Treasurer, G. H. Newkirk.

Philadelphia, Germantown, and Norristown Railroad Company.—Office corner of Ninth and Green Streets. President, Wm. E. Morris; Treasurer, John F. Watson.

Buck Mountain Coal Company.—No. 82 Walnut Street. President, F. A. Comly; Secretary and Treasurer, Thos. H. Trotter.

Huntingdon, Hollidaysburg, and Pittsburg, to Beaver; thence through Salem, Masillon, Wooster, Mansfield, Columbus, Springfield, Dayton, to Cincinnati. A branch intersects this road at Salem, leading to Cleveland; another at Bellefonte, which will run through Indianapolis to Terre Haute in Indiana. This branch it is contemplated to carry through the State of Illinois to St. Louis, thence to Independence, where it will unite with the great Oregon route. The importance of this great Central or Pennsylvania Railroad to the prosperity of Philadelphia, cannot be too highly appreciated by her citizens.

PHILADELPHIA, READING, AND POTTSVILLE RAILROAD.—Depots, corner of Vine and Broad Streets, and corner of Cherry and Broad Streets. Directors' Office, Fourth below Walnut Street. This road commences at Broad and Vine Streets, thence on the east side of the river Schuylkill to the Columbia Bridge, where it crosses to the west side, thence following the river to Reading, Pottsville, Sunbury, Northumberland, and Williamsport.

This road is one of the most valuable in the State, running as it does through the richest coal region in Pennsylvania. It has, by its extensive means of transit, contributed to make our city the coal market of the Atlantic States. It is contemplated to extend a branch, one of great importance, too, from this road at Pottsville, to Elmira, where it will intersect the New York and Erie Railroad. When this project is carried out it will materially benefit the trade of Philadelphia, by securing, not only the custom and travel of the northern counties of Pennsylvania, but, to a great extent, that also of Western New York, Canada, and the Northwestern States. A branch leaves this road at the Schuylkill Falls, and crosses by a beautiful viaduct to the east bank, thence pursues an eastern course to Port Richmond.

Beaver Meadow Railroad and Coal Company.—Office No. 84 Walnut Street. President, W. W. Longstreth; Treasurer and Secretary, Lloyd Chamberlain. Capital $1,000,000.

Hazleton Coal Company.—No. 81 Walnut Street. President, Samuel Moore; Treasurer, Benjamin Davis. Capital $400,000.

Mine Hill and Schuylkill-Haven Railroad Company.—Office, Hall of the Franklin Institute. President, J. C. Cresson; Secretary and Treasurer, Samuel Mason.

North Branch Iron and Coal Company.—Office No. 76½ Walnut Street. President, Wm. H. Winder; Secretary, John S. Riddle; Treasurer, Samuel Ashmead.

Pennsylvania Railroad Company.—Office No. 70 Walnut Street. President, J. Edgar Thomson; Secretary, Thomas T. Firth; Treasurer, Geo. V. Bacon.

Tioga Railroad Company.—Office No. 25 Philadelphia Exchange. President, Joseph W. Ryerss; Treasurer and Secretary, A. E. Dougherty.

Harrisburg, Portsmouth, Mount Joy, and Lancaster Railroad Company. Office No. 95½ Walnut Street. President, Joseph Yeager; Secretary and Treasurer, George Taber.

Philadelphia and Havre De Grace Steam Tow-Boat Company.—Office 64½ Walnut Street. President, Wm. S. Smith; Secretary and Treasurer, P. Lesley.

Philadelphia and Lancaster Turnpike Road Company.—Office southeast corner Walnut and Third Streets (second floor). President, ———; Treasurer, Joseph Perot.

Frankford and Bristol Turnpike Road Company.—Office 64½ Walnut Street. Treasurer, R. P. Lardner.

Mill Creek and Mine Hill Navigation and Railroad Company.—Office, Library Street. President, J. Tucker; Secretary and Treasurer, M. Campbell.

Siskowit Mining Company of Michigan.—Office 130 Arch Street. President, Sol. Alter; Secretary and Treasurer, Jas. G. Clark.

Ontonagon Mining Company of Michigan.—Office 95½ Walnut Street. President, Clement Marsh; Secretary and Treasurer, Jos. H. Trotter.

Northwest Mining Company of Michigan.—Office 46½ Walnut Street. President, Jas. G. Clark; Secretary, John Fausset.

Eagle Gold Mining Company.—Office No. 8, back of 95½ Walnut Street. President, James G. Clark; Treasurer, J. H. Trotter.

PHILADELPHIA AND TRENTON RAILROAD.—Passengers by this road leave the foot of Walnut Street by steamboat, for Tacony, thence by railway through Bristol and Morrisville to Trenton; thence by the Trenton and New York Railroad, through Princeton, New Brunswick, and Newark, to Jersey City; thence by ferry to New York.

CAMDEN AND AMBOY RAILROAD.—This line leaves Philadelphia at Walnut Street wharf by ferry to Camden, thence by railway through Burlington, Bordentown, Hightstown, to Amboy; thence by steamboat, via the Raritan River, to New York. This route we recommend particularly to the tourist.

PHILADELPHIA, WILMINGTON, AND BALTIMORE RAILROAD.—Depot, at present, Market, near Eleventh Street. Directors' office, Library Street, between Fourth and Fifth Streets. This great southern route extends from Broad and Prime Streets, through Chester, Wilmington, Havre de Grace, Baltimore, Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Charleston, Savannah, Montgomery, and Mobile, to New Orleans.

NORRISTOWN AND GERMANTOWN RAILROAD.—Depot, Ninth and Green Streets. This road extends to Norristown, passing through Manayunk. About three miles north of the city, a branch leaves this road, and runs to Germantown.

WEST CHESTER RAILROAD, Depot, Broad near Race Street, extends from a point on the Columbia and Pennsylvania Railroad, about twenty-two miles from Philadelphia, to West Chester.

THE CITY RAILROAD, extends from the west side of the Schuylkill River, which it crosses by Market Street Bridge, to Third Street, down Third to Dock Street, thence to the Delaware River. A branch runs north and south on Broad Street, from Vine to South or Cedar Street.

SOUTHWARK RAILROAD, unites with the City Railroad, at Broad and South Streets, from whence it runs to Washington Street; then down that street to the Delaware River.

NORTHERN LIBERTIES AND SPRING GARDEN, or WILLOW STREET RAILROAD, leaves the Reading Railroad at Broad Street, and runs down Willow Street to the Delaware River. A branch up Ninth Street connects this road to the Norristown Railroad.

STEAMBOATS leave Philadelphia daily for New York, Baltimore, Trenton, Wilmington, Salem, Chester, Newcastle, Bridgeton, Burlington, and Bristol. A line also runs, during the bathing season, to Cape May. Nor must we forget the popular line of steamboats plying on the romantic Schuylkill; from Fairmount to the Columbia Bridge, Laurel Hill, and Manayunk.

FERRY-BOATS run every half hour to Gloucester and Red Bank, and every hour to Port Richmond, Bridesburg, and Tacony. Those to Camden run every five minutes. None of these ferry-boats charge more than six and a quarter cents per trip.

BRIDGES.—There are eight Bridges in the vicinity of Philadelphia.

THE PHILADELPHIA, WILMINGTON, AND BALTIMORE RAILROAD BRIDGE, at Gray's Ferry. This is a drawbridge; one side of it is appropriated to carriages and foot passengers. It has lately been strengthened by the erection of new arches, to allow the passage of locomotives, which the Company design to run to their new depot at Broad and Prime Streets.

THE MARKET STREET RAILROAD BRIDGE, formerly THE PERMANENT BRIDGE, was altered in 1850, so as to allow the City Railroad to form a connexion with the Columbia and Pennsylvania Railroad. The structure is supported by two massive stone piers, and two abutments, with wing-walls. The western pier was sunk, at a great expense, to the depth of forty feet below mean tide. Over seven thousand five hundred tons of stone were used in its construction. The railway occupies the north side, the south side being appropriated to carriages. Outside of each way, are accommodations for foot passengers, protected by substantial railings. It is free of toll.

THE FAIRMOUNT BRIDGE.—The first bridge erected on this site was a beautiful and unique structure. It consisted of a single arch, of three hundred and forty feet span, resting on abutments of stone. This span was said to have been at least ninety feet longer than that of any other bridge in the world. After its destruction by fire, the present elegant suspension bridge was erected by the county, in 1841, at a cost of $55,000. It is much admired for its beauty and simplicity, as well as the ingenuity of its construction.

The additional bridges are, THE COLUMBIA BRIDGE, THE RICHMOND RAILROAD BRIDGE, at the Schuylkill Falls; one at Manayunk, one at Flat Rock, above Manayunk, and the NORRISTOWN RAILROAD BRIDGE, over the Wissahiccon River.

THE TURNPIKE ROADS are THE LANCASTER TURNPIKE, THE GERMANTOWN AND PERKIOMEN TURNPIKE, THE FRANKFORD AND BRISTOL TURNPIKE, THE RIDGE TURNPIKE, and THE CHELTENHAM and WILLOW GROVE TURNPIKE ROADS. These roads have all been constructed by incorporated companies.

THE PRINCIPAL HOTELS.

The Hotels of Philadelphia excel in the elegance, comfort, and convenience of their interior arrangement and accommodation.

THE UNITED STATES HOTEL, Chestnut Street, opposite the Custom House, is one of the largest and best-managed establishments in the City.

JONES'S HOTEL, Chestnut Street, between Sixth and Seventh Streets. This house combines all that is requisite to render the stranger's sojourn pleasant and desirable.

THE COLUMBIA HOUSE, situated in Chestnut Street, opposite the last-named, is also an excellent house; its enterprising proprietors spare no effort or expense to render it one of the best in Philadelphia.

THE WASHINGTON HOUSE, Chestnut Street, between Seventh and Eighth Streets. The accommodations of this superior hotel are widely known and appreciated, by the travelling public.

THE GIRARD HOUSE.

THE GIRARD HOUSE, Chestnut Street, between Eighth and Ninth Streets, exceeds, in its architectural character and arrangements, any similar establishment in Philadelphia, and is one of the largest and most magnificent hotels in the United States. The interior is particularly deserving of attention, being, not only a model, in point of convenience of arrangement, but ornamented in most excellent taste, and finished and furnished in a degree of splendour rarely excelled.

The architect, John M'Arthur, Esq., has happily combined elegance with the richest decoration throughout the whole building. The accommodations are also in keeping with the architectural character of the house. These, with the advantages of its location, will no doubt, render "The Girard" a distinguished and fashionable resort.

tions in the city. The reputation of "The Merchants'" can be estimated by the fact, that its "list" is always full.

THE FRANKLIN HOUSE, Chestnut between Third and Fourth Streets, has lately undergone extensive alterations, and is now fitted up in superb style.

THE AMERICAN HOTEL, Chestnut Street opposite the State House, has also undergone extensive alterations. It now extends from Chestnut to Minor Street, and has accommodations for over three hundred boarders.

CONGRESS HALL, Chestnut below Third Street. This house, though boasting of no architectural beauty, is yet an extensive hotel, having accommodations for over two hundred and fifty inmates. CONGRESS HALL, on Third above Chestnut Street, is part of the same establishment.

In addition to these, there are THE UNION HOTEL (a new establishment), Arch west of Third Street; THE EAGLE HOTEL, Third above Race Street; THE CITY HOTEL, Third below Arch Street; THE RED LION HOTEL, Market above Sixth Street; THE MANSION HOUSE, Market and Eleventh Street; THE MADISON HOUSE, Second below Arch Street; THE MOUNT VERNON HOUSE, Second above Arch Street; THE WHITE SWAN, Race above Third Street; BLOODGOOD'S HOTEL, South Wharves; RIDGWAY'S HOTEL, Market and North Wharves; JONES'S HOTEL, Dock below Third Street; BULL'S HEAD HOTEL, Sixth above Callowhill Street, with many others;—all extensive establishments, affording every comfort and accommodation to their inmates, that can possibly be desired,—so that the traveller need not fear making a bad selection.

traveller, looking back through the scenes which he has passed, we view with regret, many places of interest previously disregarded, which now rise before us, when the power to enjoy them can never return.

Old buildings, ruins, or places rendered memorable by scenes of patriotism, or as being the homes of genius or virtue, have ever been held in veneration by the people of all ages and nations. With what emotions do we view the battle-fields of the Revolution? With what admiration do we tread "those halls" consecrated to undying fame, by the eloquence and wisdom of a Washington, Adams, Franklin, Jefferson, Henry, and hosts of others, whose words and deeds elevate the name of America? To us, these places and scenes awake, not one idea only, but a long line of glowing thoughts, which, by their pleasing associations, produce to the mind infinite delight.

Among the few memorials of olden days still remaining in this city, is

THE PENN COTTAGE, situated in Lætitia Court, Market Street between Front and Second Streets. It is memorable as being one of the first, if not the first brick building erected in Philadelphia, and also as being the residence of William Penn, during his first visit to this country, in 1682-83.

The area originally attached to the property, extended from Front to Second Street, and from Market Street south to the present Black Horse Alley. The space to Front Street was laid out as a lawn, and was shaded by a luxuriant growth of forest trees, interspersed with shrubbery. On the Second Street side was the garden, containing many choice and rare fruit trees. The principal entrance to "The Mansion," was by an avenue leading to Second Street; another extended down the present court to Market Street. The first-named is now occupied, for the most part, by Harris's Court,—a filthy, ill-ventilated place, principally tenanted by poor families.

THE PENN COTTAGE.

The building, of which our illustration is a correct view, as it existed in better days, is at present very much dilapidated, and falling rapidly into ruin.

THE SLATE-ROOF HOUSE, another interesting relic, derives its name from the fact, that for several years after its erection it was the only building covered with that material in Philadelphia. The year of its erection is uncertain; however, it was prior to 1700, for we find William Penn and his family occupying it, during his second visit, in that year. In it John Penn, "the American," was born.

"The Slate-Roof" subsequently became a noted boarding-house. Within its walls, General Forbes, second in command and eventually successor to the unfortunate General Braddock, breathed his last, and from it he was borne to his long home, with imposing military honours. At a later period, it was the temporary abode of John Adams, John Hancock, and many other distinguished members of the first Congress, and also of Baron De Kalb, who fell in the cause of American Independence, at the battle of Camden. In it, too, the brave but eccentric General Lee died. His remains were interred in Christ Church yard, alongside of the present Church Alley.

This house, once so honoured and renowned, now, alas ! wears a sadly-neglected appearance,—the front rooms of the lower story being occupied as a huckster's shop, and those in the rear as a saw manufactory, while the upper stories are used by a cabinet-maker as a varnish-room.

From its location, corner of Norris's Alley and Second Street, unless preserved by some public-spirited individuals, this old memorial will soon be among the things that were.

THE OLD LONDON COFFEE-HOUSE, southwest corner of Front and Market Streets. This building was erected in 1702, and occupied as a public house in 1754. For many years it was the most noted place of resort for strangers, as well as citizens, in Philadelphia. Here were held all auctions of horses, carriages, produce, &c.; and here, strange as it may now appear to citizens of the present time, negro men, women, and children, were bought and sold as slaves.

The premises are now occupied, the lower story as a tobacco store, and the upper as a barber's shop.

LOXLEY HOUSE, situated on the corner of Little Dock and Second Street, derives its name from its first proprietor, who is celebrated by Mr. Graydon in his "Memoirs" (an excellent book of the olden time, an edition of which has lately been issued by Lindsay & Blakiston), as a military chieftain of fame during the "Paxton War" excitement.

It derives its principal interest, however, from having been the residence, during the Revolution, of Lydia Darrah, the story of whose patriotism and devotion in conveying to General Washington timely information of the secret attack which the British meditated upon the American lines, near Germantown, is known to every school-boy throughout the country.

The building is at present occupied as a clothing depot.

CARPENTERS' HALL.—This edifice is situated in Carpenters' Court, running south from Chestnut below Fourth Street. This celebrated building will ever be cherished by the friends of American Independence. Within its walls, the first Congress of the United Colonies of North America assembled,—a Congress whose fame is the watchword of nations—a Congress of men who loved Liberty for Truth's sake—thoroughly independent, characterized by that self-denial which disdains the false and transient reputation of the day. Their wisdom and eloquence, as legislators, their skill, heroism, and judgment on the battle-field, and their devotion to the sacred cause of their country's independence, as men, have never been excelled, either in ancient or modern days. Is it surprising, then, that this Hall, the witness of that "Union" which constitutes the glory of the present age, is held dear to all friends of rational Freedom?

The building is of brick, two stories high, surmounted by a cupola. The façade is in the Roman style of architecture. The principal entrance leads to the Assembly Room, in which Congress first met. It is now occupied as an auction mart. In the second story, the various committees had their apartments; they are at present used for the storage of furniture, &c.

Carpenters' Hall was originally erected by the Association of House Carpenters. It is, we believe, still their property; though seldom used for the purpose for which it was intended, viz., the meetings of the Society.

THE INDIAN QUEEN HOTEL, Fourth Street between Market and Chestnut, was once renowned as "the hotel" of Philadelphia. Here, for some time during the Revolution, Thomas Jefferson resided. His chamber was the southwest room in the second story. It was long supposed that he wrote the Declaration of Independence in this apartment. This interesting fact, however, was settled by the late Dr. Mease, to whom Mr. Jefferson stated, on inquiry, that when he wrote that instrument he resided in HULTSHEIMER'S NEW HOUSE, at the southwest corner of Seventh and Market Streets. This building, sacred from this fact, is now occupied, the lower story as a clothing depot, and the upper by a printing office and meeting rooms for the United Order of American Mechanics. The very chamber occupied by Mr. Jefferson is now the office of the secretary of that association.

In addition to the above few relics, the reader will find many others, together with much valuable information respecting the early settlement and history of the city, in "The Annals of Philadelphia," by J. F. Watson. To those who love to dwell upon "old-time recollections," and to trace the progress of our beautiful city, this book cannot be too highly recommended. Mr. A. Hart, publisher, Philadelphia, has lately issued a handsome edition of this valuable work, in two octavo volumes.

THE FARQUHAR BUILDING.

FARQUHAR BUILDING, Walnut below Third Street.—This elegant structure, erected by the gentleman whose name it bears, forms a prominent object of attraction in the vicinity of its location. The building extends to Pear Street, and is four stories high; the front is of brown stone, constructed in the Italian style of architecture. Its proportions and decorations have been much and deservedly admired, especially so, when contrasted with some of the productions of bad taste, with which our city, within the last few years, has been disgraced;—this remark applies particularly to private edifices. In our edition for 1853, we propose appropriating a portion of the work to private buildings, mansions, &c., noticing, however, only those

At a Meeting of the Controllers of Public Schools, First District, of Pennsylvania, held at the Controllers' Chamber, on Tuesday, September 10th, 1850, the following Resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That the work entitled "MY LITTLE GEOGRAPHY, by MRS. L. C. TUTHILL," be introduced, to be used in the Primary Schools of the District.

worthy of public attention for their beauty, novelty, convenience, or substantial construction.

The Farquhar Building is occupied by various insurance companies, agencies, brokers, &c., for which purpose it is well adapted, no less from its situation than convenience of internal arrangement. Among its numerous offices is that of Mr. Farquhar, its enterprising proprietor, and also that of J. G. Holbroke, Esq., Fire, Life, and Marine Insurance Agent.

In conclusion, we assure our readers that no exertion has been wanting on our part, to render the present edition perfect and correct; but the multiplicity of objects which the work embraces, renders it impossible to prevent some errors or omissions. Corrections and suggestions of every kind that may tend to enhance the value of the work, particularly notices of improvements, new institutions, and associations, together with the annual reports of the various benevolent, literary, scientific religious, and other societies, are earnestly solicited.

The encouragement bestowed upon our efforts in the present volume, inspires us with renewed energy and determination to render the succeeding edition equally worthy of
